Handicapped at Rippling River differ with county on living conditions

By ROBERT MISKIMON

WITHIN A FEW WEEKS, the Monterey County Housing Authority will begin a $2 million remodeling project designed to turn around losses of $10,000 a month at Rippling River—the Carmel Valley home for the handicapped.

Key to this fiscal metamorphosis will be a shift in philosophy toward encouragement of greater independence among residents, according to housing authority director Bruce Moore.

Changes in the physical structure of the facility will involve reduction of the total number of units from 150 to 79, plus the installation of individual kitchen units in each of the apartments.

The quad-type structure of the living areas, which now have four bedrooms facing into a common living room, will be altered to create individual apartments, Moore explained.

Housing authority directors awarded a $2 million contract last week to Lewis C. Nelson & Sons of Selma, Calif. for the remodeling, which will take about nine months to complete.

The project, which will be underwritten by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, is the most sweeping change at the facility which the county housing authority purchased last year from HUD for $700,000.

At the time the county took over the facility, losses averaged $25,000 per month, Moore said. Other measures which have been taken in recent months to trim costs include the elimination of maid service and reduction in meal service.

When the county took over the project, three hot meals per day were served to tenants. Losses from that services amounted to about $9,000 per month, according to housing authority figures.

In the last month, meal service has been cut to two and one-half meals per day. That includes a breakfast at 10 a.m., a supper at 4 p.m. and a brown-bag snack meal which tenants can take to their rooms.

The 24-hour-a-day switchboard service, which cost $4,100 per month when the housing authority took over management of the project, has been eliminated.

Instead, the county has installed individual telephones in residents' quarters and pays the monthly bills, which amount to between $400 to $500, Moore said.

"We're trying to create a higher degree of independence," Moore said. "This is a facility that is exclusively for the handicapped. It's not a nursing home; we have no intentions of getting into that kind of business."

"After the remodeling is complete, we will be for folks who are able to provide for their own care."

ALTHOUGH THERE WILL BE a certain number of "holdovers" from the previous management of the facility who can't fully provide for themselves once the transition is made, they will be allowed to remain and will be assisted through the Department of Social Services, Moore said.

The two and one-half meals per day will be continued throughout the remodeling project, but a tenant committee has been established to decide whether residents want to continue a regular meal service after the work is completed, Moore explained.

"The food service must be self-

letters

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters are not accepted.

Appreciated cover

Many mahalos for your cover page September 24, 1981.

Glenn Bernhardt did a yeoman's job depicting all the various comic strip characters we all know so well. It was fun to figure them all out, and I believe we did. Glenn's contribution to our community and the artists involved is greatly appreciated. This page goes on our Board of Important Carmel Happenings.

A word about winning

Dear Editor:

There are all kinds of victories! If you watch the scoreboard at a Carmel High School football game, you may feel Carmel hasn't had any. But to us interested parents who have faithfully attended the games for the past few years, we see a great victory on the field.

From a school team which wasn't allowed to complete all of its games last season because of unsportsmanlike conduct, to a team this year that has received less than a dozen penalties in four games...that's a remarkable victory!

It says a lot about the quality of coaching and care these young men at Carmel High are receiving. They are learning lessons in moral courage, self-respect, honesty, patience, and good sportsmanship. These qualities will last much longer than the score of a game.

The foundation being laid at the high school in athletics is a victory affecting the whole school. The score board will prove this in due time.

Keep up the good work, Coach!

Cancun meeting important

Dear Editor:

If the world were one village — a village like Carmel but with only 100 people — six of the residents would possess half of the community's wealth. The other 94 would be forced to exist on the remaining half. Seventy people would be illiterate, with no access to the information and technology possessed by the rich. Twenty-five people — over half of them children — would suffer from malnutrition year in and year out. If Carmel were truly this village of 100, we would find it intolerable to live here, whether as one of the affluent few or as one of the impoverished majority.

The world, however, is not a village of 100. It is a planet with 4.4 billion inhabitants, 800 million of which live on the edge of survival in absolute poverty. The chronically hungry have in common that they all live in the developing countries (known as the "South" because these countries tend to lie at or south of the equator). The well-fed, affluent educated tend to live in the developed, industrialized countries known as the "North."

The gap between North and South is wide and growing wider. It is now so wide, in fact, that the very survival of humanity is imperiled. A report on development made by a special commission headed by Willy Brandt (West Germany's former Chancellor) declares that "at the beginning of the 1980's, the world community faces much greater dangers than at any time since the Second World War." The report concludes that the search for solutions can no longer be considered "an act of benevolence" but has become a "condition of mutual survival."

We all know that the South needs the North. What is not so well known is that the North needs the South too. (Some experts even assert that we in the North need the South more than the South needs the North!) We are as two parts of the same body: the health of one affects the health of the other. Just as surely as the Carmel of 100 could not continue to function in the face of the growing gap between rich and poor, so has the time come when our planet cannot.

The Brandt Report goes on to recommend a summit conference limited to some 25 world leaders, the purpose of which would be "to take the first steps toward committing themselves and their people to a global agreement for the benefit of the whole world." The Cancun Summit is an outcome of this Brandt Commission recommendation.

Cancun, Mexico, is an island off the Yucatan Peninsula on the Caribbean coast. Leaders of 22 nations chosen to represent a cross-section of the world's countries will meet there Oct. 22 and 23. Included are the U.S., Canada, France, Great Britain, Bangladesh, Guyana and India. It is hoped that Cancun will provide an informal arena within which the wealthy industrial nations of the North and the impoverished developing nations of the South can find ways to address the divisions which exist between them.

It is vitally important that the Cancun delegates know that committed individuals throughout the world support them in the historic process in which they are about to engage. This letter is my attempt to inform people of the significance of this event and to extend an invitation to respond to the needs of others as partners determined to have the entire planet work.

Express your commitment to this process of negotiation by a supportive letter to the President, sharing your personal concerns about the issues at stake. We have the opportunity to create a world in which the words "North" and "South" are geographic terms only, no longer useful descriptions of our one world.

In the words of the Brandt Report, "We have to lift ourselves above the immediate constrictions and offer the world a plan and a vision of hope without which nothing substantial can be achieved." Please help by supporting this mission of hope.

Sincerely yours,

Dr. Susan E. Holmes

More on humanism

Dear Editor:

Societies in all times contain individuals like Ms. Strauch, the anti-humanist "somebody" whose ear is tuned to God's word. The projective mechanism by which these people impute to humanity at large their own feelings of inadequacy is interesting from a clinical point of view.

Truth to say, it is also sad from a human point of view. Persons such as these become more than objects of scientific curiosity or of pity, however, when times become bad socially and economically; at times when, in Yeats' words, "...the best lack all conviction and the worst are filled with passionate intensity".

The one thing we — all of us — have for sure is our span of time on earth. During that span, mankind must live in societies. Its societies it must always seek to design and sustain by attitudes of tolerance, reason and, yes, humaneness. When these orientations are neglected or forgotten, it is then that fear, superstition, and the blind self-righteousness of those who listen to voices can drive mankind back down dark corridors.

Although it is a commonplace, it must again be said in a context such as this, that twentieth century man has reached a nexus. He no longer has the luxury his predecessors had of being able to ignore wisdom and absorb barbarism and still hope to survive. He now has the Big Club. And unless somehow, somehow, he learns to conduct himself reasonably and with a sense of what actually needs to be done to insure at least minimal survival, the Big Club will descend.

Then, for all our philosophies, for all our science and technology, for all our arts and letters, for all our aspirations and hopes, indeed, for all our quibbles over God or gods, for all our nobility and ignobility, for all that human beings are, have been, or ever will be in the seven ages of man, and for all that has formed the essential footprint of mankind on this earth, we will have bought the abyss.

Worthless whirlybirds?

Dear Editor:

The Army's expensive helicopters aren't worth a straw in combat says the September edition of Washington Monthly.

Fuel-guzzling helicopters are very effective at terrorizing helpless women and children, as is being done in places like El Salvador, but Army pilots insist that copters would be blown out of European skies within the first 30 minutes of combat.

Although our Army lost 10,000 copters in Vietnam, this costly lesson was never learned by the Russians in Afghanistan where their cumbersome helicopters were often knocked down by a single shot from a farmer's rifle. Despite this, our Army still operates 9,000 copters as compared to the Soviets' 5,200.

They may be ineffective, but their cost is nothing to sneeze at. The current price for one model is over $15 million and NASA just developed a new one which would cost over

We need a strong Israel for Middle East stability

By AL EISNER

WHY DOES BEGIN have to be so crafty?" a friend asked at lunch last week. "When he visited here, he readily agreed to certain things, but changed his tune when he went back home."

Another dining companion asked: "Why don't we get on with selling those AWACs to Saudi Arabia? They're friends ... aren't they selling us oil?"

Because Judy and I traveled to the Middle East late last year, we have become the resident "experts" on that area.

Our travels included a historic interview with the late President Anwar Sadat of Egypt which was published in the Pine Cone/Outlook in April.

So, I tried to explain to my luncheon companions that Israel exists under a state of siege. None of her Arab neighbors except Egypt will recognize the right of Israel to exist. The "survival" mentality obliges the Israeli leaders to adapt to rapidly changing conditions.

I explained also that Israel was the only democracy in the Middle East, and that its military power was very important to United States interests in the area. During our visits with high Israeli government officials, it was pointed out repeatedly that many of the Arab nations surrounding Israel were unstable, and could topple at any moment. They pointed to the revolution in Iran as an example of an autocratic regime with unlimited power that crumbled because of internal strife.

Former Prime Minister Itzhak Rabin was not optimistic about chances for peace. "What if Sadat is assassinated?" he asked us.

The unthinkable has now happened. Anwar Sadat is dead. While his successor has assured the world that Egypt will fulfill its role in the peace process, the instability of the only "friend" of Israel in the region has the Israelis worried.

What of the AWACs? U.S. Senators opposed to the sale of the radar-equipped planes to Saudi Arabia are worried that the super-secret planes could fall into the hands of revolutionaries — or worse, the Soviets — if the Saudi regime falls. Recent events in Iran and Egypt support their position.

They are also aware that Saudi Arabia is bankrolling the Palestine Liberation Organization and other extreme groups that threaten peace in the Middle East. The profits reaped by the Saudis from the oil we buy is used to finance terrorism. If the Saudis cut off their support, the P.L.O. would cease to exist.

In the face of all this, it is evident that there are no easy answers to the long-standing problems of the Middle East. We do know, however, that as the only parliamentary government in the entire region, and as a constant (although sometimes prickly) friend of the U.S., it is in our best interests to keep Israel strong.

The sale of AWACs to an autocratic regime could further de-stabilize the security of the entire region. The AWACs could expose every military move the Israelis make.

The Israelis have demonstrated that they will take strong action when they feel their vital security is at stake. They destroyed the Iraqi nuclear reactor when their intelligence told them of the threat.

The tiny nation should not be abandoned or placed in an untenable position. With its presumed nuclear capability, a cornered Israel could take action that would detonate World War III.

The Mayor's Report

Why such little interest in General Plan?

By BARNEY LAIOLO

I find it is necessary to repeat the subject of the General Plan once more. I attended the breakfast meeting last Thursday at the La Playa Hotel where the speaker of the day was a representative from Earthmetrics, the consultants hired to do our General Plan. This meeting was well publicized.

Somewhere along the line there is either a lack of interest or communication, for there were only approximately 25 people in attendance. There was a great lack of questions from the group and apparently not too many were sure about what questions to ask.

$47 million. If we add support costs for training, pilots, fuel, airfields, control towers, we're dealing with huge sums indeed.

Concerned taxpayers are lucky to have in the White House an ex-cavalry officer who knows how hard it was to pull the feedbag away from the horsed cavalry after WWI.

Pulling the choppers off today's sky cavalry will be even harder unless Congress and the President work together before America goes broke from military waste.

It doesn't make sense to entrust our security on worthless whirlybirds.

Thomas J. McGrath
625 Filmore St.
Monterey, CA 93940

It must be remembered that these public meetings are primarily designed for input from all citizens to express their ideas and suggestions on any part of the General Plan. The topics to be covered are parking, housing, land use, noise problems, traffic flow, annexation and significant buildings.

The information gathered from these meetings will provide the day-to-day guide required in our local Land Use Plan.

I cannot express how important it will be to receive this valuable information to help our consultants arrive at a practical solution to this plan.

The next meeting for public input is tonight, Oct. 8 at 7 p.m. at City Hall. I urge all who have an interest in the future of Carmel-by-the-Sea to be there and express their thoughts.

Tomorrow morning Doug Peterson and I will join representatives from the Barracudas and the high school on a visit to Independence High School in San Jose to inspect the recreation program operating there so that we may be better informed on how to proceed with our recreation program. Will keep you informed on this topic later.

Are you smiling? I am!

supporting," he said. "Whatever the tenants decide will have to be on a paid basis. We anticipate having a prepared meal service once a day, with tenants using their kitchens the rest of the time.

"We have some holdovers from previous days," Moore said. "Those who can't provide for themselves. They will be welcome, so long as they can arrange for a helper through the social services department.

"We would like to get three or four persons using the same person. Although the place never was for the severely handicapped, the previous management did take in some people who were severely handicapped."

Rippling River was the focus of much controversy and public awareness when the county housing authority took over the facility in January of 1980. The facility had passed from private ownership to HUD before the county assumed control.

"There was a lot of confusion and a lot of concern when we took it over, because there was another group who wanted to take it over," Moore said. "The federal government decided they wanted us to take it over."

Rippling River has never been fully occupied in the five years of its operation. There are 31 tenants there now. Capacity is 150 persons. About 60 percent of the residents are under the age of 62, and 40 percent are senior citizens.

Once the remodeling is completed, the facility will be exclusively for the low-income handicapped. All residents qualify for public housing but not all are welfare recipients, Moore said. Rents are scaled at 25 percent of income.

"We will offer those who are there now rights of continued occupancy," Moore said.

One apparent dilemma which faces Rippling River is the ability of low-income persons to contract for meal services.

"Low-income people can't afford to have their meals prepared for them," he said. "We will allow the tenants to determine the kind of meal services they want, on a self-supporting basis."

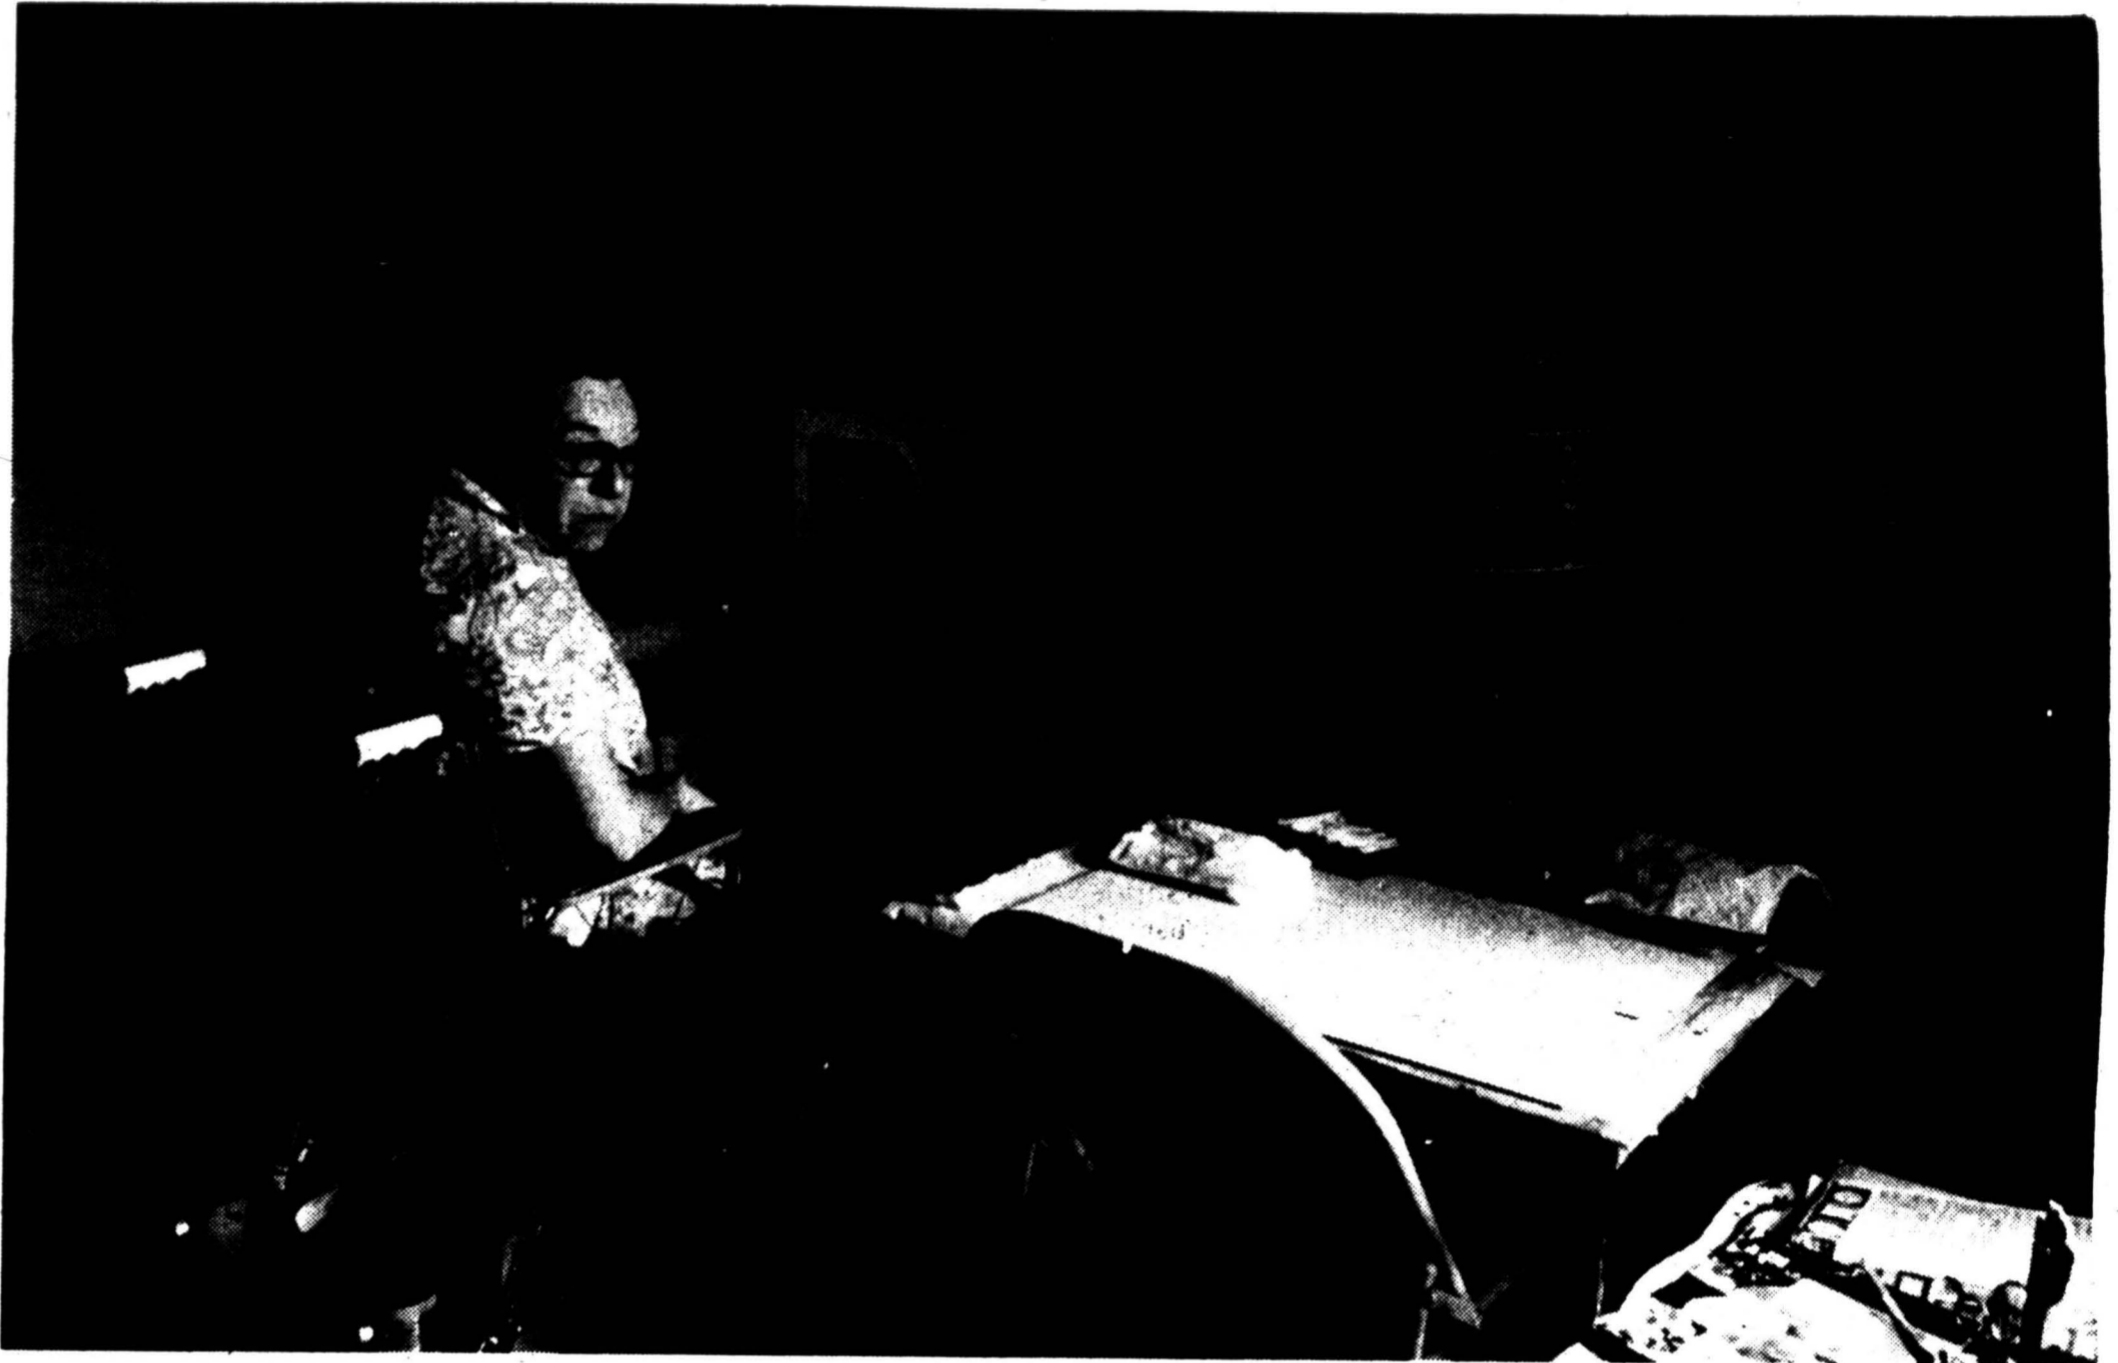

ONE OF THE SAVINGS which the housing authority has realized since it took over Rippling River has been through reduction in staff.

"There were 30 staff members and 25 residents when we took it over," Moore said. "Now there are 30 residents and seven staff members."

The plan to provide two and one-half, instead of three meals, per day has enabled the county to operate its kitchen with only one shift of workers.

"Some folks can't provide for themselves, and we will continue to provide meal services for those who can't. Nobody's going to go hungry."

But one five-year resident of Rippling River believes the housing authority isn't telling the whole story when it says it wants to make the place self-sustaining.

HANDICAPPED resident Mrs. Ethel Costagliola keeps a small refrigerator in her room, because she feels the quality of food provided tenants is inferior, and to keep a supply of fresh fruit on hand. She said many residents are afraid to speak out about conditions for fear of reprisals by management. (Alan McEwen photo).

Mrs. Ethel Costagliola, who has resided at Rippling River since it opened, believes the long-range goal of the county is to convert the facility into a residence for the elderly and infirm—not the handicapped.

"The county housing authority has always talked a good line," she told the Pine Cone/Outlook. "I personally think the whole idea is to make this place a low-income project for the elderly."

"There are many handicapped people who will not be able to stay here when this remodeling is done. I don't know anybody here who likes these changes. The politicians have got to know that people are watching what's going on."

Mrs. Costagliola welcomes having her own kitchen, but wonders whether she can make full use of it without some assistance.

"I can only carry one bag of groceries in my wheelchair," she said. "As it is now, we don't have any bus service nights or weekends, and if we're not here at 10 a.m. or 4 p.m. we don't get meals."

Quality of food has deteriorated since the housing authority commenced its two and one-half meal regimen, according to Mrs. Costagliola.

"Most of the time the bag meal is two slices of bread, sometimes with a slice of baloney between them. People may be fed enough food, but they're not being fed the right food."

"The diet is extremely rich in carbohydrates. There's a lot of sauces and desserts. There's nothing fresh. The vegetables are frozen, and there's no choice on the menu. You just come and eat what they give you.

"I personally think the whole idea is to make this place a low-income project for the elderly."

"All of these little things make you feel like you're nobody, like you don't belong. The only outlet the people have is the crafts room twice a week. Most of the time, people just hang around and watch TV."

Mrs. Costagliola said she is distressed over the fact the office is closed sometimes when she tries to pick up her mail, and feels there is a general lack of concern about tenants.

"The office is closed very often," she said. "If I ride up there in my wheelchair to get my mail and it's locked, I can't tell you how frustrating it is. There are lots of times when the office is closed and unattended."

DESPITE THE FACT the county housing authority has solicited the involvement of tenants in deciding what kind of meal service to offer, Mrs. Costagliola feels "most of the people are afraid to talk."

"This was the first place of its kind in the country," she said. "It could have been a tremendous success. The question has to be asked: why? Institutionalization is not the answer."

Site Manager Brenda Thomas feels the changes at Rippling River will benefit tenants, and thinks most residents appreciate them.

"Some tenants are upset," she conceded. "But it hasn't been a hostile situation. With Rippling River being where it is, it's always been a problem. These changes will definitely enhance it for the people."

The isolation of the facility has exacerbated Rippling River's problems, particularly the problem of staffing, she said.

"Even with the changes, there will still be a problem with getting services from agencies such as the Department of Social Services and Volunteers in Action. If we were in a more central location, our problems wouldn't be so bad."

Rippling River is located approximately 200 yards east of Carmel Valley Village, on Carmel Valley Road.

Meetings, conducted by housing authority director Bruce Moore, have been held irregularly with tenants as changes were made at Rippling River, but "there's never been much said," according to the site manager.

"As a whole, tenants are not very verbal. When HUD operated the place, they provided everything you could think of, so that residents became totally dependent. This is what the changes are all about."

"In a situation where you have a person who is normal and who becomes disabled, the first thing they're rehabilitated to do is to become independent."

To fill in the gaps after the remodeling, consideration has been given to provision of housing for one or two aides to live on the premises, as an incentive to work there, Ms. Thomas said.

AN OUTREACH EFFORT will be mounted as soon as the changes have been made, in an attempt to fill up the facility with tenants.

"The place has never filled up since I've been manager because of the location, the types of rooms that don't allow any privacy, and the fact we can't get aides. There hasn't

Council split on restaurant approval

By ROBERT MISKIMON

THE CARMEL CITY COUNCIL turned back two challenges to recently-enacted moratoriums and approved a third Monday.

The council denied Paul Laub's appeal of a Board of Adjustments decision which upheld the building inspector's denial of a building permit for Paradise Mall on Ocean Avenue.

It also voted to return to the Board of Adjustments a denial of a use permit to allow Kati and Alan Lewis to operate a restaurant at the northwest corner of Dolores and 7th.

And the council enacted a watered-down version of an urgency moratorium which will require city design review of structures built in areas recently annexed from the county.

Laub's appeal challenged an urgency ordinance enacted April 7 by the council to prohibit the use of any area smaller than 250 sq. ft. for retail purposes.

The Lewis appeal challenged applicability of an urgency ordinance passed Aug. 4 to halt the increase of non-resident oriented businesses while the general plan is updated.

The council acted on the Lewis appeal after a lengthy and emotional public hearing during which several speakers urged favorable consideration for the Lewises.

The couple own and operate a restaurant adjacent to the location of the Dolores Street Pharmacy. They had hoped to open a second restaurant there when the pharmacy closes this month.

The Board of Adjustments denied the use permit request Aug. 26, based upon a recommendation by its Land Use Committee.

One of the reasons for that denial was a finding that the restaurant use would increase water consumption from the present 50 gallons per day at the pharmacy to 1,450 gallons per day with a restaurant.

The board also found traffic and parking problems associated with the use permit, and decided another restaurant should be prohibited under the moratorium.

"The only question is whether the Lewises, whom you know, or some other operator, whom you don't know, will take over there," said Thomas Jamison, attorney for the Lewises. "There are special circumstances in this matter in that most of the action on this application took place before the moratorium."

Council members were presented with a letter from a dishwasher manufacturer in Santa Clara to the effect that water usage at the restaurant would be only 4.5 gallons per seat, per day.

Planning Director Robert Griggs told the council in a memo that the restaurant would increase water use six times over the present use.

Councilwoman Helen Arnold wondered whether the projected dinner price of $15 would be compatible with a resident-oriented business.

"WE HAVE A VERY high poverty percentage in Carmel," Mrs. Arnold said. "How residentially-oriented will it be with a $15 price?"

"What we're dealing with is an ordinance that's in effect," said Councilman Mike Brown. "It would be a mistake to think we're dealing with the Lewises. We're looking at an increase in water use from 50 gallons a day to 600 gallons per day."

City Atty. George Brehmer said the use permit could be granted if the council could find the restaurant "reasonably consistent with what the general plan revision will be."

"This is a land use problem," remarked Les Gross of Carmel. "Are you going to back down on your land use moratorium and run the citizens out of town? That is not a locally-oriented business. There are 70 other restaurants in town."

Planning Commissioner Chairman Robert Stephenson told the council it is "doubtful" the revised general plan would permit more restaurants in Carmel.

"If we keep overruling the planning commission we will find it increasingly difficult to get good people to serve on a commission," said Mrs. Arnold. "If we say we're wrong, it will put every other moratorium we've ever passed into question."

"I personally feel we have enough restaurants and I suggest this go back to the Board of Adjustments so they can consider this with all the information we have," Brown said.

Brown's motion passed 3-2, with Councilmen Howard Brunn and Frank Lloyd opposed.

Council action to deny Laub's appeal was unanimous, and was taken with very little discussion.

Hugo Gerstl, attorney for Laub, pointed out what he called vague language in the moratorium against small retail spaces and said the ordinance shouldn't be applied to Paradise Mall.

"Mr. Laub's contention is that the ordinance does not apply to the Paradise," Gerstl said. "As early as 1974, there were subleases on that property which were the equivalent of the Laub Paradise. There were 13 businesses there; there was a merchandise mart operating prior to the ordinance."

Gerstl said the language of the ordinance pertaining to a requirement for at least 250 sq. ft. for any retail use should be construed to cover basement storage space used by retailers at Paradise Mall, since in-lieu parking fees were paid based on the total area.

"I don't feel it's appropriate to get into a discussion of the merits of a court case that's still pending," advised City Administrator Doug Peterson.

City Atty. George Brehmer told the council that if the building inspector had approved Laub's plans, it would have been a violation of the moratorium.

Council agreed and voted down the appeal 5-0.

A ONE-YEAR moratorium which requires city design review of residential construction within areas recently annexed to the city was approved 4-1. Mayor Barley Laiolo said he agreed with the intent of the ordinance but couldn't go along with the notion that it was an emergency.

The ordinance, which went into effect Oct. 5, stops short of imposing city building height limits in areas now under county building standards.

City zoning standards limit two-story buildings to 24 feet, while county standards permit 30-foot-high buildings. The moratorium affects about 140 parcels where "the number of building sites could be considerably larger because of the large parcels which exist in this area," according to the city administrator.

The public hearing on the measure elicited no comments from the public.

"I can't believe, after all the abuse, the threats, and the crap I've taken over this house on Franciscan Way, that not one person would have the guts to come up and speak," Building Inspector Ron Warren told the council.

The moratorium was suggested by Councilwoman Helen Arnold, who said she had been contacted by residents about a house under construction on Franciscan Way.

"It's appalling to me that no one says anything about it," Mrs. Arnold said. "We get very little backup from the citizens and sometimes it makes us wonder, why bother?"

SAN CLEMENTE DAM on the Carmel River, and the Los Padres Dam, have combined storage capacity of only 3,200 acre-feet of water. The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board of directors will consider size of another possible dam on the Carmel River when it meets Oct. 12. Staff has recommended a small dam of about 27,000 acre foot storage capacity.

Water board staff recommends small dam

THE MONTEREY PENINSULA Water Management District Board of Directors will consider a staff recommendation for a small dam on the Carmel River at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 12 in Monterey City Hall.

Staff will recommend a dam with storage capacity of 27,000 acre feet as the minimum size needed to provide for future water needs and to supply adequate releases to maintain the steelhead fishery.

That size dam is somewhat larger than the 20,000 ac. ft. size recommended by Director Ed Lee of Carmel Valley, but considerably smaller than the 156,000 ac. ft. dam proposed by the Corps of Engineers.

The board will also consider several alternatives proposed in a consultant's report to mitigate the dam's impact on the Carmel River steelhead population.

The D. W. Kelley & Associates study recommends three approaches:

- A medium-sized dam with about 60,000 ac. ft. storage capacity with constant release of water into the Carmel River.

- A small San Clemente dam of about 20,000 ac. ft. storage capacity with releases during the winter and a fish ladder to pass steelhead over the dam.

- Construction of two small reservoirs on San Clemente Creek and Cachagua Creek.

Also on the board's agenda is consideration of design research for implementation of whatever size dam it selects. Related to design of the dam would be preparation of an environmental impact report and submission to the State Water Resources Control Board of a water rights application.

The board is to consider not only the various proposed sizes for a dam, but also cost-yield ratios, financing, hydrology, sediment transport, riparian vegetation, engineering and an operations model.

The meeting is open to the public.

Ed Lee tells why he favors 20,000-ft. dam

DIRECTOR ED LEE of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District pleaded his case for a small dam on the Carmel River before the Carmel River Watch last week.

Lee is one of eight candidates for the Board of Directors of the district in the Nov. 3 election, and he has been a consistent advocate of a small dam.

All eight candidates will face the public in a CREW candidates' night Thursday, Oct. 22 at the Carmel Middle School library. Carmel River Watch is an environmental organization.

A small dam, with storage capacity of about 20,000 acre feet, could provide drought protection, help restore dying river vegetation and promote preservation of the steelhead fishery, Lee said.

"The Carmel River is dying," Lee said. "Its death warrant was signed by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors 15 years ago. The steelhead fishery is also dying."

Increased use of wells in Carmel Valley has drawn down the water table and killed riparian vegetation, Lee said.

"Now another well has been drilled a mile or so further downstream and still another is being discussed for the Schulte Road area. If these wells are activated and the past is any guide to the future, in the next seven years the deforestation of another three or four miles of river banks will be complete."

If that happens, 25 percent of the river's path through Carmel Valley will have been denuded, Lee asserted.

The result of that will be increased erosion and siltation of the river bed, caused by the death of vegetation whose roots would otherwise stabilize the river banks, Lee said.

"We have enough water, now wasted to the sea in the tens, twenties, thirty thousands of acre feet each year, could we but control it, to provide drought protection, clean water, and a guaranteed source of water to recharge the Seaside aquifer and protect it from salt water intrusion," Lee said.

"We can restore our river banks and protect them. We can prevent our steelhead fishery from degrading to a 'remnant' population. We can leave our children and our grandchildren the environmental heritage that is possible and that they deserve."

"All we need to do is build a small dam on our river to control the wasted storm waters and convert them to beneficial use."

A small dam on the Carmel River would enhance the potential for success of recharge of the Seaside aquifer to increase system-wide capacity of the California-American Water Co., Lee said. "Implicit in that scheme is the assumption that there will be an adequate surplus flow in the Carmel River," Lee told the CREW membership. "A preliminary analysis of the daily flows in the river shows that much of the storm runoff occurs in a very few days and that the diminished afterflow will not always be adequate to provide the surplus flow needed for Seaside recharge."

'The Carmel River is dying. Its death warrant was signed by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors 15 years ago.'

Lee urged Carmel River Watch members to support his proposal for a small dam when the Board of Directors considers the proposal at its Oct. 12 meeting. But CREW took no position on the issue and does not plan to do so until after its candidates' night Oct. 22.

Report from Sacramento

About new drunk driving laws

By SAM FARR, Assemblyman, 28th A.D.

"There doesn't seem to be a sufficient deterrent to keep people from getting drunk and driving," C.H.P. Capt. Don Anderson once told me. Capt. Anderson, who is the Highway Patrol's Area Commander for Santa Cruz County, noted that in the last few months there have been eight fatal accidents in that county alone, of which six were attributable to drunk drivers.

Capt. Anderson, like Capt. Kellar, his counterpart in the Monterey area, is hard-nosed about going after drunk drivers. What these two men wanted was new get-tough laws on the books. Since my conversations with them a short time ago the Legislature has passed — and the Governor has signed — some of the toughest drunk driving laws in the country. Specifically:

•Assembly Bill 541 (Moorhead) increases drunk driving sentences across the board, requires mandatory sentences, and puts the first-time drunk driver behind bars for 48 hours, or fines him and revokes his (or her) license for 90 days.

•Under existing law, persons who drive with a blood alcohol concentration of 0.10 percent are presumed to be driving "under the influence" of liquor. This "presumption" can, and often is, rebutted in court. The jury may take many factors into consideration in determining whether the driver was, in fact, drunk. AB 7 (Hart) states that driving with a 0.10 percent level is, in itself, a crime. This measure removes the subjective element and bases the determination of "driving under the influence" on blood chemistry alone.

•AB (Levine) requires prosecutors to disclose and explain any plea bargaining in drunk driving cases, and includes reckless driving convictions as a prior offense in calculating sentences.

These bills, all of which have been signed into law, spell tougher times for people who drink and drive.

Because they take effect Jan. 1, 1982, many Californians will be going to New Year's Eve parties under one set of drunk driving laws, and leaving under a new, stricter set.

Of course, all the legislation in the world won't substitute for a change in cultural attitudes about drinking and driving. That is where the real answer lies.

But, as a lawmaker, I am proud that the Legislature "got off the dime" and acted on this epidemic problem. I am sure that more legislation will follow in the coming few years, as the public's patience with the drunk driver has run out.

"There's only one place the drunk driver is going to end up around here," Capt. Anderson said, "and that's the county jail."

"Or the morgue," added Capt. Kellar.

Sanitary District merger pot bubbles

By ROBERT MISKIMON

"IT WAS A PLONKER." That's how Charlotte Townsend, chairperson of the Carmel Sanitary District, described the county's response to a proposed merger with the Pebble Beach Sanitary District.

The Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) wants to proceed with plans to combine the Pebble Beach sanitary and fire services into a community services district instead.

LAFCO directors turned thumbs down on the Carmel Sanitary District's petition for a merger at their Sept. 29 meeting and will consider implementation of the Pebble Beach fire and sanitary district Oct. 27.

"It certainly seems like there was some kind of back-room maneuvering," Mrs. Townsend said of the LAFCO decision. "We were just sitting there, not knowing what was happening."

Mrs. Townsend was among those who speculated about a possible connection between the LAFCO action and a shakeup in that body's membership earlier the same day.

Supervisors voted to replace Fourth District Supervisor Michal Moore and Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck as LAFCO members with Fifth District Supervisor William Peters and First District Supervisor Marc Del Piero.

That action took place with Supervisor Moore absent and with a "no" vote by Supervisor Shipnuck. Supervisors Peters and Del Piero were joined in the action by Third District Supervisor Dusan Petrovic.

Supervisors Peters and Del Piero both voted in favor of the Pebble Beach proposal, instead of the Carmel Sanitary District merger proposal, at the LAFCO meeting.

"The person who carried this was Peters," Mrs. Townsend said. "The Pebble Beach contingent and the Del Monte Property Owners Association were extremely verbal and were well represented."

"I was disappointed that the less verbal people weren't listened to. There was so much in the Pebble Beach presentation that wasn't true."

Carmel Sanitary District Manager Michael Zambory said he felt LAFCO—the agency which oversees changes in governmental organization in the county—didn't give fair consideration to the savings of a sanitary district merger.

"I don't think they gave adequate consideration to the estimated $100,000 yearly savings," Zambory said. "Even on a short-term basis, it would mean savings of $1 million over the next 10 years, for taxpayers in Carmel and Pebble Beach."

"I got the impression that LAFCO didn't discuss much. It seemed like it was simply a matter of rubber-stamping the staff report. It meant that all of us making presentations were just spinning our wheels."

'IT WAS A RATHER casual decision over something that was quite serious. It was not really an exploratory discussion. It's still possible LAFCO will find out there are some money problems involved in this.'

The Carmel Sanitary District may have yet another chance to revive its hopes for a merger when LAFCO meets Oct. 27.

LAFCO Executive Officer Mike Johnson said last week it's possible the board may consider a compromise between the two proposals.

"The board could approve both applications," Johnson said. "They could consolidate both sanitary districts and approve the community services district, just to provide fire services."

"That would provide some cost savings from the sanitary district proposal, and still maintain the home rule concept in the community services district. That would be a modification of existing proposals that could come either from staff or from the commission."

As directed by the LAFCO board, Johnson will present a report which details specific implementation measures for creation of a community services district to provide both fire and sanitary services to Pebble Beach residents.

"The rationale for a community services district is not fiscally based," Johnson said. "The report very likely will indicate a basis more on home rule and community of interest, with very little financial savings."

Whatever course of action LAFCO approves would be sent to the Board of Supervisors for a public hearing. If the supervisors approve of the LAFCO recommendation, the measure would be placed on the June 1982 ballot for voter ratification.

The rationale presented to LAFCO in the staff report which recommended the creation of a community services district was:

"Commission policies promote multiple service agencies as opposed to a number of limited service districts. A single general purpose government can provide a full range of services. It is better able to assess and be accountable for community service needs."

"Both applications have merit," Johnson told the LAFCO board before hearings on the two proposals. "The choice may end up as a policy decision by the commission."

In his presentation to LAFCO, Zambory said two major points of conflict between the two sanitary districts are the refusal by Pebble Beach to pay its one-third share of capital outlay expenses, and the Carmel Sanitary District's $13.7 million water reclamation project.

"The Carmel Sanitary District has had a sincere desire to get along in a situation that for a number of years has been untenable," Zambory said.

RICHARD LORD, chairman of the Pebble Beach Sanitary District, told LAFCO that both the Carmel and Pebble Beach boards of directors had acted on advice of their respective legal counsels.

"I could not let the impression remain that we squabble by design," Lord said. "Both of our boards are following the advice of counsel."

Fred Noseworthy, president of the Del Monte Forest Property Owners Association, said the application from Pebble Beach residents for creation of a community services district was "a result of their own intensive and spontaneous endeavors."

Pebble Beach residents favor such a district because it would be "directly and totally responsible to the members of the community," he said.

But Janice O'Brien, who represented the board of directors of the Forest Committee (a group of 450 families in Del Monte Forest), said her group favors consolidation of the two sanitary districts, instead of creation of a community services district.

"The creation of a community services district for managing the sanitary district and fire district seems incompatible and of no demonstrable material benefit at this time," she said.

"The only real local control for the people in this area would be by incorporation, which would give us the power to control land use planning and zoning and would provide us revenue from state subventions. A community services district of this limited dimension is not a valid vehicle for local control."

Supervisor William Peters of Carmel Valley, chairman of the LAFCO board, said he had mixed feelings about both proposals.

"I favor the community services district proposal, but I find significant merit with both proposals," Peters said. "The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District as a 'super agency' for the peninsula is the best way to go."

"The long-term solution ought to be some coordination between the collection of water and the treatment and disposal of effluent. A merger with the Carmel Sanitary District would be best in the short run."

"In that sense, I feel ambivalent about the proposal."

How the coach sees it

"As far as I'm concerned, we're all winners!"

By RICHARD MOLEN
Head Coach, Carmel H.S. Padres

AS WE APPROACH the midpoint of our football season with a record of no wins and four losses, the reader must understand that writing this column, discussing the play and future potential of our football team becomes quite difficult. I shall once again try to be impartial and relate what happened during our defeat Friday night at Hollister.

The Balers came out in the first quarter establishing a potent ground game, controlling the line of scrimmage both on offense and defense, and went on to win the game 22-8.

In the first quarter, Hollister's two fine running backs, Frietas and Stevens, behind a Baler offensive line that was moving the Padre defense at will, moved down the field running inside Carmel's defensive tackle and arrived at the Padre 5-yard line. Hollister Q.B. Robert Podilla caught the Padre pass defense sleeping and threw a 5-yard touchdown strike to his wide receiver Bill Grant. The Balers went for the 2-point conversion and made it, and the score was 8-0 midway in the first quarter.

The second quarter began with neither team establishing any dominant offense. The two teams moved the ball, but without any real scoring threat. With 1:15 remaining in the first half, the Padres got their first opportunity to score. Carmel linebacker Mike Negri intercepted a Baler pass and ran 12 yards down the field before he was tackled at the Hollister 42.

On the next play, Padre quarterback John Franklin went to the air, hit receiver Brad Langley for 15 yards to the Hollister 2-yard line where it was first down and goal to go for a touchdown.

This was probably the turning point as far as the game was concerned. If we score, we go in at the halftime most likely all tied up, and it's a new ball game in the second half. As luck would have it — and of course this is what makes a football game, Nelson Holman tried right tackle, was hit hard at the line of scrimmage and fumbled. Hollister's defensive tackle David Pighetti fell on the ball and the Balers ran out the clock. The half ended with Carmel going to the locker room down by 8 points, as opposed to a possible tie.

Hollister came out in the third quarter, again dominating the line of scrimmage. Running up the middle, passing to their two halfbacks coming out of the backfield and cruising down the field once more. With eight minutes showing on the scoreboard clock, the Balers scored once again with Grant punching it in from four yards out. They went for the 2-point conversion and the score was 16-0 in the latter part of the third quarter.

The Padres finally started to put together an offensive drive, with Holman running up the middle, Franklin connecting on a pass play that netted 45 yards to Brad Langley and once again were knocking on the goal line. This time the Carmel quarterback scored on a sneak and John Franklin had his first touchdown of the season. On the P.A.T. Franklin once again called his own play and bounded into the end zone for two points. We were temporarily back in the hunt with the score 16-8 going into the 4th quarter.

The final quarter began in a similar fashion as the previous three. Hollister cranked up their ground game again calling on Frietas and Stevens. They rose to the occasion, and with 5:12 left in the 4th quarter, Frietas ran in to the end zone for Hollister's final touchdown. They again tried for a 2-point conversion, but missed this time and the score was 22-8.

The Padres' last chance at a possible score was thwarted when a Brett Langley pass was intercepted. Hollister took over and ran out the clock. The game ended 22-8 in favor of Hollister.

GENERAL COMMENTS: There is a little sunshine peeping through all of those dark clouds. I think we played better than last week and have improved in some areas. Our offensive line still needs work and our defense did not accommodate us when we needed them. It all has to come together soon if we expect to have any success this season.

We now have arrived at the point in our season when all the "Monday morning quarterbacks" start to comment as to how they would coach, call plays, etc. etc. and how they would turn our season around and miraculously have a winning football team. This is all so predictable and is just part (the negative part) of a great sport like football. Most of these people sit in the stands and make rude, ill-mannered comments about things they don't understand, not having the vaguest idea what the coaches are trying to accomplish, or what they have to work with.

There are definite reasons for everything that takes place on a football field, offense or defense. I have coached long enough to expect this type of behavior from some (mostly frustrated athletes who have never been achievers in any sport) and I do not pay attention to it. These people never stop to realize that this year our boys are being exposed to some excellent, qualified coaches who are donating their time and coaching for absolutely nothing.

Our boys are extremely fortunate to have these men as role models. They are going to be better athletes, and more important they are being taught things that are great carry-overs into life that in the end will make them good decent men and citizens.

I make all the final decisions on our football team and I wouldn't change anything I've done so far. I believe in our program, our coaches and our kids, and as far as I'm concerned we're all winners. If anyone wants to blame or criticize any part of our coaching for our losses so far, blame me. One of my favorite quotes sums up my thoughts completely: "Far better it is to dare mighty things, to win glorious triumphs, even though checkered by failure, than to take rank with those poor spirits who neither enjoy much nor suffer much, because they live in the gray twilight that knows not victory nor defeat."

Theodore Roosevelt

Case closed!!!!!!

STATUS REPORT: Plus side — again, no serious injuries; not many penalties, three for 25 yards (this could also be a minus — draws attention to the fact that we might need to be more aggressive).

Minus side: We have got to improve both on offense and defense. The offensive line is not blocking, not getting off on the ball, not aggressive. Defense will get where they're supposed to be and do nothing when they get there.

THIS WEEK'S GAME: Palma High school comes to Carmel this Saturday after losing a close game to King City. We are going to have our hands full. Graduating seniors diminished last year's squad that almost made the playoffs, but the fact remains that in spite of this, they are probably a better team than any we have played so far with the exception of Monterey High School. Starting time, 11:00 Frosh-Soph, 1:30 Varsity.

PLAYER OF THE WEEK: Mike Negri. Mike played a good ball game for us at the linebacker spot. He recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass that put us in a scoring position at a crucial point in the game. I'm sure Mike does not have the size that most linebackers have in the league, but he more than makes up for that with a tremendous amount of courage and heart.

Business Beat

About the moratoriums

By FLORENCE MASON

IT IS ONE THING to create a moratorium — on land use changes, for example — and quite another to interpret and enforce it. In just a few weeks, the city's Business License and Code Review Board has had a number of opportunities to test its knowledge of the ordinance and assess its effectiveness. Among them:

"We welcome that type of business in town!" The reference at a recent BLCRB meeting was to Knitting by the Sea, a shop on Lincoln between Ocean and Seventh. This shop for the retail sale of yarns and accessories was determined to be a "locally useful business" under the moratorium.

Owner Suzette Perry said that the store is for knitters and crocheters. In addition to yarns, needles and hooks will be for sale and there are plans for the future that include classes. Mrs. Perry and her husband, Noel, are officers in a parent company, Knitting Basket, Inc., of Oakland. They will be Carmel residents soon.

The Perrys will be right next door to each other during business hours, as Noel Perry is an optician who will be opening an office at the same location from which he'll dispense spectacles and — eventually — contact lenses. This is Perry's first venture on his own although he has worked in the profession for many years.

The only problem either Mr. and Mrs. Perry had in getting through the licensing requirements was with the name proposed by Noel Perry: he said he was "wedded to" the name Spectacle Makers. That was the name he had been thinking about for the past several years, largely because he had always been intrigued by the idea of the Royal Society of Spectacle Makers, in existence in England since 1360.

Persuaded by the concerns of public safety officers in case of an emergency — because of possible confusion with "Perspectacles" — Perry returned to the BLCRB the next week with a thoroughly satisfactory alternative: Lincoln Spectacle Makers.

Another new business exempt from the current moratorium can be found on the north side of Seventh between San Carlos and Dolores. It has an eye-and-ear-catching name, "Note'orious Card and Stationery." Owners are Mary Massa and John A. MacLeod.

Another action considered by the BLCRB turned out to be a simple change in location — for the Bill W. Dodge Gallery. However, it did lead to some discussion about the land use moratorium, inasmuch as Dodge will be increasing the amount of space over what he has in his present location on San Carlos. What makes the move possible under the moratorium is that he will not be "intensifying the use" (of art galleries) in the city.

Moving into the Court of the Fountains on Mission between Ocean and Seventh, Dodge will replace a gift shop. As explained by Planning Director Bill Griggs, who is rapidly becoming the board's expert in implementation of the moratorium, it is all right for Dodge to make his move, but it would not be acceptable for a new gallery to move into the place he vacates. All clear?

The BLCRB, not always easy to please, did express its appreciation of a "a very quiet operation" in Carmel, which will continue under a new owner. That's the Stonehouse Lodge on Eighth between Monte Verde and Casanova.

Randolph Bills, representing new owner Roger Post at the BLCRB meeting, assured the board that Post plans to keep the lodge as a "bed and breakfast" type of operation, with some upgrading of the accommodations. He said that Post believes Carmel has the right ambience for this quiet, informal type of guest facility.

The name will be retained, and Post, who recently sold his investment business, will be operating the lodge himself. "It is to be his personal business, not just an investment," Bills said.

THOSE ARE SOME of the recent "comings" into Carmel; there are also some prospective goings: among local businesses for sale are at least these three restaurants: Charlie O's, Anzel's and Chez Danielle, also a bookstore: How To Do Anything Books in the Lobos Lodge courtyard. I stopped by to find out what owner Jo Moller will be doing when the bookstore is sold and she said, "I'm going to retire — and play golf!"

Organ music is big business on the Peninsula, especially during the one week each year when the Home Organ Festival is scheduled for the Asilomar Conference Grounds in Pacific Grove.

Let it be thought that this is a drop-in sort of occasion, or attractive to only a few staunch supporters of home organ music, here are a few facts:

•Among the 700 people registered for the festival this year, there were only 18 who did not stay all five days.

•In its 22nd year, the festival is sponsored by the Pacific Council for Organ Clubs, which includes 40 groups just within central California, the Monterey Peninsula Organ Buffs among them. The festival used to meet at Hoberg's, but outgrew that resort about 10 years ago.

•There are 30 million organs in use in the United States. The organ is the most popular instrument in our country, next to the guitar. In third place? The piano.

•Although most of the participants were from California, there were registrants from Canada, Florida, Virginia, New Jersey, and even Hawaii.

What impressed me the most in the all-too-brief time I spent at the festival one afternoon last month was the eclectic nature of the offerings and activities. In just a few hours I was treated to a fascinating workshop on "The answer to all your playing problems," which was interesting as well as entertaining, even for this non-player; a marvelously loud and rhythmical concert by organist David Kelsey and his combo, "Pure Trash"; and a concert of more familiar organ music. I had to miss the "attitude adjustment hour" and a variety of workshops and concerts that went on until the wee hours — including a nightly jam session.

Spouses and friends of the eager participants apparently had two primary interests: golf and shopping in Carmel. That's what I heard when the talk around me was not of Baldwin or Yamaha, Lowrey, Hammond, Conn. . .

Honors abound: William Harrigan, owner of California Property Investment Services of Carmel, was named Jaycee of the Month by the Monterey Peninsula Jaycees. Harrigan earned that distinction for his chairmanship of the club's concession stand at the Monterey County Fair. In addition to coordinating manpower and supplies for the stand, he also served as comptroller.

Carmel Valley's John Olin, president and board chairman of Sierra Instruments, was elected vice president of the Air Pollution Control Association. The APCA, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa., is a technical society devoted to furthering the art and science of air pollution control. It dates back to 1907.

Warren Belfer, owner of Solar Heating Co. in the Valley, was elected secretary of a new group: the Monterey Bay chapter of CAL-SEIA (Solar Engineering Industries Association). The national association, largest of its kind in the United States, supports a code of ethics and compliance with all the local and state laws applying to this new field.

Monterey County wines are also bringing honor to our area. Durney Vineyard of Carmel Valley was a big winner in this year's Los Angeles County Fair, taking a gold medal for its 1978 Monterey Cabernet Sauvignon and silver medals for its 1980 Chenin Blanc and 1980 Johannisberg Riesling.

Another major local winner was Monterey Peninsula Winery, Monterey, winning two gold, two silver and two bronze medals. Also cited as major winners: Ventana Vineyard of Soledad, Jekel Vineyard of Greenfield, Monterey Vineyard, Gonzales. Johannisberg Rieslings topped other Monterey County white wines with 19 awards; chardonnays won 9. Cabernet sauvignons won nine awards among Monterey County reds.

Carmel's Bill Fanta has come back to the place where he started his career on television: KSBW-TV, NBC's Salinas-Monterey affiliate.

Fanta brought his B.S. in Communications (University of Illinois) and his M.A. in television from Syracuse University to KSBW in 1968. He was photographer, director and promotion manager at the station until he left in 1974 to go into the music business in San Francisco. There he was promoter, booking concerts and tours. Then it was back to Monterey for a five-year stint as production director for KMST.

During his time away from the Peninsula, Fanta also had a very special year in Sweden as a cameraman.

Bill Fanta returns as manager of operations and programming for KSBW. "What that means," he said, "is that day-to-day operation of the station comes out of my cubbyhole."

That he likes his cubbyhole is evident when he adds, "My work is my hobby." Also claiming his attention in his Flanders Drive home are two children — Elizabeth, 13, and Kristoffer, 11.

"It's been like going into another business every four years." That's what Tom Treanor had to say about his ten years with Home Federal Savings and Loan, for which he was recently honored by the company.

Treanor opened Home Federal's first Northern California branch in Salinas in 1973 and has been manager of the Monterey branch since its opening in 1974. "When we started here," he said, "we had one savings account and one type of loan. Now we have at least 10 different accounts and we lend money for cars and many other purchases we hadn't even thought about then."

Before coming to this area, Treanor was executive vice president and managing officer of a savings and loan company in Los Angeles. This is how he got to Carmel: "Just as soon as I knew that my company was merging with Home Federal and that the first Northern California branch would be in Salinas, I literally got down on my hands and knees in the San Diego office and begged them to let me get out of Los Angeles and into this beautiful area."

Treanor and his wife knew the area well, having spent their honeymoon in Carmel Valley. They remain delighted residents and have made a point of giving back some of their time to the community, in appreciation.

For four years Treanor pitched batting practice for the Salinas Angels, the farm team of the California Angels. This reflects an earlier interest in baseball. In fact, he might well be pitching for the Chicago Cubs, as he had an offer from that team when he was just out of high school. However, in those days it took approval of the player's parents to gain him a contract and Treanor's mother wouldn't sign. Yes, Treanor admits to having had a sense of frustration at that time.

Another interest of Treanor's is reflected in his service as president of the Monterey County Symphony Association. And the whole family enjoys the Carmel Barracuda swim program and the activities associated with it. Both the Treanors' son, Tommy, and daughter, Thais, are competitive swimmers.

An interesting newcomer in our midst: Charles Tillinghast, who has just opened a law practice on Garden Road in Monterey.

Tillinghast left the hectic world of records to become a generalist in the business aspects of law. He had been general counsel for Motown Record Corporation and before that, assistant general consul for Capital Records.

He and his wife, Mary, had been coming to this area for many years and three years ago they took their first step toward a new life — away from the smog and confusion of Los Angeles. They bought a house in Carmel Valley.

"Everything finally came together for us," Tillinghast said, "now this is our home." The couple's son, Stephen, is in the sixth grade at Carmel Middle School.

Both Charles and Mary Tillinghast are enthusiastic gardeners. Along with putting down their own roots, they look forward to becoming involved in community activities as well.

FLASH! From Ellie Burch, co-owner of Sade's cocktail lounge on Dolores: the winner of their week-long contest to name the ingredients of Sade's Secret Cocktail is... Ron Cauvel, manager of NB Florist!

Cauvel won the prize — dinner for two at Casanova Restaurant — for correctly identifying strawberry liquor, pineapple juice, orange juice, lime juice, Triple Sec and chablis.

One other entrant was so delighted with the cocktail that he talked Ms. Burch out of the recipe so he can use it for the reception after his wedding next February.

STATELY HAWK TOWER stands in the background as guests go through the buffet line at the Tor House reception.

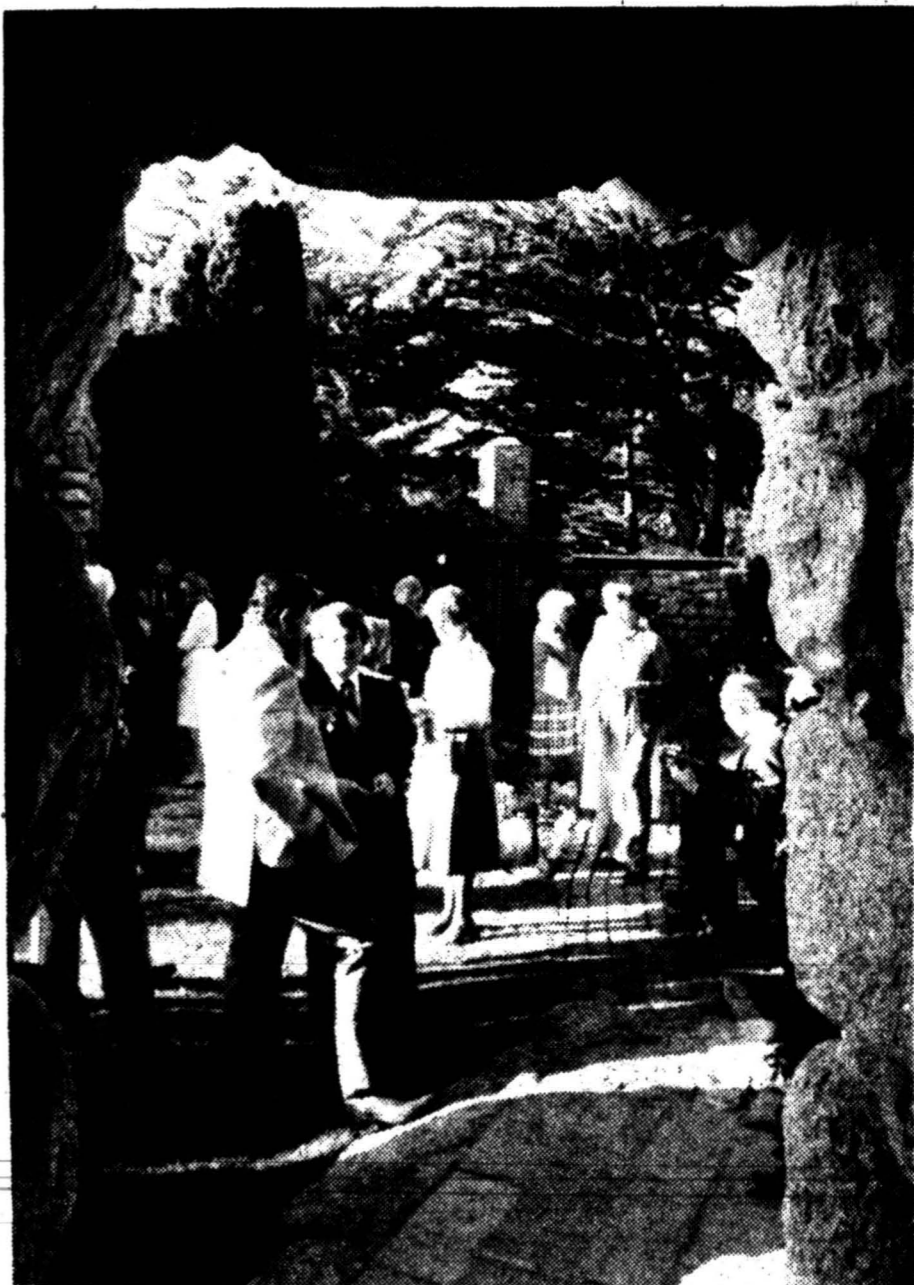

A SPECIAL SIGHT for the guests who attended the Tor House reception was this flock of pelicans that flew over the grounds just before sunset.

DAME JUDITH ANDERSON was special guest at the champagne reception and buffet supper hosted at Tor House last Saturday. Dame Judith, one of the first great ladies of the theater gave readings of Carmel Poet Robinson Jeffers' works, at the gala which was hosted by the trustees of the Robinson Jeffers Tor House Foundation.

ABOUT 200 GUESTS mingled throughout the house and grounds of Tor House at the champagne reception held last Saturday. The reception was part of the annual two-day Robinson Jeffers Tor House Festival.

GUESTS MINGLE around Hawk Tower during the reception held at Tor House.

PETER EVANS provided guitar entertainment at Saturday's champagne reception.

Tor House Festival

By TERRI LEE ROBBE

Festivities surrounding the annual Robinson Jeffers Tor House Festival were nothing less than spectacular. Hundreds of people attended the two-day affair which included tours of Tor House, a seminar by Dr. Robert Brophy on "The Women in Jeffers' Poetry and Drama," a poetry walk from La Playa Hotel to Monastery Beach, a picnic, and a showing of the movie Medea, based on the play which was written especially for Dame Judith Anderson by the Carmel poet.

One special highlight of the festival, of course, was the champagne reception and buffet supper hosted at Tor House on Saturday by the trustees of the Robinson Jeffers Tor House Foundation.

About 200 guests attended the affair and mingled throughout the house and gardens while sipping champagne and munching on a variety of delicious hors d'oeuvres. Many of the ladies removed their high-heeled shoes to climb Jeffers' famous Hawk Tower, where they were rewarded with a breathtaking view of the ocean and surrounding area.

The weather was sunny (but a bit nippy) so 83-year-old Dame Judith gave her readings of scenes from Medea (and also Jeffers' poetry) in the living room of the original Tor House. A fire flickered in the fireplace as Dame Judith, dressed in a lovely salmon colored skirt with matching top, seated herself on three huge pillows in the bay window and held her audience spellbound. Her well-trained voice captured all the emotion of Jeffers' works and there was hardly a dry eye in the room as Dame Judith recalled some of her most poignant moments with the famous poet and his wife, Una.

Rather than reading the lead part from Medea, Dame Judith read the part of the nurse and then informed her audience that she will be playing this particular part when the play returns to Broadway in March.

Rehearsals will begin in New York Jan. 4, and the play will open in Knoxville, Tenn. (before going to Broadway) on Feb. 12. This beautiful lady has not lost one iota of the charm and talent which made her one of the first great ladies of the theater.

Members of the Tor House Foundation welcoming guests included President George White, Executive Director Mrs. Jane Herbst and trustee Mary Shaw.

An extra bit of drama to the event was when Greg Lehman of Carmel Valley introduced himself to Dame Judith. Greg's grandfather was once married to the talented lady so the two had a lot to talk about.

Congratulations to all those involved for making the Festival a most memorable event!

CARMEL HIGHLANDS RESIDENTS REACH GOAL OF $35,000 TO MAINTAIN FIRE DEPARTMENT

Months before President Reagan called on Americans to band together and do things for themselves, residents of the Carmel Highlands were doing just that.

To keep the two extra firemen who were cut, because of Proposition 13, the residents, under the leadership of Philip Gray, decided to call on their neighbors to try to raise the needed $35,000—and once the ball started rolling, there was no stopping it.

A large thermometer was placed on the wall of the Chevron Station in the Highlands, and as donations came in the fever climbed. When the goal was reached everyone agreed that a party was in order and Pat Ramsey, owner of the Highlands Inn, was right there to see that it happened in style.

The gala was held in the Ritschel Room at the Inn last Sunday afternoon and more than 300 Carmel Highlands residents who had participated in the community drive joined in the celebration.

Bountiful buffet tables lined three walls of the large room and guests dined on such gourmet delicacies as turkey, roast beef, salmon, finger sandwiches and an array of salads, cheeses and fresh vegetable platters — and the unbelievable pastry table was highlighted with a huge cake featuring pink elephants using their trunks as water hoses to put out a blaze at, where else—the fire station! Colorful clowns and other delightful characters dressed as firemen also decorated the cake.

Pat, who welcomed guests in a flowing red silk gown, admitted she had great fun decorating the room with such items as hoses, fire axes, ropes and fire extinguishers. And holding forth in the center of one buffet table was a skull decked out in a match-covered straw hat and wearing a sign which read: "If you're careless with matches—you can lose your head!"

The fire department was well represented by Fire Chief and Mrs. Robert Maloney and Capt. and Mrs. Skee Stanley.

Others exchanging congratulations on their accomplishments included Mrs. Philip Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Seyforth, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Yates, Mr. and Mrs. John Goodrich, Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Roundtree, Mrs. Bobbie Jeffers and Dr. and Mrs. James Vargon.

Pianist Ted Roe, who has provided beautiful music at the Inn for many years, took over the entertainment chores and invited local talent to perform. Glenn Tinturin of Carmel Valley and Larry Lawrence, a recent newcomer to Carmel from the Los Angeles area, delighted the audience with their classical guitar playing.

And drawing much applause for his singing was Pat Duval of the Sheriff's Dept.

Later in the evening Philip Gray took the microphone to thank each and every person who donated to the cause, and also to give special thanks to Pat Ramsey, not only for the fantastic reception but also for her $3,000 donation, the largest check received. The smallest donation came from a five-year-old youngster who approached Gray and asked if she could make a donation and placed three dimes and five pennies in his hand.

And just to show how the spirit of such an idea can catch fire (pardon the pun), a lady visiting from Dallas, Texas read about the community's effort and contributed $500.

Applause to all these wonderful people who showed what can be accomplished when an entire community goes to bat!

MONTH-LONG VACATION FOR BOB AND JIM

Bob Canon and Dame Judith Anderson are longtime friends, so it was with regret that Bob missed this year's Tor House Festival and spending time with his dear friend, Dame Judith.

Bob and his friend, Jim Stone, headed for the high country of Portland, Oregon for a month-long vacation which will include visits with Bob's two children, Eric Canon and Margot Canon Day and their families.

Bob says the visit will be like old home week, as he lived in Portland and was dean of Reed College for many years before moving to the Peninsula where he owned and operated the Clock Restaurant for some 20-odd years.

When I mentioned that I was always discovering something new about him, Bob laughed and filled me in with the fact that between the college and the restaurant he was also a stockbroker and had his own public relations business — mercy!

Because they are going to be gone a full month, Bob and Jim joined the "vacation exchange" group and swapped their Carmel condo for a penthouse in Portland. The deal also included exchanging cars so it was just a matter of packing and catching a plane.

PAUL RETURNS TO HOME BASE

Welcome home to Paul Lippman following his annual "summer stay" at his cabin in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

Paul's cabin sits on the family ranch, so, along with visiting with his mom, whom he calls a real "barn burner," Paul kept busy mending fences, hauling well water (to his cabin) and helping build a new room on the ranch.

But the main reason that Paul heads for his cabin each summer is to write, and he happily reports that he's finished a historical western about Deputy Sheriff Harry Love, the man who pursued the famous bandit Joaquin Murrieta from 1850-53. The book is now in the hands of Paul's agent and he's hoping that it's movie material.

Now it's back to the telephone for Paul — and working on two polo matches slated for this spring.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Karl Kidder of Carmel and the late Dr. Fred Burg.

The bride attended Arizona State University; the bridegroom attended U.C.L.A. Both are employed by Pebble Beach Corp.

The bridegroom's mother gave the wedding ring she received from the groom's late father to the young couple, and the bride also received a Russian heirloom ring from her grandmother.

The honeymoon will include an island trip and a visit to San Francisco.

C.V. KIWANIS CLUB INSTALLATION AND DINNER

The Kiwanis Club of Carmel Valley installed new officers and directors at a recent "western night" dinner held at Rancho Canada.

Long-time Kiwanis member Ed Marcucci acted as master of ceremonies and Raz Belceci ably handled the induction of officers.

A.J. Stotler will assume the office of president from outgoing president Gary Tate.

New officers include: Jerry Kurz, first vice-president; Ed August, second vice-president; Harold Fly, treasurer; and Fred Fisher, secretary.

Board members include Dick Atwood, Dave Behrent, Dave De Marche, Bob Gray, Bob Heald, Otto Huebner, Sam Longwell, Walter Mauzey, Orville Rogers, Marvin Smith and Terry Williams.

Past president Bill Reordan received the club's "Kiwanian of The Year" award for his outstanding effort in the production of the Carmel Valley Map, one of the club's major fund raising projects.

Gary Tate reported on a very successful year for the club which included over $5500 in funds raised by the annual summer Horse Show, Map Project, and Christmas Tree Sale and the distribution of these funds to 15 various Carmel Valley youth organizations.

The Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club, with more than 50 members, meets every Tuesday (at noon) at Hidden Valley Music Seminars.

SPINNAKERS HOLD SECOND ANNUAL POLYNESIAN DINNER

The Monterey Peninsula Yacht Club was turned into a Polynesian paradise recently when the Spinnakers held their second annual Polynesian Tama'a'ra'a.

Spinnakers president Maureen Gibbons chaired the dinner and with a bit of help, whipped up such delicacies as Poisson Cru (raw albacore marinated in lime and dressed in coconut cream), roast pig, sweet and sour chicken on rice, and an authoritative rum punch.

And Lillian and Beau Fisher came through again — they arrived with an abundance of their home-grown orchids. The colorful flowers were used as table decorations and delighted guests took them home following the dinner.

Having cruised French Polynesia with her husband and children, Maureen made good use of the many souvenirs from the trip. The many items including drums, tapas, shell necklaces and fabulous wooden bowls were also used as decorations.

About 60 people attended the gala. Before the evening was over, all were convinced they were actually on an exotic island.

GRAYS CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Congratulations to Philip and Eunice Gray of Carmel Highlands who celebrated their anniversary Sept. 29. Along with a few special surprises the day included luncheon at a restaurant on Cannery Row and dinner at Rocky Point Restaurant.

And along with all the food, fun and friendship, Eunice, a writer, spent a delightful few hours browsing through the books at Community Hospital's Annual Book Sale for those connected with the hospital. Philip, a hospital volunteer, helped Eunice carry her treasures home.

H.V. FRIENDS PLAN ANNUAL MEETING AND RECEPTION SUNDAY

Friends of Hidden Valley will hold their annual meeting and a wine and cheese reception at the Carmel Country Spa, Sunday, Oct. 11, from 2:30 — 5 p.m. The affair will be for members and prospective members.

New Officers to be announced are: Muriel Dobry, president; Charles Haas, first vice-president; Miss Virginia Stone, second vice-president; Mrs. John Brock, recording secretary; Mrs. Merle Strauch, corresponding secretary; Harold Fly, treasurer; Mrs. William Francis, elected directors 1980-1982; and directors-elect 1981-1983, Mrs. Thyra Edwards, David Hughes, Mrs. Kathryn H. Ragsdale and Mrs. Georgia von Richter.

The nominating committee is Margot Hyatt, chairman; Mrs. William Francis, Mrs. Roy Martella, Mrs. John von Berg and Mrs. Georgia von Richter.

Musical entertainment will be provided by Hidden Valley performers.

LILIAN DEAN ENTERS DRAMA LEAGUE SCHOOL

Lilian Rachel Dean, who graduated with honors from the York School last June, has been accepted into the drama department of Boston University. Miss Dean was one of 2,000 who auditioned at this Drama League School. Only 56 were accepted after their four-minute try outs.

Miss Dean received theatre training at Carmel's Children's Experimental Theatre. She also attended the American Conservatory Theatre. Her last Peninsula performance was at the York School where she played the part of Yum Yum in the Mikado.

Lilian's mother, Susan Long, is a graduate of Mills College. She is a professional artist and teaches painting and drawing at Sunset Center.

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA
ORDINANCE NO. 81-27

AN INTERIM ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING PROHIBITIONS AND REGULATIONS OF LAND USE RELATING TO THE BULK OF BUILDINGS IN TERRITORY WHICH HAS BEEN ANNEXED TO THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA AND IS NOW PART OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA PENDING THE REVISION OF THE GENERAL PLAN OF THE CITY AND ADOPTION OF ZONING ORDINANCES IMPLEMENTING THE REVISED GENERAL PLAN

WHEREAS, territory has been annexed to the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, State of California, which territory continues to be governed by the zoning rules and regulations existing under Monterey County ordinances prior to the annexation; and

WHEREAS, the City Council has authorized entering into the contract with a consultant for the revision of the general plan for the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea which revision is believed will result in certain changes in the zoning regulations of the City; and

WHEREAS, it is reasonably anticipated that the zoning in the territories annexed to the City will be changed to bring it into compliance with the general plan once the general plan is adopted; and

WHEREAS, allowing residences to be constructed to the bulk allowed under county zoning presently applicable in the territory annexed to the City which bulk is likely to be prohibited by the new zoning ordinances implementing the new general plan, would be detrimental to the public health, safety and welfare; and

WHEREAS, Government Code Section 65958 provides for the enactment of an interim zoning ordinance for the purpose of maintaining the status quo while studying proposed zoning changes where not doing so would be detrimental to the public health, safety and welfare;

NOW, THEREFORE, the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea does ordain as follows:

Section 1. Prohibitions; Regulation. During the time this ordinance is in force, the following prohibitions or regulations shall apply where applicable to all parts of the city R-1 district which have been annexed to the city and which continue to be subject to Monterey County zoning ordinances existing at the time of the annexation of the areas to the City:

No building permit shall be issued for the construction of any structure in territory which has been annexed to the City unless a design study has been completed pursuant to the first two paragraphs of Municipal Code Section 1310.20 which reads as follows:

1310.20 DESIGN STUDY: Buildings exceeding one story in height or buildings of one story exceeding eighteen feet (18') in height shall be studied by the Design Review Board prior to any building permit being issued for any construction, additions, or exterior remodeling. The purpose of the study shall be limited to the size and bulk of the structure or its visual mass as would be seen from the public way. The Design Review Board shall consider each application and render its decision by a written report which will accompany the plans for construction. Said report shall take into consideration the height and width of the building and its location on the property compared to existing buildings adjacent to the site and similarly located. Further consideration shall be given to how the proposed construction would impact the immediate neighborhood and the village character of the City. Applications and fees for Design Study shall be the same as required for Design Review in the commercial district of the City.

It is not the intent of this Section to allow review of architectural style, color, landscaping or materials of construction but is to protect the City and its residents from buildings which would be out of scale with existing buildings and the village character of the community.

Section 2. Territory Annexed to City. The territory to which this ordinance applies which territory has been annexed to the City is described in Exhibit "A" which is attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference.

Section 3. Validity. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this ordinance is for any reason held to be invalid, such decision shall not effect the validity of the remaining portions of this ordinance. City Council hereby declares that it would have passed this ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause and phrase hereof irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared invalid.

Section 4. Urgency. This ordinance is hereby declared to be an urgency measure and necessary for the immediate preservation and enjoyment, public health, safety and welfare. Facts constituting the urgency are as follows: General Plan of the City is being revised and in the course of that revision numerous zoning studies will be carried out the results of which are likely to bring about changes in the zoning applicable to the territories which have been annexed to the City particularly in the area of bulk of structures. It is believed that there may be persons ready to make application for permits which would allow structures with a bulk in excess of that which will probably be allowed under the revised general plan and the zoning ordinances implementing it and which would destroy the effect and purpose of the contemplated changes if this ordinance is not enacted immediately.

Section 5. Effective Date: This ordinance shall take effect immediately upon adoption following public hearing and will remain in effect for a period of one year.

PASSED AND ADOPTED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA THIS 5th day of October, 1981, by the following roll call vote:

The California State Department of Transportation (Caltrans) has entered into an agreement with the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center to establish a "Park and Ride" lot at the shopping center.

A portion of the existing parking lot, on the east side of Carmel Rancho Boulevard, behind Brinton's Hardware Store, will be set aside for use by car poolers during the regular work week. There are 25 parking spaces in the lot defined by Park and Ride signs with guide signs to the Park and Ride lot located on adjacent streets. The price is also right — it's free.

The establishment of this Park and Ride lot is part of the Caltrans program to encourage computer ridesharing.

There are six other Park and Ride locations in Monterey County available for use by car poolers. Five of these locations are on scheduled Monterey-Salinas transit bus routes. For a list of ridesharing details, a prospective car pooler can phone the Monterey County Ridesharing office, (415) 422-POOL.

This new Park and Ride lot is serviced by Monterey-Salinas Transit's Route No. 4 which stops opposite the lot on Carmel Rancho Blvd. This bus route extends out to Carmel Village from downtown Monterey via Carmel.

For detailed route information riders can phone 899-2555.

Revised CV Ranch plan goes before supervisors

THE MONTEREY COUNTY Board of Supervisors will consider tentative subdivision maps and rezoning Oct. 27 for the next phase of construction of 91 units at Carmel Valley Ranch.

Both the maps and rezoning were recommended for approval by the Monterey County Planning Commission Sept. 30. The commission also granted a use permit for 80 additional townhouses and condominiums and 11 employee housing units.

The items had been referred to the planning commission for new public hearings and recommendations by supervisors after the developer — Landmark Lands Co. of Oklahoma — asked to reduce employee housing from 33 to 11 units.

The use permit for the next phase of development also had been appealed by the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association and by Richard Rosenthal of Carmel Valley.

Timing of the reconstruction of the Robinson Canyon-Carmel Valley Road intersection emerged as a point of controversy during the planning commission hearing. The developer had appealed a condition in the use permit which required that contracts for the intersection be awarded prior to approval of a final map for any more than 20 units.

The commission, on a 4-2 vote, agreed to follow a staff recommendation not to tie the developer to any more stringent requirement for construction of the intersection than is already provided in a contract between the county and Carmel Valley Ranch.

Deputy County Counsel Jose Ramos said the prior agreement between the county and the developer — backed by a $3.2 million letter of credit — would require completion of the intersection by June of 1982.

But Commissioner Gary Varga of Carmel Valley, who has consistently pressed for tighter control over the intersection, wasn't pleased.

"It's still the same old problem," he said. "The department of public works said the contracts for the intersection must be awarded prior to occupancy. This means we agree

FOUNDATIONS have been laid for 60 units of housing at Carmel Valley Ranch but no construction has started yet. The foundations (on far side of golf course) were required to be laid by the county before construction could begin on the first increment of 80 units. The first phase of the project includes 140 units, and county planning commissioners to a written document to build after people have already gotten occupancy.

"The building of the intersection will occur after the units are occupied. We now have people living on the site with children, and there are construction dangers.

"These are the same kind of promises we keep hearing. The promises always seem to be paper and subject to change and more court appeals. Meanwhile, there are people on the site. I think it's highly dangerous.

"The problem is that the contract might call for construction 10 years down the road."

Myron ("Doc") Etienne, developer attorney, told the commission that the Carmel Valley Ranch specific plan allows the occupancy of 160 housing units before construction of the intersection improvements.

"But before the 161st person moves in, the intersection contracts must be let," Etienne said. "I think you're being oppressive to the ranch with that position."

"The problem is that we're talking about heavy construction with road graders—the kind that squash little children," Varga snapped.

Richard Rosenthal, a Carmel Valley attorney, told the commission that approval of the use permit would be "premature."

"I understand that Carmel Valley Ranch does not have a vested right, pursuant to the interim ordinance," Rosenthal said, with reference to the court-imposed moratorium on new development in Carmel Valley while the Master Plan is revised.

County planners to hear special floodplain permit

The Monterey County Planning Commission will consider Oct. 14 the first request for a special permit under the county's new Carmel River floodplain ordinance.

Eleanor Harder has requested a permit to construct a 50-foot-high wind-powered generator within the 200-foot floodplain corridor.

Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon approved a use permit Sept. 11 for the generator, subject to issuance of a special permit from the planning commission to build within the floodplain.

Under the county ordinance, the planning commission is the body which considers all requests for special permits to construct within the 200-foot corridor.

The generator would be built on Garzas Road, west of Boronda Road, about two miles west of Carmel Valley Village.

Slimmon said a wind-powered generator is an allowed use in the R-1 residential area where Mrs. Harder wants to construct one, but the use permit was granted to allow an exception to the 30-foot height limit.

Lia Belli to speak here Saturday

Lia Belli, wife of internationally known attorney Melvin Belli, will speak at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 10 at the monthly meeting of the Monterey Americans for Democratic Action. Richard Criley, president of the American Civil Liberties Union in Monterey, will also address the group. Both speakers will concentrate their remarks on the Human Life Amendment—an anti-abortion measure—and its implications for society.

The meeting, which is open to the public, will be held in Room 205 of the Social Sciences Building, Monterey Peninsula College. For more information phone 394-0124.

General Plan panel meets today

The Carmel Citizens' General Plan Advisory Committee will meet today (Oct. 8) with representatives of the consulting firm hired to update the general plan.

The panel will discuss proposals for revision of the plan with Earth Metrics representatives at 7 p.m. in Carmel City Council chambers, on Monte Verde between Ocean and 7th.

The meeting is open to the public.

Water tank failure in Woods causes concern for emergencies

A mechanical failure at a water tank caused loss of water pressure to homes in the upper Carmel Woods area for a half-hour last Monday.

The failure may have affected as many as 50 residences, and brought into question the availability of water for a fire-fighting emergency.

No emergency arose during the 30 minute period from about 8 a.m. to 8:30 a.m., but California-American Water Co. Vice-President Richard Sullivan said it could have taken 10 to 15 minutes to restore pressure, if a fire had broken out.

The loss of pressure was caused by failure of a telephone circuit used to activate pumps which fill water storage tanks when the water level is low, Sullivan explained.

"Booster pumps fill the tanks when they start dropping below a certain level," Sullivan said. "The pumps are activated by a telephone circuit, which failed, so the pumps didn't go on."

In the event of an emergency, additional water reserves in the amount of 170,000 gallons could have been called upon from another source, Sullivan said.

That action would have required a Cal-Am employee to be on the scene to activate "check valves," Sullivan explained. The time involved in that process would have depended on the proximity of a Cal-Am employee to the tank.

"It probably would have taken 10 or 15 minutes to get someone up there," Sullivan said. "Or it could have been only three minutes, depending on where they were when they answered their beeper."

There are 60 water tanks in the Cal-Am system which bolster water available from mains. They are used for meeting peak water demand periods and for fire-fighting purposes, Sullivan said.

The area affected by the drop in water pressure Monday included "the high points along Portola and San Lucas," Sullivan said. Cal-Am could not give a precise estimate of how many homes were affected.

But the Carmel Planning Department estimated there are 98 residences on the eastern — or upper — side of Portola, although not all of those homes may have been affected.

One resident on Portola who experienced the loss of water pressure at her residence at 24411 Portola estimated that there are "between 50 and 100" homes at higher elevations in the Carmel Woods area which could have been affected.

Congressional panel to hold offshore oil hearings

A Congressional subcommittee will hold a field hearing Friday, Oct. 9 in San Francisco on a new offshore drilling proposal which would open up areas off Big Sur and in Monterey Bay for lease.

Lease Sale 73 would open up areas off the Big Sur coast and within the Point Reyes-Farallon Islands Marine Sanctuary to oil rigs by January of 1983—two months after the next election.

The Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee of the House Interior Committee is headed by Congressman Edward Markey (D-Mass.). Testimony is scheduled by Gov. Edmund G. Brown and California Congressmen John Burton, Tom Lantos and George Miller.

Subcommittee members are to question representatives of the fishing industry, local governments, oil companies, environmental groups, and the Department of the Interior about the new proposal.

Lease Sale 73 proposes to open up the same areas recently deleted from Lease Sale 53, but with the addition of the area off the Big Sur coast. State and local California officials have stated that deletion of northern areas from Lease Sale 53 was only a delaying action by Interior Secretary James Watt.

MILLS FAILS TO APPEAR

The war, child labor, the tariff, the eight-hour law, etc. were the subjects about which a fair-sized audience heard most at the Socialist meeting held on Sunday afternoon at the Forest Theatre.

The speaker, Miss Luella Twining, instead of Walter Thomas Mills, who was unable to be present, as advertised, played no favorite in her references to Hughes, Wilson, Roosevelt and Taft.

It is doubtful if any converts to the Socialist cause were made at this meeting, as most of those present were Socialists.

TEACHER FOR MENTALLY RETARDED LIKELY AT CHS

The Carmel school district hopes to establish a program for the educable mentally retarded if funds for a teacher become available from the county.

Superintendent of Schools Harris Taylor said the district expects to receive $7,500 as its share of a large federal grant given to the county to stimulate new employment.

If so, he said, the money will be used to hire a qualified teacher to head a special program at Middle School and Carmel High School.

MIKE KELLER, HIDDEN VALLEY SEMINARS JOIN IN NEW THEATER VENTURE

Peter Meckel, chief administrator of the Hidden Valley Music Seminars, this week announced the formation of a theater division under the aegis of the Hidden Valley group.

Carmel's Mike Keller, formerly director of the Community Theater, has been named director of the new drama division. Formation of the new unit was made possible through a grant from an unidentified patron of the arts here on the Peninsula.

The new group will launch its first season with the world-famous musical, "Fiddler on the Roof."

(on the Valley Master Plan) is up for review," Rosenthal said. "It states that 2,400 units in the Master Plan is overstated."

"WE'RE GIVING Carmel Valley Ranch priority over other landowners and

'The problem is that we're talking about heavy construction with road graders—the kind that squash little children'

developers in Carmel Valley," Rosenthal said. "They should be on an equal footing. Any more implementation of the Carmel Valley Ranch under the specific plan would be unfair to the developer and to the citizens, prior to resolution of the Master Plan."

Ramos said Carmel Valley Ranch is proceeding with development plans in accordance with planning guidelines established by the State Office of Planning and Research.

"The OPR letter says that development in Carmel Valley may proceed pursuant to an interim ordinance," Ramos said. "Our interim ordinance says development may proceed where a specific plan has been approved. Carmel Valley Ranch has an approved specific plan."

Commissioner Peter Cailotto expressed concern over elimination of 17 low-income employee housing units in the revised use permit application.

"This does not resolve the problem of where these people will sleep," Cailotto said. "This has an effect on traffic and on the rest of the project. After a problem is created, we can't just back off."

Stanley Kulakow, engineer with Creagan & D'Angelo of Monterey, said the intersection project would be put to bid by December, and construction should start by January, 1982. It will take six to nine months to complete, he said.

In the first phase of development, Carmel Valley Ranch received approval for 140 townhouses, a tennis club, golf course and a clubhouse.

School district nears decision on facilities

The Board of Education of the Carmel Unified School District is to take the first step toward a decision on school facilities use when it meets at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 13 at Carmel High School.

The board will receive three reports intended to provide some information on effects of changes in grade patterns and possible closure or one or more elementary schools next year.

The first is an architect's report on costs of renovation and construction of high school facilities. It will detail costs involved in rehabilitation of Carmel High School, as well as costs of conversion of Carmel Middle School to a high school facility.

One alternative the district has considered in response to a decline in enrollment and reduced revenue is conversion of the grade pattern to either K-8, 9-12 or K-6, 7-12 and elimination of the middle school.

The second report which the board will receive and consider is from the school facilities sub-committee. It concerns the potential value of sale or lease of school facilities, if the district decides to close one or more schools.

And the third is a staff committee report which analyzes effects of various changes in the district grading pattern.

The Board of Education indicated at its last meeting that another, special meeting would be called for Thursday, Oct. 15 to complete consideration of the reports, if the additional time is required.

The board has repeatedly affirmed its intention to make a decision on grade patterns and school facilities use at its Oct. 27 meeting. The public is invited to attend all meetings and to comment on alternatives under consideration, said Supt. Bill Rand.

Devendorf renovation

Carmel city workers are scheduled to begin tearing up the western, or ocean side of Devendorf Park today in order to install a new sprinkler system and re-seed the lawn.

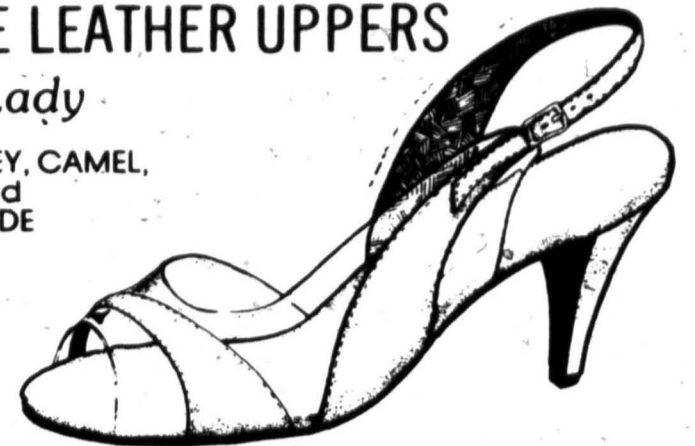

The western half of the park will be closed for about six weeks, according to city forester, Greg d'Ambrosio, but the eastern half will remain open. Next year the eastern half will get the treatment.

Handicapped at Rippling River

been much outreach done since I've been manager.

"In the next four to six months, we will send brochures out to let people know we're here."

Malcolm Jones, adult protection worker with the Monterey County Department of Social Services in Seaside, said his agency's services to Rippling River residents are spotty and infrequent.

"I haven't been out there in a month," Jones said. "We're just called in whenever there's a problem. For the people who need attendant care, we get them certified so they can find their own people. The state pays their attendants minimum wage. There's a lot of people out there who need services."

"We were called out there recently to take a man off the floor. He wasn't being ignored, he just refused any help. If one of the people meets our eligibility requirements, we can pay for someone to be an attendant. We look at their eligibility and needs on a case-by-case basis."

Some residents meet housing authority standards for assistance, but do not qualify for social services assistance, Jones explained.

"We're not contracted to do anything for them. We've got people who want to get in there but we're waiting until the remodeling is done. Basically, the whole Rippling River thing was a bad mistake."

Moore said another cutback which may have to be made in the months ahead is filling in the swimming pool.

"It costs about $10,000 a year to operate the pool," Moore said. "We can't use low rent money to pay for the operation of a swimming pool, so we've tentatively decided to fill it in because we have been unable to find a long-range source of funding to keep it in operation."

Ms. Thomas said the swimming pool, which has been closed recently because of a leak, "is not necessary therapeutically, but it plays an important part in the tenants' lives. 'There's definitely a need for a place like this. I think to operate this kind of place you really have to iron out all the kinks.'"

ONE RESIDENT of Rippling River feels the Department of Social Services could do more to make life better for residents.

Margaret Sprague, 80, deplored what she sees as a lack of concern for the welfare of tenants at Rippling River.

MANAGER BRENDA THOMAS believes the isolation of the Rippling River complex, near Carmel Valley Village, is the cause of many of its problems. She feels the remodeling program designed to provide more privacy and to encourage more independence among residents will be a positive step. (Alan McEwen photo).

"My main complaint is against the Department of Social Services," she said. "It's taken them as long as three months to help people who had strokes."

In one instance, a resident had a stroke and was allowed to languish in helplessness for days until medical assistance was summoned, according to Mrs. Sprague.

"I talked to social services and they finally sent someone out. When he got here, the man was lying on the floor. Then they called the wrong ambulance, and had to call another one. They finally took him to the hospital and then put him in a rest home."

"But the sordidness, the stench, the animal living he had to go through to get there!"

The Department of Social Services "promises" persons who receive Supplemental Security Income (SSI) they will receive 16 hours of aide services a month, "but they don't send anyone out," Mrs. Sprague said.

"The county housing authority has one end in view for Rippling River: to provide low-income housing. They're changing it from a place for the handicapped to low-income housing. They don't seem to realize that a place for the handicapped can never be self-supporting because we all have to have supporting services."

Another resident, who asked that her name be withheld for fear of reprisals, said the tenants are "not treated as human beings — we're treated as things."

"They care nothing about us. There's no personal feeling around here. When we lost the switchboard, we lost all personal contact. I really don't think they want handicapped people here. They're building a facility for the handicapped in Monterey."

Food served at Rippling River since the shift to two and one-half meals per day is "very poor" and there are no substitutes, she said.

"If you don't like what they're serving, you go hungry."

To soften the impact of the services cutbacks, the county housing authority has ordered a new $30,000 van especially equipped for the handicapped to provide transportation for tenants, Moore said. It will replace the older van which has been in service several years. There is a full-time resident caretaker equipped with an electronic "beeper" on call to residents during evenings and weekends when the manager is absent.

But Don Maddox, a quadriplegic resident of Rippling River, believes tenants are the victims of bureaucratic bungling.

"No one likes what's happening here," Maddox said. "We're being sacrificed to the bureaucratic disease. The bureaucrats are able to measure their output—how many people are on their rolls—but they're unable to measure their impact on people."

"That's bred an atmosphere of contempt. The housing authority appears to be using the 'big lie' technique. The management will say 'yes' to almost any question or request and subsequently take no action at all."

"In the past year, the housing authority has instituted a policy to rent only to people who can care for themselves. They're changing the rules."

Mrs. Costagliola said residents were given assurances when housekeeping services were eliminated that they would be provided some other way.

"The manager said to one resident they would hire housekeeping services to substitute," Mrs. Costagliola said. "Another resident was assured by the manager she need not worry because housekeeping services would be maintained somehow. To this date, the management has not provided any services to any residents."

"Meal services in general have deteriorated. People with special dietary needs can not be accommodated. Meals are of poor quality, nutritionally. The new policy includes a $5 charge for delivery of one meal to a room."

County Housing Authority Director Bruce Moore said he was distressed to learn that some residents feel they are not treated with enough respect.

"I'm unhappy to hear that," Moore said. "That's not a concern that has been raised at our other housing facilities. We enjoy excellent relations with tenants at all our other facilities for the handicapped."

Moore noted that all meals at Rippling River are prepared under the direction of a licensed nutritionist and are nutritionally balanced.

"We've got varying caloric needs there," he said. "Some of the younger residents need more calories than the older ones, so the older ones don't necessarily need all the calories they're getting."

'We're trying to create a higher degree of independence'

The $5 charge for room-delivered meals is used as an incentive to draw residents out of their quarters, the director said.

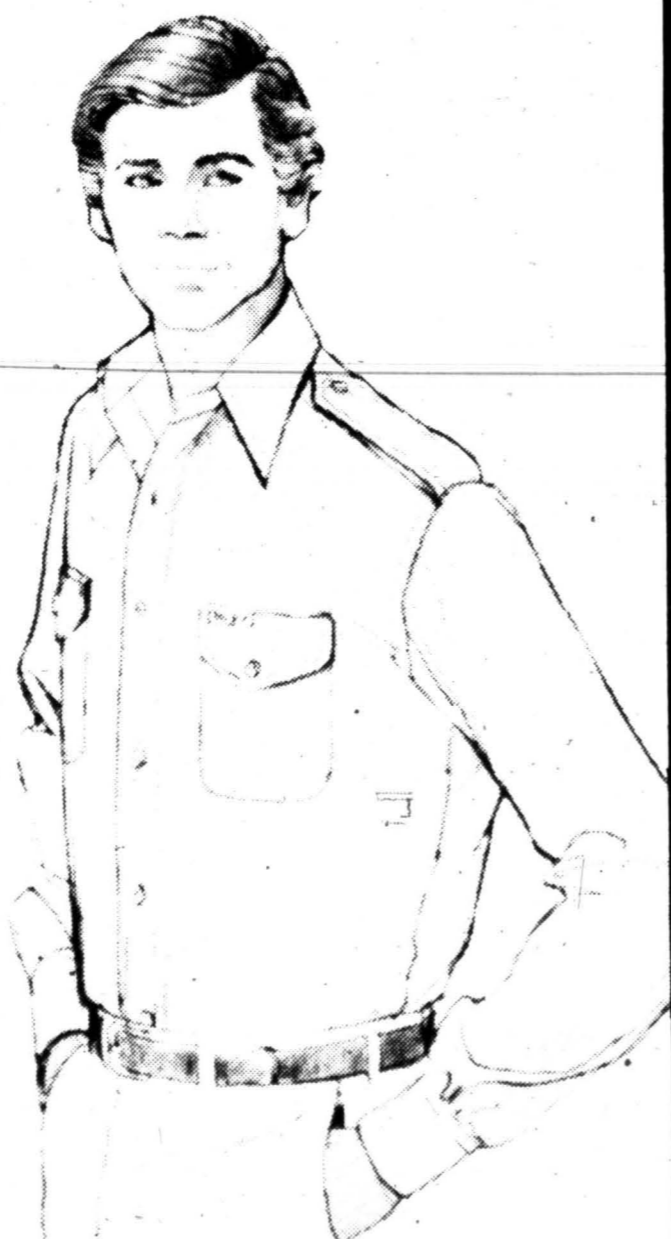

"We're trying to get folks to come out of their rooms. A few of them have a tendency to withdraw." Residents who must leave before 10 a.m. for school are given a sack meal and do not go hungry, Moore said.

As for the fear that the county wants to turn Rippling River into a home for low-income seniors, Moore said: "The county has required as part of our use permit that we stay as a facility for the handicapped."

"Every individual we've taken in since we took over management is handicapped, although there were some people there from the previous administration who were not handicapped. That's a dead issue."

Only a horse...

By JUDITH A. EISNER

WE DECIDED it wouldn't really be stretching things too far to consider horses pets, especially since most people in this area keep horses strictly for pleasure and regard them with affection. What bothers us is that the home-based pleasure horse is probably one of the most forlorn of creatures.

As most parents of pre-teen and teenage girls will attest, there comes a time in the life of their daughters when having a horse is the most important thing in the world. Because many of the homes in unincorporated areas of the county are zoned for horses, the requests are often granted. And because we live in a "horsey" area, it's often possible to buy a good "first horse" for a relatively modest sum and a Shetland pony for considerably less.

The "where are we going to keep it" problem is easily answered: in a weekend of hammering, a corral of varying size is constructed using whatever scrap material is lying about; an old bathtub is hauled in for a water trough and the new horse is duly installed in his "home."

But have you looked at these "homes" with a critical eye recently? Have you seen the trampled-down "pastures" with hardly a weed braving the clay-like soil? Have you noticed the "pleasure horses" standing with heads down as the sun scorches their backs, the flies attack and there's nothing bigger than a fencepost for shade?

THERE ARE DEGREES, of course, to the accommodations people provide for their horses. You will find cleanly-swept corrals with one or two big trees for shade and shelter, with a stable or lean-to for escaping the sun, rain and wind.

But there are probably more small paddocks about where the manure is permitted to accumulate forever, where the ground is alternately hard and dusty or a veritable quagmire, and the horse in residence has little to occupy his time and few comforts to help it pass, unless his owner is present.

Of course, it takes effort to muck out a corral and it takes a good deal of management to provide year-round grazing in our area. It can be done, for we've all seen examples of irrigated pastures where the horses have an opportunity to graze, scratch against friendly oak trunks, drink clean, fresh water and lie down for a good roll in the grass.

Part of the problem stems from the fact that many people don't plan their corrals properly. First, they don't realize the wear and tear a set of hooves take on the turf. For that reason, many corrals are too small and the grass has no chance of survival, even with liberal watering.

Secondly, people frequently forget about drainage and often locate a corral behind the house — and at the base of a hillside. Come winter, the water runs off and the horse finds himself living in a bog (at best) and a septic tank at worst.

THERE ARE EXPERIENCED horsemen who insist that horses require no more protection from the elements than their own coats. "Look at them in the wild," they say.

When the sun bakes on the arroyos and mesas where the last mustangs eke out a living, you won't find the horses trapped in a tiny fenced-in oven. You'll find them beneath trees or resting in the shade of overhanging rocks.

And when winter rains and winds sweep down the plains, you'll find any horse worth his heritage taking shelter beneath those same rocks, not standing, head down and streaming water, hock deep in the middle of a corral-turned-mudhole.

Each year, the SPCA comes to the aid of "pleasure" horses that have been starved, abused, beaten or "pastured" in mire that reaches their knees. And the owners of these mistreated horses somehow don't understand that their animals deserve or require any better treatment. They're just horses, aren't they?

Now that school has begun and the youthful equestrians of the area are pretty well tied up with other interests, the pleasure horse is denied much of the care and attention lavished upon him during summer vacation. Now, too often, riding is reserved for weekends and holidays, as is stable-cleaning, grooming and sometimes, we fear, even feeding. The horse becomes a sometime thing.

And horses need attention, affection and exercise to keep them bright and on their toes. Herd animals and gregarious, it is as cruel to leave them entirely alone day after day as it would be to consign a dog to a drab kennel.

So you who already own horses, and you who are considering your first horse, give some thought to the pleasure horse's pleasure and well-being. Don't assume that because he's only a horse, he can survive, let alone prosper, without regular care and kindness.

UNDULATING through the mist, a pack of Trans-Am cars tackles the challenging Laguna Seca track. High-speed action is promised at the Sprite Monterey Grand Prix, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 10-11.

Grand Prix weekend at Laguna Seca

Laguna Seca Raceway will reverberate with the roar of racing engines this weekend as drivers from all over the world compete in three championship races and a host of lesser events in the annual Sprite Monterey Grand Prix.

Race cars boasting engines of 800 to 1,000 horsepower will negotiate the track's 1.9 miles of convoluted asphalt at speeds of up to 120 miles an hour. They will be watched by a crowd estimated at 25,000 to 30,000, with heaviest attendance on Sunday, Oct. 11.

On that day three races will run their final heats: The North American Formula Ford Championship at 11:30 a.m.; The CRC Chemicals Trans-Am Championship at 1 p.m.; and The Datsun/Budweiser Can-Am Challenge at 2:30 p.m. An alcohol-fueled go-kart race completes the day at 3:45 p.m. Saturday's program consists mainly of qualifying races (see schedule in box).

The ice-blue eyes of actor/race car driver Paul Newman will be staring down the straightaway for the Can-Am race Sunday, but not from behind the wheel of an automobile. Newman will attend as a spectator to watch Teo Fabi of the Paul Newman/Budweiser Racing Team challenge

Geoff Brabham, current point leader in Can-Am events.

Another Can-Am celebrity is Janet Guthrie, driving the Golden Gate Racing Lola. Guthrie, first woman to race at Indianapolis, has spent several days with the British School of Motor Racing at Laguna Seca, learning the track. She is a veteran of Daytona, Sebring and the 500-mile track at Watkins Glen.

Entries for the Trans-Am race include Eppie Wietzes of Canada, the current point leader; Bob Tullius of Virginia, former two-time champion in the Trans-Am series; John Bauer, the 1980 champion; and veterans Hurley Haywood and Bruce Leven. Local talent is represented by Herb Adams of Carmel, Bill Maier of Hayward, Gregg Pickett of Pleasanton and Frank Leary of Santa Clara.

Tickets are available at BASS and Ticketron locations, and also at the track. Prices are $10 for Sunday, $14 for two-day general admission and $25 for two-day VIP admission.

Laguna Seca Raceway is located off Hwy. 68 between Monterey and Salinas. For more information phone 373-1811.

Capt. Cooper 'Super Duper' Carnival Sat.

Captain Cooper School welcomes everyone to a Super-Duper Carnival on Saturday, Oct. 10, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A colorful carnival banner on Highway One will mark the spot of this annual fund-raiser to help the school and children.

Among the attractions will be a prize drawing with goods donated by local merchants, game booths, face painting, pony rides, a cake walk, white elephant booth, cookie decorating, and good food. A featured attraction will be a dunking booth.

Jake Stock and the Abalone Stompers will provide music and a clown will provide entertainment at the event.

Captain Cooper school is a small, "one room" schoolhouse operated by the Carmel Unified School District. It is located in Big Sur Village, approximately 30 miles south of Carmel on Highway 1.

Hidden Valley now in healthy financial shape

HIDDEN VALLEY Music Seminars is alive and well.

After years of financial struggles, the non-profit institute of the arts in Carmel Valley has paid all back rent and taxes, as well as all accounts payable.

And opera will return to the Hidden Valley stage for the 1981-82, with a production of Rossini's La Cenerentola which opens Jan. 14, 1982.

Hidden Valley announced Monday that an outstanding balance of $79,000 in back rent and taxes had been paid as a result of a six-month fund-raising effort.

Negotiations are underway to purchase or lease on a long-term basis the 10-acre campus facility, and a fund-raising campaign with a $135,000 goal has been launched, said director Peter Meckel.

"It's very exciting to see the kind of energy that has been developed by people who care about Hidden Valley," Meckel said. "We will continue to stay small and to improve the quality of our programs.

"We look forward very much to the return of our opera programs, especially."

Meckel said the turnaround in Hidden Valley's financial position was accomplished with the assistance of several large donors. One donation was $75,000, he said.

Payment of back rent and taxes to the landlord—the Bruce Church Co. of Salinas and Sally Church—was in accord with an order from Superior Court Judge Richard Silver last April to settle a dispute which could have resulted in eviction.

Under the agreement, Hidden Valley will continue to lease the facilities for $2,500 per month from Oct. 1 until Sept. 30, 1982.

On or before that date, Hidden Valley may purchase the property, with the supervision of the court to make certain that terms and conditions of the sale are reasonable.

Meckel announced that arrangements have been completed with eight members of the New York Philharmonic to produce a four-day "Masters' Festival" of chamber music in July, which he hopes "will become the classical equivalent of the Monterey Jazz Festival."

Other activities scheduled throughout the year include a harp master class in November, the arrival of the opera ensemble and rehearsals in December, opening of La Cenerentola and La Traviata in January, school music tours in March, and The Fantasticks in April.

A dance production will be staged in May, followed by flute, violin, and cello master classes in June, dance seminar and masters' festival in July, and choral and orchestral seminars in August.

Congressman Leon Panetta of Carmel Valley wrote a congratulatory letter to Hidden Valley in which he spoke of an "arts explosion" in America.

"The arts should always be an American priority," Panetta wrote. "It is companies such as Hidden Valley that bring spiritual uplift, economic benefits, and pure pleasure to the community.

"America is presently having an arts explosion. According to the American Council for the Arts, more Americans are attending live theatre performances, opera, dance and visiting art museums than ever before in history.

"California has long been at the vanguard of this creative movement, with Hidden Valley a shining example of determination and innovation."

Hidden Valley was founded in 1962 in Southern California by Peter Meckel. It was named for its first site in the Angeles National Forest. In 1967, Hidden Valley Music Seminars moved to the Monterey Peninsula.

In 1970, Hidden Valley was the birthplace for the Magic Carpet, a well-known children's theatre ensemble now based in San Francisco. In 1972, Hidden Valley moved to its present location in Carmel Valley.

Bad Day at Black Rock

By LYN BRONSON

EVERYONE HAS DAYS when nothing seems to go right. The Monterey County Symphony under the direction of Haymo Taeuber had such a day in their opening concert of the 1981-82 season at King Hall Sunday evening.

There were problems of ragged ensemble, uneven balance, shaky string intonation, imprecise attack in the brasses and in general a lackluster performance from beginning to end.

The opening work, the Overture to The School for Scandal by Samuel Barber, sounded out of control the moment it started and it never really settled down to the precision and solidarity needed to bring out the humor in this finely-crafted piece. There were nice solos by oboist David Seely and flutist Ray Fabrizio, but the overall effect left much to be desired.

The major attraction of the evening was the appearance of pianist Horacio Gutierrez as soloist in the Rachmaninoff Third Concerto. I heard Gutierrez play this concerto in Los Angeles approximately ten years ago. It was a hair-raising performance which brought the house down — absolutely the most intense performance I had ever heard live or on record. There is no question but that Gutierrez has a very special affinity for this concerto.

In the last few decades after its publication, it was fashionable to make several substantial cuts in the Third Concerto, and virtually every performer made cuts in slightly different places. It came to be accepted that although this concerto was a great work, it was, unfortunately, a flawed one — nobody played it uncut.

Mr. Gutierrez is one of the growing number of pianists who do not accept this point of view and is insistent on playing the original, uncut version. He also plays the revised cadenza, since the original cadenza was so grossly bombastic that the composer himself refined and reduced its proportions so as not to overbalance the movement itself.

So the stage was set. We have a great pianist who loves the work he is about to perform and one who has demonstrated that he is a sensitive, thinking musician willing to address himself to the problem of sustaining audience interest in the longer, uncut version. And he has a very successful track record with this concerto. So. What went wrong on this occasion?

Two problems were apparent right from the beginning. First of all, uneven voicing of the piano itself caused many notes on the instrument to have an unpleasant, metallic twang. And, secondly, the orchestra was just not sufficiently rehearsed to follow the mercurial twists and turns of Rachmaninoff's score. There were about 30 tempo changes in the first movement alone which require very skillful coordination between orchestra and soloist.

THE SLOW MOVEMENT, with almost as many tempo fluctuations as the first, was played with similar problems. The last movement, which according to one member of the orchestra was the least rehearsed, surprisingly was the most successful.

Here the driving force exhibited by Gutierrez carried the day. Although the piano could not produce as much tone as was needed in the final climax, the finale stirred up the audience to the point that they awarded Mr. Gutierrez a standing ovation.

The concluding work was the Brahms Symphony Number Four. It limped along, trying to pick up its feet, but never succeeded in getting off the ground.

Undoubtedly an off evening will inspire everyone to work harder for the next concert, and there is nothing wrong here that a little more rehearsal time will not cure.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

Music Director of the Youth Orchestra of Monterey County, Stewart Robertson, is pleased as punch with the impressive turnout of young musicians for the newly established youth orchestra. More than 100 auditioned and 62 were selected. Stewart has an impressive track record of inspiring young musicians to better performances than they themselves thought possible. Everything bodes well for the future success of the orchestra.

Rosario Mazzeo, former member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and one of the world's foremost authorities on all aspects of the clarinet, is the proud author of the recently published The Clarinet: Excellence and Artistry. This book will be reviewed in the Monterey Peninsula Herald by Scott MacClelland and in the Pine Cone by one time clarinetist Al Eisner, the Pine Cone's owner and publisher.

Carmel pianist Virginia Hoff-Greenburg and flutist Leon Wilson will perform a recital at the Carmel Foundation on Wednesday, Oct. 28 at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Greenburg will be playing solo works by Mendelssohn and Chopin and will join together with Mr. Wilson to perform two rarely-heard works — a rondo by W. A. Mozart's oldest son and the lesser known Poulenc Flute Sonata written in 1962, the year before Poulenc's death.

In between her activities on behalf of musical organizations on the Monterey Peninsula, Angie Machado, well known Peninsula music teacher is also finding time to play chamber music these days. Joining her in informal music making are violinists Dorothy Wester and Ray Barton plus cellist Lee Long.

A warm welcome to Peninsula newcomers, Dr. Maurice Zam of Carmel, formerly a resident of Los Angeles, who has a most colorful background, and Donn Schroder of Carmel who plays viola in the Monterey County Symphony and also the Oakland Symphony.

Pianists Rene and Lyn Bronson will play a program of two-piano music at the annual state convention of the California Association of Professional Music Teachers on Friday, October 23, at Asilomar.

Sunset Views

Another performance season has opened at Sunset Center

By RICHARD TYLER

"ANOTHER SEASON of performances has started in the Sunset Theater with the symphony concert this past Monday and the appearance of Anna Russell opening a new series, the Lively Arts.

On Thursday evening, Friday afternoon, and also the evening, Explorama returns to Carmel. The popular series has been screening at the theater for over 12 years. This year, a Friday matinee performance has been added to accommodate the overwhelming requests that have been received by the offices at Sunset Center and Explorama.

"Travelogue" . . . Burton Holmes coined the word during his first appearance in London in 1904. He defined the word this way: "Travelogue — the gist of a journey, ground fine by discrimination, leavened with information, seasoned with humor, fashioned in literary form, and embellished by pictures that delight the eye while the spoken story charms the ear."

For the next 50 years, Holmes was virtually alone in the production and presentation of travelogues. He presented his programs before millions of people and his name became a household word. In her biography, Times to Remember, Rose Kennedy writes: "On many a Saturday afternoon I had sat enthralled in Boston's Symphony Hall listening to Burton Holmes, whose illustrated travelogues were among the famous and popular entertainments of the era, and envying his experience, wishing I could visit some of those places. These were the beginning, I expect, of a lifetime wanderlust and global curiosity."

Today over 150 people actively produce and present travel/adventure films and 13 million people attend their performances each year on the North American continent.

George Loubis, founder and president of Explorama, defines travelogue documentary this way: "A travelogue documentary is a filmed journalistic report of a country, of geographic regions highlighting the natural and man-made beauty, describing something of a social order, the economic and sociological development of people and presented in an entertaining manner."

This year, Explorama will present seven travelogue adventure films each month through the season excepting December. They are:

Brazil — in a Nutshell for the month of October. This film explores the world's fifth largest country from glamorous Rio de Janeiro's cosmopolitan beaches to the raw unspoiled wonders of the Amazon rain forest.

The magic cameras of Robin Williams weave a captivating story of Turkey and her people in a memorable and beautifully photographed new film to be presented in November.

A fascinating and exciting new film adventure that captures the real spirit of the amazing Swiss people and their country is the subject of January's film adventure.

A storybook setting for a fascinating film by a brilliant new star, Kathleen Dusek, called Belgium: Land of Two People will be shown in February.

Join veteran film producer and world traveler, Thayer Soule, in his newest film adventure as he explores the glittering waters of the world's most famous sea, Mediterranean Odyssey, the March choice.

Throughout 1,000 years of history, the Poles have maintained a sense of unity and patriotism. Despite overwhelming odds, they have shown courage and dedication unmatched in the modern world. In a magnificent and moving film, Sherilyn and Matthew Montes capture the spirit of Poland and her people for the April presentation.

And, lastly, for certainly not least, in May, the oldest kingdom in the world today, Denmark, will feature Copenhagen's famed landmarks, Amalienborg Palace, Tivoli Gardens, the island of Funen, Odense and the Jutland Peninsula. This is an exciting film blending old and new with interesting human interest vignettes of the Danish people.

For more information regarding the series, please call Explorama in San Francisco or join us for the opening night, Thursday, October 8, at the Sunset Theater. There will be tickets available at the box office.

Great Sand Castle Contest is this Sunday!

Influenced by favorable tides and other mysterious factors, Sunday, Oct. 11, has been designated the day of the Great Sand Castle Contest of Carmel.

Thousands of people are expected to descend on Carmel Beach Sunday to inspect castles, trees, animals, humans and other creations, all made of sand.

Judging will be at 2 p.m. in the following categories: Novice Sand Pile, Advanced Sand Box, Theme and Grand Sand. In keeping with tradition, the worst loser will receive the much sought-after Sour Grapes Award.

Grand Sand Marshal Richard Barrett heads a contingent of American Institute of Architects members who will judge the contest. They include Bryce Graybill, Bob Warren, Fred Christiansen, Mike McNally, Gerry Galliano and Marvin Guillermo.

Judges representing the City of Carmel will be Police Chief Bill Ellis; City Clerk Jeane Kettelkamp; Councilmen Helen Arnold and Mike Brown; Lee Chamberlin of the Carmel Business Assn. and Planning Commissioner John Logan.

In contrast to other events on Carmel Beach, such as the annual Independence Day war, the Sand Castle Contest is traditionally a sedate affair, suitable for maiden ladies and small children. In order to maintain this happy serenity the judges have adopted a few general rules, to wit:

1. Observe city parking and traffic laws, and respect private property near the beach.

2. Keep dogs at home. A playful hound can ruin hours of meticulous labor in seconds.

3. Remove all foreign material when you leave the beach.

Excavation of excessively deep holes should be avoided due to possible cave-in.

There is no entry fee for the contest. Registration of entries will be done by the judges at the location of entries. If you have any questions, consult the people at the American Institute of Architects information booth at the base of Ninth St.

Grand Sand Marshal Barrett volunteered last week a few of his ideas on the ethical considerations of sand-castle judging.

"Castles are judged and awards given strictly on the whim of the judges," Barrett said. "Bribing of judges and officials may not win you an award, but you never can tell until you try."

The theme of this year's contest is "The Sixties, a Time of True Grit," in honor of the 20th anniversary of the event.

YES, WE HAVE SOME BANANAS: Workers unload bananas from Amazon River trading boats in a scene from Clay Francisco's travel film Brazil in a Nutshell. The film plays Sunset Center theater tonight at 8:15 p.m. and Friday, Oct. 9 at 2:15 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. For tickets phone 372-5893.

Brazil is focus of 'Explorama' at Sunset

Explorama, the popular series of travel-adventure films, begins a new season at 8:15 tonight with Brazil in a Nutshell, a film narrated in person by producer Clay Francisco. Francisco will also narrate two other showings of Brazil, one at 2:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 9 and a third at 8:15 Friday evening. All three performances will be given at Sunset Theater, Carmel.

Brazil in a Nutshell highlights the incredible diversity of the world's fifth largest country.

The amazing contrasts of South America's colorful colossus are presented with a sense of adventure, humor and insight. Glamorous Rio de Janeiro's cosmopolitan beaches and superb natural beauty vie with the raw, unspoiled wonders of the Amazon rain forest. Here, wildlife survives as does nightlife during Rio's frenetic Carnival. Busy, commercial Sao Paulo contrasts with colonial, cobblestoned Bahia. The new capital, Brasilia, has a futuristic, 21st-century look, yet the gateway to remote Mato Grosso.

Brazil - In a Nutshell examines four diverse cultures which have created modern Brazil. The Portuguese who first came as traders colonized and gave Brazil a language and an aristocracy. Africans have left a legacy of music and a zest for life. Indians from the interior have contributed both high adventure and tragedy. And recent immigrants from Europe and Asia have found new homes and new wealth in Brazil, the fastest growing country in all the Americas.

The film captures the magnificent vistas of Rio de Janeiro's Guanabara Bay at sunrise and sunset in a fascinating collage of color and mood. Looming overall are the outstretched arms of the Christ the Redeemer statue high atop Corcovado mountain. A different perspective is found riding the cable car up Sugar Loaf Mountain.

Below are Rio's famed beaches — Copacabana, Ipanema and Botafogo. Here life is centered around white sand, pretty girls, colored kites and mosaic sidewalks, plus soccer, volleyball and surfing.

Near the city are tropical forests, luxuriant vegetation and deserted beaches. Above the city are mountain resorts and an imperial palace where horse-drawn carriages provide the taxi service.

In the south, workers on huge plantations called "fazendas" harvest Brazil's perennial cash crop, coffee. From the port of Santos, coffee is graded and exported. Near the remote Mato Grosso, Brazilian cowboys herd cattle on new ranches hacked out of the wilderness. On the southern border, mighty Iguazu Falls surpasses Niagara and Victoria in Africa.

Stark views of modern architecture highlight Brasilia, the country's capital in the interior. In contrast, tradition abounds in the row houses and narrow brick streets of Salvador in the State of Bahia. Here the first Portuguese landed; they created Brazil's first capital city. Now it's the center of the African culture. Colorful clothing, unique cafes, ancient sailing vessels and a ritualistic dance called Capoeira all vie for attention at the main market.

The northeast has a windswept, semi-desert region called the sertao. When it rains, there is the cashew, both a fruit and a nut. Off the coast, many still fish in traditional balsa log rafts and search for fish far out in the open sea. On the coast new industry in Fortaleza is trying to bring more jobs to this problem area.

The mouth of the Amazon is at Belem. From Vero Peso market, river boats travel several thousand miles to trade in Amazonia. Vast forests, fascinating plant life and unusual animals are only a part of the Amazon panorama. The new Trans-Amazon Highway is now changing lifestyles.

In the interior, Indians still live much as they have for centuries. Bush pilots serve trading posts deep in the rain forests. One thousand mile up the Amazon River is Manaus, the old rubber capital, now the hub of river trade and travel. Bright new luxury hotels contrast with old colonial building, imported stone by stone from London and Paris during the rubber boom. Not far away, two great rivers — the Amazon and Rio Negro — merge. Here river fishing takes many forms, but beware of the deadly piranha.

In climax, nothing better illustrates the mood, the excitement and the lusty love of life in Brazil than does Carnival in Rio.

What's at the movies

Altered States: William Hurt plays the young Ph.D., Eddie Jessup, a pioneer in psychic research, who turns himself into a monster, trips out in isolation tanks and takes part in sacred Indian drug rituals in Mexico. The drug visions come crashing in on him — an assaultive mixture of religious, erotic, and animal imagery. Written by Paddy Chayefsky and directed by Ken Russell. Rated R. At the Valley Cinema.

Arthur: A comedy with Dudley Moore playing a happy millionaire drunk. Also with Liza Minnelli and John Gielgud. Rated PG. At the Golden Bough.

Body Heat: A typical 40s film theme: Kathleen Turner is a sexually overpowering woman who influences a weak man, William Hurt, to become a killer. Richard Crenna plays the husband. Set in a small town in Florida. Rated R. At the Valley Cinema.

Bye Bye Brazil: The adventures of a traveling carnival. Scenes of poor and wealthy areas in Brazil are shown. Full of music and gaiety. At the Dream Theatre.

Carbon Copy: A comedy about a man in a peculiar situation. George Segal loses his job, his house, his Rolls Royce, and his family has left him. And to make matters worse, a Black teenager shows up and claims to be his son. Also with Susan Saint James and Jack Warden. Rated PG. At the Regency Theatre.

D.O.A.: When he is slipped a dose of slow-acting poison, a man sets out to find his own murderer. Terrific taut melodrama with suspense on high throughout. At the Dream Theatre.

The Four Seasons: A romantic comedy about intimate friendships. Three middle-class, middle-aged couples take a vacation together, but relationships are strained when one of the men decides to leave his wife for a younger woman. Starring Alan Alda and Carol Burnett. Rated PG. At the Golden Bough.

Gallipoli: An Australian film by Peter Weir. Two innocent Australian youths decide to enlist in the army during World War I. They experience culture shock while in Egypt and Gallipoli, Turkey. Beautifully filmed scenes of the Australian desert and the pyramids. Rated R. At the Center Cinemas.

Mommie, Dearest: The life of great film star Joan Crawford, from her decline at MGM through her troubled middle years. Much of the film deals with her turbulent relationship with her adopted daughter, Christina. Faye Dunaway plays Joan. Rated PG. At the Cinema 70.

Only When I Laugh: A Neil Simon film about a Broadway actress (Marsha Mason) who is reunited with her daughter (Kristy McNichol) after years of separation. Her daughter decides to move in with her mother, and won't take no for an answer. Also with James Coco and Joan Hackett. Rated PG. At the Carmel Village Theatre.

Paternity: A comedy with Burt Reynolds playing a successful, unmarried businessman who decides he wants a child. He campaigns to find the "right" woman. Rated PG. At the State Three Cinemas.

Raiders of the Lost Ark: Written by George Lucas and directed by Steven Spielberg. Harrison Ford plays Indiana Jones, an archaeologist and adventurer who somehow survives while his adversaries are impaled on steel spikes, poison darted, dispatched by an airplane propeller and even melted while competing to find the Ark of the Covenant. Rated PG. At the State Three Cinemas.

Rich and Famous: Jacqueline Bisset and Candice Bergen star in a contemporary story of 20 years of friendship, from their days as college roommates to the present, sharing ups and downs, professional competition, and disappointments in matters of the heart, to find a new sense of shared experience and solid loyalty. Directed by George Cukor. Rated R. At the Carmel Center Cinemas.

Rocky Horror Picture Show: A horror/science fiction movie about the sexual confusion of two normal teenagers and a transvestite from another planet. Fri. and Sat. midnight show. At the Dream Theatre.

So Fine: A comedy with Ryan O'Neal as a businessman who tries to reach the top of the fashion world with his new designer jeans that features see-through bottoms. With Jack Warden, Mariangela Melato and Richard Kiel. Rated R. At the Regency.

Stripes: A comedy with Bill Murray as a loser who joins the "new" U.S. Army to meet girls. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Tell-Tale Heart: Fair version of Poe's classic tale of horror, about a murderer who is haunted by the sound of his victim's beating heart. Some creepy sequences. At the Dream Theatre.

True Confessions: Two acclaimed actors, Robert de Niro and Robert Duvall, portray brothers, one a priest and the other a detective, whose conflicting loyalties are challenged in the scandalous aftermath of a front-page homicide. Directed by Ulu Grosbard. Rated R. At the Hill Theatre.

Under the Rainbow: A comedy adventure about midgenets and the movies. Carrie Fisher plays a movie studio talent coordinator and Chevy Chase plays a Secret Service agent. Rated PG. At the State Three Cinemas.

Union City: A crime melodrama in the film noir tradition starring Dennis Lipscomb and Deborah Harry, with music by Chris Stein. At the Dream Theatre.

Film review:

Opposites Detract

By LISA JENSEN

HE'S A RUMPLED, chain-smoking political columnist for the Chicago Sun-Times who specializes in sniffing out City Hall scandals. She's a nature-loving ornithologist living in an almost inaccessible cabin in the Rocky Mountains, where she studies the American bald eagle. Each of them represents everything in life that the other one can't stand; but this is the movies, so of course, they fall in love.

Such is the premise of the new romantic comedy Continental Divide, which features the debut of professional lunatic John Belushi in a conventional leading man role. Despite its promising credentials, however, Continental Divide persistently fails to come together.

Belushi plays Chicago columnist Ernie Souchak, whose attacks in print on a crooked local politician have resulted in an attempt on his life. Souchak's editor (Allen Goorwitz), who wants his star reporter out of town until things cool off, sends him to interview publicity-shy naturalist Nell Porter (Blair Brown) at her mountain retreat.

After backpacking for days with a crusty old guide who keeps telling him how much Nell hates people, the exhausted Souchak finally arrives at Nell's cabin, where he promptly crashes. Naturally, the sparks fly when Nell returns to find this hulking Goldilocks in her bunk, but that's nothing compared to her reaction when she finds out who he is and what he wants from her. After this initial encounter, the disgruntled Souchak is mad enough to forget about the story, but unfortunately he's marooned at the cabin for two weeks until his guide comes back for him.

Continental Divide has some pleasant, offbeat moments. There's some funny business with a seemingly deranged mountain man name "Possum" (and a good payoff when his identity is revealed) and a great scene when an enraged Nell intimidates a pair of dumbfounded hunters and destroys their rifles.

And it's nice to see a pudgy comic figure like Belushi portrayed as a sexy and competent lover, a drastic change from the succession of boring beefcake bedmates Hollywood usually dishes up. (Although the movies will never begin to approach true liberation until they learn to portray non-glamorous women as sexy, too.)

But the film doesn't work. Part of the problem is Belushi; he's a hilarious physical comedian, but he's not much good at Kasdan's slick banter. And although there are random funny lines throughout, the constant, staccato repartee wears a little thin after awhile; the "signature" lines (Belushi's double-take "Pardon?" and Goorwitz's fussbudgety "I have a newspaper to run!") are repeated far too often.

The trouble with Kasdan's recent scripts is that they betray their source material too readily. Continental Divide desperately wants to be a Spencer Tracy-Katharine Hepburn comedy, and Body Heat wants to be a James M. Cain melodrama. But in both cases there's a crucial element missing: chemistry.

Belushi and the modestly engaging Brown seem to enjoy each other more than the lovers in Body Heat, but that magical electricity between two charismatic individuals just isn't there. And you can't have a successful movie romance without it.

No Bank Or Savings And Loan Can Pay You More!

The Wells Fargo Tax-Saver Certificate.

Maximum tax savings. Highest possible interest on this form of investment.

And a Personal Banker™ to help you make the most of both.

You've seen the announcements by all the banks and savings and loans about the new 1-year tax-saver certificates that allow you to exclude $1,000 in interest on single, and $2,000 on joint tax returns. Wells Fargo is offering them too (with a minimum deposit of $500). Fully insured by an agency of the Federal Government, and backed by the resources of a 23-billion dollar bank. In fact, no bank or savings and loan can pay you higher interest on this form of investment—or save you more on taxes—than Wells Fargo. But that's just where we begin.

Personal help for a major savings decision.

Before investing in a tax-exclusion savings plan, you should give serious thought to what's best for you personally. Should you seek maximum interest, or opt for tax savings? How much should you invest? What if you have to make an early withdrawal—are you aware that Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty? Or that it's possible to transfer savings from certain other Wells Fargo certificates to the Tax-Saver with no penalty? Important decisions should be informed decisions. And that's where Wells Fargo offers extra help.

A Personal Banker to see to your personal interest.

Your nearest Wells Fargo Bank has a financial professional who can help you answer these questions personally. A Wells Fargo Personal Banker, who can help you with a "Tax-Saver Benefit Analysis" that shows you which form or combination of savings best suits your individual financial situation. If you elect to invest in a Tax-Saver Certificate, your Personal Banker can even arrange to take care of all the details of the transfer for you. And of course, continue to keep you informed about things like interest rates and maturity dates.

We'll Reward you for saving taxes.

What's more, at Wells Fargo your Personal Banker can help fit you out with the impressive array of services known as the Golden Reward.™ Keep a minimum $2,000 balance in a Wells Fargo Tax-Saver Certificate, and you can get valuable banking services, including interest on the funds you use for checking, with no service charges or fee.

Substantial interest on your savings; maximum tax benefit; the safety and convenience of a major bank; and the financial know-how of a Personal Banker; plus the most comprehensive service package of its kind: the Golden Reward. Only one outfit delivers it all. The people at your nearest Wells Fargo Bank will be glad to tell you all about it.

An ounce of prevention

Many people have unrealistic fear of immunization

By RALPH RETHERFORD, M.D.

SINCE THE BEGINNING of this century, we have witnessed a major change in the types of diseases that are the common causes of death and disability in America. Back in the year 1900, infectious diseases (those communicable diseases which are spread by germs of one sort or another) were the leading cause of death.

Of these infectious diseases, tuberculosis was the single disease responsible for the most deaths, with pneumonia not far behind. To put this in perspective, at that time heart disease ranked fourth among the major causes of death, and cancer a distant fifth.

The picture has completely changed in modern day America, with tuberculosis and pneumonia causing an insignificant number of deaths, whereas heart disease has climbed to the No. 2 spot. In fact, the infectious diseases as a whole have decreased to the point where they are causing an insignificant amount of death and disability in modern day America.

So we see that our problem nowadays is not with the infectious diseases, but with the so-called degenerative diseases, like heart disease, cancer, diabetes, high blood pressure, etc.

This week I will explore the factors that have been responsible for this decline in infectious diseases in America and in particular to examine the role that immunizations have played in this process, and what we can expect them to continue to play in the future.

BACK IN THE late 1800's and early 1900's, scientists became aware that infectious diseases are spread by micro-organisms. With this new understanding, public health officials realized that by providing clean drinking water, the diseases that were spread through contaminated drinking water could be controlled and prevented. (It is interesting that even now in the developing countries around the world, roughly 80 percent of illnesses are due to water-borne diseases.)

In addition to providing clean drinking water, modern sanitation techniques and control of insect and rodent populations have also played a role in containing the spread of communicable diseases. In the 1940's, sulfa and penicillin were discovered, marking the beginning of the era of antibiotics. For the first time we were able to effectively treat many infectious diseases such as pneumonia and tuberculosis, whereas before we simply had to wait and hope that the patient's own defenses would be able to fight off the disease.

About this same time, scientists began understanding more about the body's immune mechanism, the process by which the body forms chemical substances called antibodies which are capable of killing germs of various sorts. It was discovered that if you take the actual germs that cause diseases like tetanus or diphtheria, grind them up and inject them into individuals, that the body could be fooled into making antibodies against these germs.

This was a tremendous breakthrough because, of course, the ground-up germs were incapable of causing an actual illness, but we could render people immune to the disease by a simple injection. This technique later became even more sophisticated when scientists developed the ability to breed strains of organisms that were similar enough to the infecting organism to produce immunity, but not similar enough to actually cause the disease. Examples of this are the oral polio vaccine or the measles vaccine.

THE RESULTS have been dramatic. The medical profession and public health officials have joined in attempting to immunize as many of our children in the United States as possible, and as a result we have seen the virtual elimination of polio, tetanus, diphtheria, whooping cough, measles, mumps and German measles. The most dramatic result of all has come with smallpox, a disease which used to occur in terrible epidemics, which officials in the World Health Organization now claim to have eradicated. This brings us to the reason why I am writing this article.

I found in my practice that not infrequently I have a mother who is concerned about giving her children immunizations for fear that they may have some adverse effect or damage the child in some way. The usual sentiment expressed is as follows: "I don't see why my child needs shots—after all, the diseases like polio and tetanus and whooping cough and diphtheria simply aren't around any more, so, why subject my child to an injection or oral vaccine that may cause some side effect?"

Usually I find the parents who feel this way have an unrealistic fear regarding the actual risk to their child from immunizations. In reality, the normal childhood immunizations that are given here in the United States carry a risk of serious complications approaching zero.

Unfortunately, when there have been serious complications arising from immunizations, such as with the swine flu vaccine, these are widely publicized and raise doubts in people's minds about immunizations. This is akin to someone reading about an airliner crashing and becoming frightened of flying, when in fact commercial airline travel is one of the safer things that you can do.

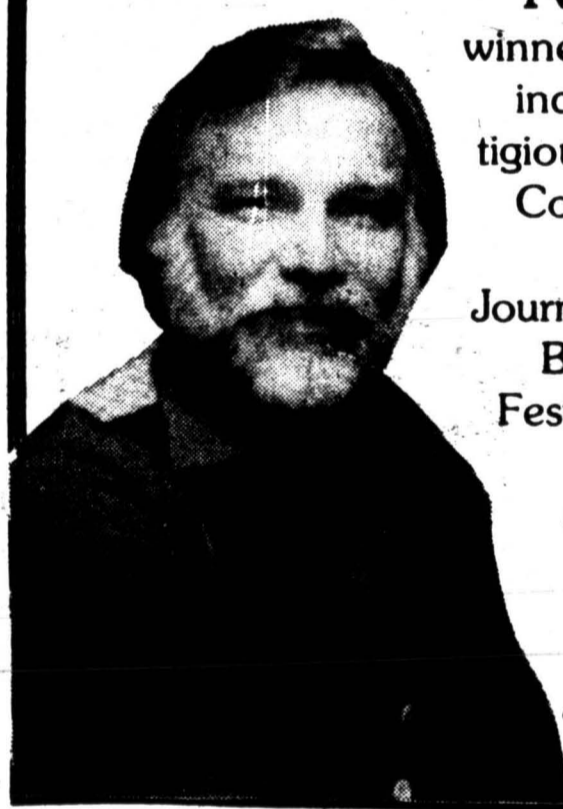

What about the argument advanced by some people, that we shouldn't bother with immunizations any more since polio, tetanus, diphtheria, etc., are not around any more? The reason that the diseases are not around any more is that we have an entire society of immune individuals. If we were to stop immunizing now, since the germs that caused these diseases are still in the environment, it would only be a matter of time before enough individuals became susceptible to these diseases so that there would be an epidemic.

As you may recall, this occurred not long ago in the Amish community back in the New England states when there was an outbreak of polio.

So, mothers and fathers out there, see that your children get all of the immunizations and make sure that you get a tetanus shot every five years.

Editor's note: This is Dr. Retherford's last weekly column. He will contribute articles from time to time, but not a regular basis.

Backgammon

Make sure of victory

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You, White, are about to roll in the diagrammed position. Should you double? If you do, should Black accept?

You should double, but Black should resign.

You leave a blot at your next turn only if you roll 6-2. In that case you move from the bar point with the six and from your 4-point to your 2-point with the two. Black can hit the blot only by rolling 5-2.

If your next roll is safe, you may leave a blot later; and Black may still be in position to hit the blot. But the odds are high that you won't leave a blot, and also high that Black won't hit if you do.

If you come in safely, you expect to get off in eight rolls. If Black comes in promptly, he will need two more rolls to bear off that man and seven more rolls for his other 14 men. He will need two good-sized doublets (while you get none at all) to get ahead of you.

Since the odds are very high against him, Black should refuse. This is exactly what you want. Since you aren't going to gammon him, the best you can hope for is to cinch the victory by forcing him to resign.

If you fail to double, and Black comes in with a double five, followed by a couple of other high doublets, you will have a horror story for your friends, but you will also have yourself to blame for being in a position to tell such a story.

Sierra Club hikes, walks

The local Sierra Club chapter plans a hike on Mount Madonna on Saturday, Oct. 10 and a walk the next day in Pacific Grove.

Jumping-off place for the six-mile hike will be the parking lot at Cinema 70, Del Monte Center, Monterey, at 8:30 a.m. In case you're late there is a second rendezvous point at the scenic Sprig Lake toilets at Mount Madonna at 9:15 a.m. There is a carpool fee of $3. Bring water and lunch.

For more information phone Bill Bleick at 372-6738.

Sunday's five-mile walk through the Del Monte Forest in Pacific Grove starts at David Avenue School in Pacific Grove at 1:30 p.m.

Bring water. For more information phone 372-6374 or 646-0533.

Gourmet sprouts

If your brussels sprouts have a way of turning into green goo, take heart. The Peppercorn, that fascinating cookware emporium in The Barnyard, is presenting a free demonstration Saturday, Oct. 10 of several fine ways to prepare these tender tiny cabbages. Included is a stir-fried Chinese dish.

If brussels sprouts don't capture your fancy consider the elegant cheesiness of a dill ricotta torte — a dish that will be done at a second free demonstration on Sunday, Oct. 11. The demonstrations play from 10 a.m. until noon and from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. both days. For more information phone 625-0100.

Hidden Valley to stage 'Cenerentola,' 'Traviata'

Hidden Valley Music Seminars will present an trio of Italian grand operas during its 1982 winter season, plus the popular musical, The Fantasticks.

Rossini's La Cenerentola and Verdi's La Traviata begin Jan. 14 and 15, respectively, and continue for four consecutive weekends through Feb. 7. The Fantasticks, by Schmidt and Jones, will play from April 23 to May 16 on Fridays and weekends.

A special feature of next year's season will be the presentation of Puccini's Gianni Schicchi on tour to fourth graders all over Monterey County.

The price of opera tickets, set at $8 this year, has not been announced for the 1982 season. However, "they're going to be going up a little bit, I'm sorry to say," said Fritz Renner, director of student development.

Hidden Valley is located at Carmel Valley and Ford Rds. in Carmel Valley. For more information phone 659-3115.

Jamesburg Players to offer 'Funny Thing'

Zany musical comedy comes to the Hidden Valley Theater in Carmel Valley Thursday, Oct. 15 as the Jamesburg Players present A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum. The production will be presented eight times, including a Saturday matinee Oct. 24, and will close with a special champagne party on Oct. 25.

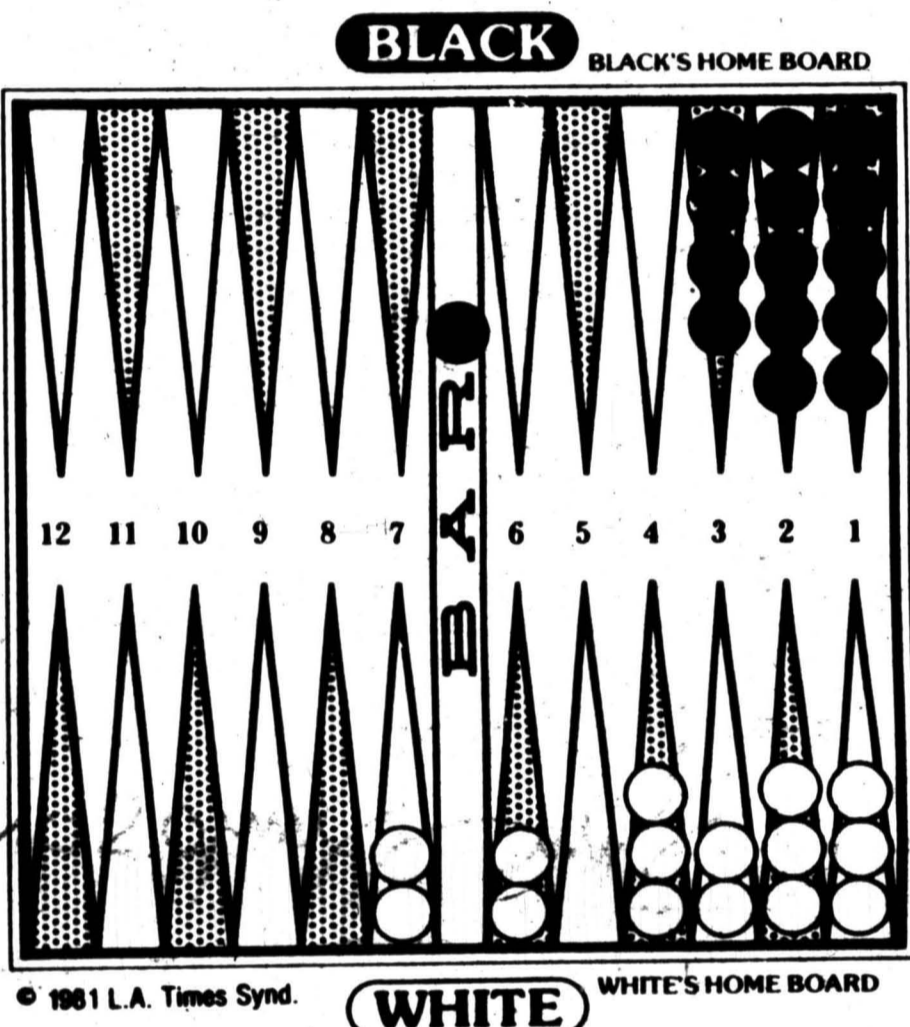

All proceeds from the play will go to the Jamesburg School, a small private school in the upper Carmel valley.

Forum will be directed by John and Linda Prejean, veteran thespians who were former members of the White Oaks Repertory Co.

Music for the play is by Stephen Sondheim. Burt Shavelove and Larry Gelbart wrote the book.

Tickets, priced at $6 and $8, with a special $15 ticket for the champagne party, are available at the door or from several area businesses: Carmel Valley Natural Foods, Wills Fargo Restaurant, Sandi's Fashions and The Village Bookstore, all in Carmel Valley Village; Do-Re-Mi Music in The Barnyard; Bartlett Music in Carmel; The Record Cove in Monterey; and Gadsby's Music in Salinas.

Dulcet dulcimers sing on Saturday

The gentle strains of twin plucked dulcimers will waft through Cherry Hall, Guadalupe at Fourth, Carmel, on Saturday, Oct. 10 as Aeolus entertains. The performance is the first in a series of folk music concerts sponsored by the Poetic Drama Institute and the Cherry Foundation Theater Project.

Aeolus consists of Ruth Barrett and Cynthia Smith, two talented young women who play and sing their way through ballads of love and tragedy in Renaissance and Celtic moods.

Barrett, who has played dulcimer since 1971, has performed at universities and theaters and on radio and television. In 1977 she sang with the Paul Winter Consort during presidential inaugural festivities in Washington, D.C.

Smith, who began teaching dulcimer only nine months after she first picked up the instrument, has performed in many cultural events and recently recorded a dulcimer piece for a television special. The two performers joined forces in 1979.

Aeolus will give two performances Saturday night, at 7 and 9 p.m. Tickets are available at Recycled Records, 604 Lighthouse Ave. in Monterey, or at the Cherry Foundation, Wednesday through Sunday from 2 p.m. until 4. The price is $4 in advance or $5 at the door.

For more information phone 624-7491.

Kanwischer to resume lecture series at college

Pianist Alfred Kanwischer continues his series of lectures on Grieg, Beethoven, Chopin and Samuel Barber on Wednesday, Oct. 14 and Wednesday, Oct. 21 at the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall. Each lecture begins at 4:30 p.m. and costs $3.

On Sunday, Oct. 25, Kanwischer will cap his lecture series with a 3 p.m. concert, again at the MPC Music Hall. The concert is $4.50 at the door.

Kanwischer, a concert pianist, composer, lecturer and teacher, won the Young Artists' Auditions in San Francisco in 1959, and became a soloist with the San Francisco Symphony the same year.

In 1979 Kanwischer received a "Composer of the Year" award from the Music Teachers National Association.

This is his third lecture series at Monterey Peninsula College. For more information phone 646-4051.

Computers may be able to predict heart attack candidates

COMPUTER TECHNOLOGY may hold the key to predicting who is a likely candidate for heart attacks and heart disease, according to a study of data concerning some 9,000 patients.

Published in the current issue of California Medical Association's Western Journal of Medicine, the findings are reported by University of Washington Drs. Robert A. Bruce, Kenneth F. Hossack and Laurent Belanger.

The study drew on information from 50 physicians and 15 treatment centers, involving 9,212 patients and analyzing limited-exercise data on standardized forms.

Follow-up data were gathered periodically by mailing questionnaires to both healthy and coronary heart disease patients.

"Analysis of 2,365 healthy men showed that in 47 (two percent), coronary 'events' occurred within five years. These coronary 'events' included sudden cardiac deaths and myocardial infarcts (heart attacks due to blood clots), as well as new cases of angina (pain caused by lack of oxygen reaching the heart muscles), some of which required surgery.

These patients had conventional symptoms of imminent heart attack, including family history of heart disease, a history of smoking and high levels of cholesterol in the bloodstream. They also experienced chest pain during exercise and were unable to tolerate reasonable periods of exercise.

The study identified risk factors in patients who had been previously diagnosed as having high blood pressure, but who demonstrated no definite clinical evidence of heart disease. Using exercise evaluation factors, the study also developed risk factors for sudden cardiac death for 1,852 patients.

The authors conclude that the results of the study show "that it is feasible to use computer reporting and interpretation of symptom-limited exercise testing data to present measurements of cardiovascular impairment and to give estimates of probabilities of subsequent primary and secondary coronary heart disease."

And, they suggest, the graphic display of computer findings may serve to motivate patients to reduce their cardiac risk factors.

Neutron bomb debate

The neutron bomb, which destroys people but largely preserves their property, will be the subject of a debate between two military experts Saturday, Oct. 10 at 2:30 p.m. Battle will be joined in the S.F.B. Morse Auditorium at the Monterey Institute of International Studies, 440 Van Buren, Monterey.

Stephen Garrett, a professor at the Institute, will oppose David Yost, a professor at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey. The debate is sponsored by The World Affairs Council of the Monterey Bay Area.

Following the free program, wine and cheese can be enjoyed for $1.50.

For more information phone 625-2238.

New guild to benefit bard

A guild to provide support for the Monterey Peninsula Shakespeare Festival will be organized Sunday, Oct. 11 at the Monterey Peninsula College Theater, 980 Fremont St., Monterey.

Members of the new guild will be asked to volunteer time or money to the festival program, which includes the production of Shakespearean plays, training actors and offering courses on Elizabethan subjects.

Summer, 1982 offerings of the Festival will include The Taming of the Shrew, The Merchant of Venice and a Shakespearean comedy adapted for children.

Those interested in joining the Guild should attend the organizational meeting which begins at 7:30 p.m. For more information phone 646-4213.

Wharf Theater auditions Saturday

The Wharf Theater will hold auditions for its upcoming musical revue, Oscar Awards Nite, on Saturday, Oct. 10 from 1-5 p.m.

Casting requirements include male and female singers

Birdwatchers' tour takes flight Saturday

If you've ever yearned to see a Sooty Shearwater, a Wandering Tattler, an Elegant Tern or a Bushtit, the chance of a lifetime may be upon you.

On Saturday, Oct. 10, Sunday, Oct. 11 and Monday, Oct. 12 Roger Tory Peterson, grand old man of the nation's birdwatchers, will lead a land and sea birding trip on Monterey Bay, through the Carmel River Valley and along the Monterey coast. Alan Baldrige, Victor Emanuel and John Rowlett will join Peterson as co-leaders of the three-day expedition.

The outing is organized by Victor Emanuel Nature Tours, Inc., a Texas-based company that offers birding trips throughout the world. The single-day price for the tour is $85, but only the Saturday land trip and the Sunday boat outing are still available. Monday is sold out. The price for Saturday and Sunday together, with food and lodging, is $250. Without accommodations, the two-day cost drops to $170. Those interested in joining the trip should call Victor Emanuel Nature Tours, toll free, at 800 531-5318.

Roger Peterson's A Field Guide to the Birds, first published in 1934, played an instrumental role in the development of the hobby of birdwatching in the United States. A revised edition of this landmark book was published last year and has been on the bestseller lists for months. Peterson is currently working on a major revision of his A Field Guide to Western Birds. During his trip to the Monterey area he plans to gather material for use in this revision.

Alan Baldrige is an expert on marine birds and mammals in the northern California area. He is the librarian for Stanford University's Hopkins Marine Laboratory at Pacific Grove.

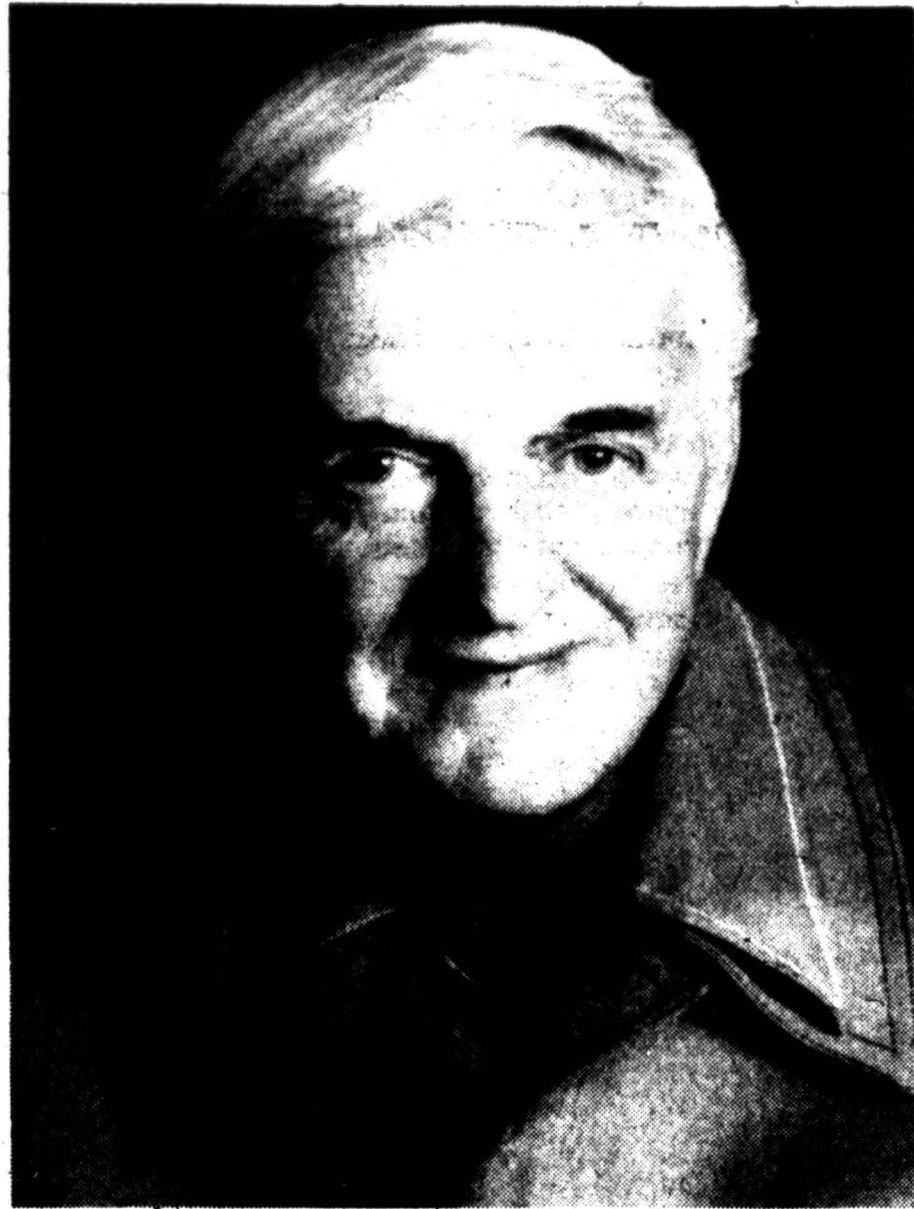

Victor Emanuel is founder and compiler of the Freeport Christmas Bird Census, which recorded 226 species of birds in 1971, a record. John Rowlett was one of three editors of the two-volume The Bird Life of Texas, one of the most authoritative and comprehensive state bird books ever published. All three men have been birding for many years.

The pelagic, or ocean part of the tour, will take birdwatchers beyond the narrow continental shelf to a submarine canyon off Monterey that is deeper than the Grand Canyon. There the expedition will be on the look-out for such dramatically named birds as the Black Storm-Petrel, the Rhinoceros Auklet and the Red Phalarope. Back on land, the birders hope to encounter the Yellow-billed Magpie, the Plain Titmouse and perhaps a Wrenit or two.

College auditions for 'Becket'

Auditions for the Monterey Peninsula College Theatre production of Becket will be held in the theatre at 7 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 13 and 14. Parts will be cast for 25 to 30 men, ages 15-75, and four women, ages 18 to 70.

For further information contact the MPC Drama Department, 646-4200.

FAMED NATURALIST Roger Tory Peterson leads a two-day birdwatching tour on land and sea in the Monterey area starting Sunday, Oct. 11. For more information see accompanying story or call toll-free, 800-531-5318.

'Images' by Emy Ledbetter of Carmel at Santa Catalina

CARMEL ARTIST EMY LEDBETTER invites viewers to use their imagination when they look at her colorful acrylics. On Friday, Oct. 9 an exhibit of Ledbetter's paintings will open at Santa Catalina School, Mark Thomas Drive, Monterey. The show runs through Oct. 31.

"Images," a show by Carmel artist Emy Ledbetter, opens Friday, Oct. 9 in the Library Foyer art gallery of Santa Catalina School, Mark Thomas Drive, Monterey.

Scheduled to run through Oct. 31, the exhibition is on display during the following hours: Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.; Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and Saturday and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Ledbetter's work has evolved through oil, charcoal, pencil and pastel to acrylic, her present medium. Her paintings are characterized by vivid color and occasionally a dreamlike quality that appeals to the imagination of the viewer.

Ledbetter has exhibited at the Zantman Galleries and Gallery Americana, both in Carmel, as well as on the East Coast and in San Francisco.

She has won several awards, including first place in the Novato Art Festival in 1972 and first place, Best of Show in 1976 in the Los Gatos Art Association and, in 1978-1979, first place from the City of Menlo Park.

The show is free and open to the public. For more information phone 649-1432, ext. 66.

Coatu, Arms works on exhibit in Seaside

Artists Ovidiu Coatu of Monterey and Levi Arms of Seaside are exhibiting their works at Seaside City Hall Monday through Friday during October. Coatu paints in watercolors and oils, while Arms is exhibiting metal sculpture.

Coatu, born in Bucharest, studied architecture, interior design and fine art in Romania, then went to Rome, Italy in 1941 where he won the Rome Prize. He has had shows in Paris, Buenos Aires, Cleveland, Detroit and California.

Levi Arms settled in Seaside in 1957 after serving 20 years in the U.S. Army. He has worked as a mechanic, gas station operator, fisherman, and welder, but now is a full-time sculptor in copper, brass and burlwood. Among his favorite subjects are boats and butterflies. This is his first one-man show.

For more information phone 394-2965.

Joint effort

Florence and Stuart Mitchell are celebrating their 50th anniversary this month with an October exhibition at The Carmel Foundation, Eighth and Lincoln.

Stuart Mitchell will present a collection of color photographs and Florence Mitchell will show impressionist oil paintings.

On Wednesday, Oct. 14, The Carmel Foundation presents a slide lecture by Richard Tullar, "Walking Hadrian's Wall."

U.S. foreign policy is topic

"American Foreign Policy from Nixon to the Present" will be the subject of the Knowledge Update Program on Friday, Oct. 9 at 1:30 p.m. in the Monterey Peninsula College Art Building, Room A-9.

Jack Leach, Ph.D., Emeritus Faculty in Political Science at MPC, will speak from his extensive military and civilian experience in American and international affairs. As a professor of political science at MPC for 20 years, Dr. Leach taught American government, policy theory, comparative governments, history of western civilization, and other topics. He retired two years ago.

His discussion will include a survey of trends in the foreign policies of the last decade, and the effects they had on our policies today.

The Knowledge Update program is open to the public and free of charge. For further information, contact Bea Siegel, MPC Community Education Office, 646-4055.

Seattle photographer tells it with pictures

Marsha Burns will discuss her transition from painter to photographer on Friday, Oct. 9, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 20 of Sunset Center, Carmel.

Burns, whose works are on exhibit at the Friends of Photography Gallery through Nov. 1, will present a slide-illustrated lecture detailing the development of her work from the late 1960s to the present. A reception will follow the lecture.

Marsha Burns' talk will explore the development of her work in photography. Trained as a painter, her interest in photography evolved slowly during the late 1960s. By the mid-1970s she was devoting all her time to working with the medium. Her early work consisted of extended sequences of paired photographs, which presented dualities in human relationships. One of these sequences, "The Snow Goose," was published in 1980 in Paris Review 77. In 1977 she moved with her photographer husband to a new studio loft in Seattle and began to make a series of photographs posing models in her studio. She has created a remarkably varied group of photographs, using both male and female models, clothed and nude figures. Her photographs result from an incisive and personal vision that is uncommon in photography today.

On Saturday, Oct. 10, Burns and her husband Michael, both of Seattle, will present separate one-day workshops at Sunset Center.

"The Figure in Photography" will be the topic of Marsha Burns' workshop. It will include both demonstrations and practical sessions with models. She will discuss her own work as well as that by other photographers using similar approaches and will review student portfolios.

Michael Burns' one-day workshop will investigate "Architectural Photography." In addition to a field session in the Monterey area he will discuss the use of large-format cameras in architectural work, give a presentation of his own photographs and view participants' portfolios.

Marsha Burns received a Photographer's Fellowship from the National Endowment for the Arts in 1978. A portfolio of 12 original prints titled Dreamers was published in 1981. Her photographs have been shown in museums and galleries throughout the country.

Michael Burns is currently working as a free-lance architectural photographer in Seattle. A portfolio of his work was included in the special photography issue of the architectural magazine, Archetype, published in July 1981. He has been widely recognized for his work in architectural photography.

The Friday lecture is free; the Saturday workshops cost $45 each. Enrollment is limited. For more information contact Mary Virginia Swanson at 624-6330.

Film Society offers Fall program

The Monterey Peninsula Film Society has announced a new fall schedule that features programs three nights a week on Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday.

Rainer Fassbinder's The Marriage of Maria Braun will be presented Friday, Oct. 9 and Saturday, Oct. 10 in the S.F.B. Morse Auditorium, 440 Van Buren, Monterey. Filmed in German with English subtitles, the movie combines sex, politics, off-beat comedy, epic romance, history and social satire into an amazingly coherent picture of postwar Germany. Hanna Schygulla stars in this 1978, 120-minute color film.

On Wednesday, Oct. 14, the society presents a good old American cowboy movie in One-Eyed Jacks, starring Karl Malden and Marlon Brando. This 1961 color film, praised as one of Hollywood's finest westerns, was shot in and around the Monterey Peninsula. Brando directed this 141-minute film, and also turned in one of his finest performances. The movie begins at 8:15 p.m.

Admission is $3 general and $2.50 for members and students. For more information call 659-4795.

GENE AND LORAN SPECK, brothers and fellow artists, present sharply contrasting styles and subjects in their joint exhibit at Zantman Art Galleries, Sixth Avenue at Mission, Carmel. Gene Speck's Oil Drum and Loran's Red Cloth and Pewter seem to belong to different centuries — and neither to the 20th. The exhibit begins Saturday, Oct. 10 and runs through October.

Speck brothers show opens at Zantman

The warm still lifes of Loran Speck and the serene frontier landscapes of Gene Speck will be exhibited together at Zantman Art Galleries, Sixth Ave. at Mission in Carmel, from Saturday, Oct. 10 through Oct. 31.

Loran Speck, younger of the brothers, was born in California in 1943. He studied business and science at Oregon State University and later received some formal art training at the Academy of Arts in San Francisco. He is, however, essentially a self-taught painter, having developed his skill through years of practice. His works often depict simple settings of the earthenware, pewter and porcelain of another time.

Gene Speck is something of a phenomenon as a painter in that he is virtually untrained, started to paint seriously relatively late in life (mid-30s), and yet in no way can be considered a primitive or naive artist. He was born in 1936 and has lived on a small ranch in Nevada since 1976.

Gene Speck's portrayals of Western farm and ranch scenes or of Indian encampments on the Great Plains have an aura of peace and tranquility. In these paintings, man is rendered in small scale relative to the vast natural environment, but always in harmony with that environment. Although Speck's subject matter is invariably rustic, his paintings are highly refined and enriched by a wealth of exquisite detail.

This is the fifth consecutive two-man show at Zantman Art Galleries for the Speck brothers. For more information phone 624-8314.

William Vaughn

William A. Vaughn, a resident of the Peninsula since 1946, died Sept. 27 at Skyline Convalescent Hospital after an extended illness. He was 74.

Born Jan. 20, 1907 in Winthrop, Ind., he worked as an automobile mechanic at various Peninsula garages. He was a former resident of Carmel Valley.

He is survived by his wife, Beatrice of Carmel Valley.

Private services were conducted at Farlinger Funeral Home.

The family suggests memorials be sent to the donor's favorite charity.

Underdown

Brooke Ellen Jean Underdown, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Underdown of Carmel Highlands, died Sept. 25 at her home after a period of failing health.

She was born Oct. 2, 1977 in Fresno.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by her sisters, Shannon and Trisha of Carmel Highlands, and Stacey and Kelley of Fresno; brother, Mark of Carmel Highlands; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Underdown of Fresno and Carmel; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Elnora Carpenter of Fresno.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggested memorial contributions to the Association for Brain Tumor Research, 6232 No. Pulaski Road, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Laura Hudd

Born March 22, 1909, in Los Angeles, she had been a resident of Carmel since 1954.

She is survived by a sister, Audrey Day of Kaneohe, Hawaii, and two nephews.

Miriam Braswell

Miriam Braswell of Carmel, died Sept. 28 at Community Hospital after a brief illness. She was 75.

Born in Pacific Grove on March 2, 1906, she was a lifelong resident of the Peninsula.

She and her husband owned the Vanity Box in Monterey during the 1930's. Later, she owned and operated La Bonita in Carmel. She retired in 1965.

Survivors include a son, William N. Varien of Cupertino; sisters, Beth Maveety of Eugene, Ore., Marjorie Crary of Bethesda, Md., Lola Rourke of Houston, Texas, and Floy Copeland of Monterey; and three grand-

Father Farrell's wisdom

Celebration without fireworks

La Playa, Carmel Rotary Club,
July 1, 1981

Oh almighty and eternal God, we humbly ask thee to bless this pre-Fourth of July food to our use and to bless us all to thy service in the true spirit of Rotary, which is service above self.

Today is Bud Allen's birthday, and this fourth will be the 44th anniversary of my ordination, so we both plan to celebrate without fireworks.

As we begin a new regime, a new administration, we ask thee, oh Lord, to watch over and grant a special blessing to Merv Sutton as he enters the 1981-1982 presidency of the Carmel Rotary.

A former president of the United States, whose name is seldom mentioned, (as are the names of most ex-presidents) once said, "The average American is just like a child in the family. You give him some responsibility and he is going to amount to something. If you make him completely dependent and pamper him too much you are going to make him soft, spoiled and eventually a weak person."

We should give Merv a free rein in his new reign and we promise not to cramp his style nor pamper him.

When Pat Murphy, the ditch digger, won the Irish Sweepstakes, he was asked what he'd do with his half million dollars. He replied: "Well, the first thing I'm going to do is to buy a longer handle for my pick."

Oh Lord, give Merv a longer pick handle and the will to use it. Amen.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggested memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

Geoge Chilson

Retired Army Capt. George Harley Chilson of Carmel died Sept. 29 at Letterman Army Medical Center in San Francisco after a long illness. He was 78.

Born Feb. 17, 1903, in Big Lake, Minn., he served in the Army for 30 years. After duty in the Canal Zone, the South Pacific, Japan and Korea, he was awarded the Bronze Star and Army Commendation Medals. He retired in 1960.

He was a 50-year Master Mason with Washington Lodge No. 4, F&AM, of Vancouver, Wash., and a member of Key City Chapter 71 of the Order of the Eastern Star in Port Townsend, Wash. He worked as an electronics technician at Monterey Peninsula College for 10 years.

He had attended the University of Washington and had been a Peninsula resident since 1954.

Survivors include his wife, Marion; sons, Roger of Carmel and William of Capitola; a sister, Nellie Appleman of Molalla, Ore., a niece, and three nephews.

The Farlinger Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggested contributions in his memory be made to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

Eugene Noxon

Eugene Irwin Noxon of Del Mesa Carmel, a retired interior decorator, died Sept. 30 at Beverly Manor Convalescent Hospital after a long illness. He was 77.

Mr. Noxon was born Feb. 18, 1904, in St. Louis, Mo. He was an interior decorator in Winston-Salem, N.C., and New York City before retiring to Taormina, Sicily in 1965. He was graduated from the Parsons New York-Paris School of Design.

Mr. Noxon resided in Del Mesa Carmel since 1971.

He is survived by his sisters, Gladys N. Dyer of Montecito and Pearl N. Johnson of Del Mesa Carmel.

At his request, no service was held. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggested memorial contribution to the Monterey County Symphony Association, Box 3965, Carmel, 93921 or to a charity of the donor's choice.

OFFERING

THE ALTERNATIVES

(a new approach to funeral service)

A selection of services uniquely compatible with contemporary thinking.

"THE PINE"...Cremation without services

"THE CYPRESS"...Cremation with memorial service

"THE OAK"...Burial without formality

"THE MAPLE"...The traditional Service

PREPLANNING IS A LOGICAL PART OF THIS CONCEPT

The advantage of "The Alternatives" is its unlimited flexibility. It can be traditional or contemporary... with or without ritual... small or large... indoors or outdoors... religious or not... whatever the family feels should be the appropriate tribute.

Sometimes, you'd just like to Relax.

We can help, whether you are buying or selling. If you are buying, we will often preview 10 homes for each one we show you. We'll work ahead for you so you can relax.

If you are selling, we'll help you to price your home to get the most money in the shortest time, advise you on what needs to be done to get your home ready to show, alert other brokers, negotiate the sale, manage the transaction and, if you are moving out of the area, help you locate at home at your destination — all so you can relax. We're local, and available for you 7 days a week.

HUGH COMSTOCK meant his homes to be around a long time. This one, called "Red Geranium," has been here since 1935, and has been lovingly cared for every minute of the way. Well-located and now designed for minimal care it provides the best kind of Carmel living. Being sold completely furnished, right down to the flatware, it is in move-in condition. The owners will also carry the financing with 25% down at $375,000.

BIG SUR people are independent, want room around them, want to choose whether they want company or not. Two ways to do it are a home in Sycamore Canyon on over 7 acres, two bedrooms and 1 1/2 baths for $180,000. Another possibility is a lot in Palo Colorado Canyon. Close enough to the Peninsula to commute to work, when you get home you'll be able to listen to the music of water rushing to meet the Sea from Rocky Creek. $51,500, and the owner will consider helping with the financing.

FRANKLY, the home described here is not for everyone, but if the idea of a distant ocean view, a seven-pool waterfall, a full-grown pine tree in the marble dining room, free-form decks, two 1-bedroom suites upstairs and a separate studio downstairs is enough to spark your interest, and the idea of a newly-powered price interests you even more, perhaps you'd like to see the home called "Falconhurst." Only $259,000.

THINKING OF SELLING?

List with us. We're open 7 days, 9-6, which means a Realtor is always available to answer a Buyer's calls.

ROOM FOR EVERYONE on over an acre of sunshine in Carmel Valley, with a hot tub off the master bedroom for the cool Fall evenings. Three bedrooms, with the choice of a fourth bedroom or a den, sunny kitchen, inviting family room, all on an ideal ranch setting. Large assumable loan at $395,000.

REAL PRIVACY is possible in this two-bedroom, two-bath home in Carmel Woods. On a 1/4 acre of grounds left natural for privacy and appropriately manicured for civilization, there is room for you. The master bedroom has its own sitting room, the kitchen has been so designed that it is fun to work in and easy to clean and the sun sets over the ocean view. $329,000.

OAKHURST, some few miles north of Yosemite, may be the ultimate getaway. Northeast of Oakhurst, in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains, where deer and mountain lions still play, is a 100-acre parcel with its own 5-acre lake stocked with fish, an A-frame cabin, and owner financing at $395,000.

STROLL to town from this charmingly groomed home, entered from brick-and-oak-rich patios. Two bedroom suites make separate living possible, there are cathedral-beamed ceilings and warm decor, and large assumable loans to make the purchase easier at $282,500.

CHRISTOPHER BOCK

Privacy, Western Style

There's a sort of Old West feeling about San Benancio Canyon. It takes off in a southerly direction from Highway 68, about midway between Monterey and Salinas. The road winds comfortably between low ranges of brown hills, marked by layered buttresses of erosion, dotted with patches of oak. One almost expects to see a mounted line of Indians rising dramatically above the hillcrest.

Follow this road .7 mile, then look sharp for Paseo Verde. It branches right as a narrow lane, climbs gently up the western slope, and brings you to this modern, comfortable home (second from the end of the road), carved into the hillside.

A flight of stairs leads up to the broad redwood deck that crosses the living room. The bedroom wing angles off to the south. And a second stairway leads up at the north end, around the house to a secluded green patio at the rear. You're in the middle of a 2-1/2-plus acre site, with hills behind, a valley in front, and more hills rising in the distance.

The long living room faces east through a wall of glass rising to the apex of its broad gable. A white stone fireplace occupies the far end, dark redwood planks on great beams form the ceiling, paneled walls grace either end.

Behind this is a spacious combination dining room and kitchen, divided by a tile-topped counter. The kitchen is a hollow square of attractive wood cabinets, topped by tiled counters and high splash-backs, fully equipped with electric range, oven, dishwasher, and disposal. Double glass doors open to the rear patio.

Three bedrooms are ranged along the corridor running south from the entrance hall. Two face front, with wide windows embracing the view across the valley. The master bedroom is at the end, and its very private bath is tucked in behind it.

The second bath is properly located for the front bedrooms and guest use. It has twin sinks, tub and shower; and beyond it is a sizeable laundry and utility room which also opens to the rear patio.

Privacy it has, but privacy with maximum convenience. An intercom system links the kitchen with all 3 bedrooms. A big double garage is below the deck. And the main Monterey-Salinas highway is near at hand. $182,000.

INVEST IN A VIEW

A BEACH-FRONT HOME on Carmel's Scenic Road with outstanding views of the white sandy beach and the blue Pacific Ocean. Two bedrooms, two baths, and two sheltered patios. This home would make an ideal corporate retreat for far-sighted executives. Or several families could buy it jointly and divide up its use. A perfect solution for owning the perfect property in Carmel-by-the-Sea! $640,000.

INVEST IN YOUR FAMILY

MUCH BIGGER than it looks from the street, this family-oriented home could be called Teenagers' Heaven because of its three bedrooms and spacious family room with wet bar on the lower level. On the street level are handsome living room with fireplace, dining room, modern kitchen, master bedroom and bath, and sun-flooded deck. Only two blocks to the beach! Well worth your inspection. $385,000.

INVEST IN A HOMESITE

Big Sur Coast

Tucked into a sheltering and sunny slope on a seven-acre site at the entrance to Palo Colorado, this redwood home harmonizing with its Big Sur Coast setting has view embracing not only the sea and surf-fringed shoreline but also inland sweeps of the Santa Lucia Mountains.

Full outdoor enjoyment of a scenic setting is assured by this entrance deck which runs along the entire length of the house and has conveniently located electric outlets.

Craftsmanship of a master builder is evident in the wood paneling in ceiling and walls of the carpeted living and dining area with a fireplace at one end and, at the other end, a breakfast/serving bar open to the kitchen with handsome redwood cabinets and electrical appliances. Cleverly concealed storage closets range along the inner wall and considerably contribute to further livableness, as does, also, a conveniently located adjacent bathroom.

Another bathroom also featuring wood cabinetry separates the two carpeted bedrooms enhanced with beamed ceilings and paneled walls and each containing a small loft thus providing additional sleeping space if such should ever be needed. A laundry facility is an added asset of this home designed for living efficiently and the enjoyment of view embracing the Big Sur Country mountains and coast.

Albert LTD has fine reputation based on personal service, quality

WARMTH AND TRADITION established over the last 40 years set the tone at Albert LTD at The Lodge, Pebble Beach.

An inviting ambience is created by the square windows, Oriental rugs and English Tudor architecture.

This pleasant background provides a showcase for classically tailored soft shoulder clothing, haberdashery and sportswear.

Albert LTD has a reputation built on personal service and designs that employ the finest natural fibers including individually selected tweeds and worsteds, fine cottons, silks and leathers from the best mills in Britain and around the world.

Among the outstanding names represented here are Southwick, Burberry of London and La Coste Sportswear, all fitting representatives of classic detailing and impeccable tailoring.

Renna of New York facial contouring can preserve or regain complexions

YOUTHFULLY SMOOTH SKIN is a woman's most precious attribute. You can preserve or regain a lovely complexion at the skilled hands of Nina Meheen, who uses the proven Renna of New York method of facial contouring.

Perfectured through 55 years of study and research, the Renna Method promises to rejuvenate sagging, drooping facial and neck muscles while erasing under-eye bagginess, crows' feet and dry looking facial skin. The revitalization is a result of increased circulation and muscle tone.

Ms. Meheen is also a certified polarity therapist and a licensed cosmetician and cosmetologist. Many women have enjoyed her soothing ministrations and rejoiced at the rejuvenation of their appearance!

Shoes are important for total look

THE RIGHT SHOES are as important to your total look as the right lipstick. At Anthony's Shoes for Women in The Barnyard, you'll find wonderful fall shoes in a gratifying range of colors, styles and sizes.

California Magdesians are perennial favorites because of their fine styling, great comfort and easy price. Pictured above are wedges, one for daywear, the other suitable for after five. The dressy shoe (right) comes in black or chestnut suede; the daytime wedge with crepe sole is available in navy, camel or black.

Good-fitting Naturalizers, Bare Traps, Paradise Kittens, Sbicca and L.A. Lady are also featured brands at Anthony's, and you'll always find a great selection of handbags (specially priced this month!).

If fashion and fit are important for your feet, Anthony's Shoes for Women is the place to take them. There is also an Anthony's in the Country Club Gate Center, Forest and David avenues, Pacific Grove.

Exciting fashion finds at Holman's new Town and Country Carmel Rancho

SOPHISTICATION AND STYLE in fine fashions make the new Holman's Town & Country location in Carmel Rancho Center an exciting fashion find.

Whether you're looking for the newest corduroy slacks and smashing sweaters or a sophisticated dress for work or evening, Town & Country has it.

top is prettily embroidered; the skirt is softly pleated for a most flattering silhouette.

Changing moods, the knit sweater dress by Deja Voeux is softly gathered at the shoulders and embellished with lacy pointelle patterning at the front neckline.

Comfortable elegance at 'Pocket'

COMFORTABLE CLASSICS, layered and coordinating, are the fashion notes from the Back Pocket on Mission Street, Carmel.

Self-assured perhaps best describes the casual look above. Begin with Alexander Julian's corduroy sportcoat, expertly tailored in 100 percent cotton, and a perfect companion to dress slacks or jeans — in a variety of fashion colors.

Add Calvin Klein cord jeans with their great fit and great colors, a handsome crewneck sweater by Lord Jeff and the newest shirting news, a classic buttondown, available in solids, stripes and patterns.

Other good looks from the Back Pocket carry the Jordache, Zeppelin, Ocean Pacific, Bon Homme, Levi and Calvin Klein labels, in a collection of jeans, shirts, sweaters, jackets and accessories that represent both high fashion and high quality.

Brown's Barn always exciting

ONE-OF-A-KIND fashions for one-of-a-kind women is the motto at Brown's Barn in Carmel Plaza, where smart women know they'll find exciting clothes.

Zouave pants in French blue velvet teamed with a matching jacket, as shown above, provide a perfect example. What could be more smashing for the holidays ahead?

Feeling the first chill winds of fall? Check out Brown's Barn's smashing selection of ruanas, shawls and ponchos — not only warm and cuddly, but contributors to the important Big Sweep look over knickers, banded pants or soft, full skirts.

Other chill-chasers include luscious sweaters, jackets, capes and coats from Scotland, Iceland, Italy, France, Uruguay and America, in rich pure wools, angoras and other deluxe fabrics.

Still another great idea for holiday parties is an ensemble of beautifully appliqued velvet separates — jackets, vests and skirts — by two exciting California artists.

Whether you have a specific wardrobe need or merely seek inspiration, a visit to Brown's Barn is always a great fashion experience.

Cotton Bale says: 'Create own clothes for fit and flair'

FIT, FASHION FLAIR and PRIDE come from creating your own new clothes!

So say the owners of The Cotton Bale in The Barnyard, where smart ladies have learned they can find complete home-sewing needs plus professional advice.

Believe it or not, you can make the latest fashion looks from easy-to-follow patterns. Our handsome knickers and Oxford cloth buttondown shirt are both McCall's patterns. Others are available for the newest split skirts as well.

Fabrics for every fashion are the pride and joy of The Cotton Bale. Finest imported woolen tweeds, flannels and gabardines vie with incredible prints by Liberty of London. There are silks worth a king's ransom and every conceivable fabric you could wish for!

Stop in for a visit. You'll be inspired by what you see and thrilled with the beautiful materials available for your truly customized wardrobe.

Diamonds are still a girl's best friend at La Porte's

DIAMONDS ARE STILL a girl's best friend, according to the knowledgeable jewelers at La Porte's Jewelry, 165 Fountain Ave., Pacific Grove. But there is a continuing interest in the richly-colored stones as well as fine pearls.

La Porte's believes that the formality of the British royal wedding has led to a dramatic change in jewelry fashions. Pearl necklaces and brooches are very much in demand.

The perfect accent to a new fall costume might be a midnight blue sapphire or brilliant emerald, while deep blue tourmalines and lush green Tsavorite garnets are also popular.

Beautiful design and fine quality promise to be treasured qualities in years to come, assures La Porte's, where three generations of family operation and 57 years of experience has given them a reputation they are proud to uphold.

Bewitching, beguiling intimate apparel here

DELICIOUS DREAMS begin with nightwear and intimate apparel from Bloomers, a very special shop in The Barnyard.

Feminine, frivolous, bewitching, beguiling — be the woman you've always wanted to be in the utterly glamorous gowns, peignoirs, pajamas and other designer lingerie you'll discover here.

Shimmering crystal pleats give movement and softness to the two-piece peignoir and gown by Lanvin shown here. Delicate shoulder straps and ruffles are added touches.

Bloomers has a wide selection of teddies, camisoles and tap pants in the most luxurious fabrics to make every time you dress an exciting experience.

Top designers include Lanvin, Christian Dior, Givenchy, Sabath Row, Olga and Formfit Rogers, as well as an incredible collection of handpainted lingerie on pure silk by Holnitsky.

Complementing the lingerie are the finest perfumes bearing the Gucci, Halston, Yves St. Laurent and Caron scents and signatures.

Goldsmith's offers new collection of diamonds to celebrate new store

IN CELEBRATION of the opening of their seventh store in the Northridge Mall, Salinas, Goldsmith's Jewelers is presenting a new, exclusive collection of diamond rings at all its locations.

Created especially by Goldsmith's, the collection includes 20 diamond and gold wedding ring sets that range from the traditional to the newest free-form designs.

Complementing this dazzling collection are four magnificent men's rings and four fashionable wedding trios.

Goldsmith's has long been known for their extensive selection of quality watches, fine diamond and other gemstone jewelry, pearls and jade.

There is a Goldsmith's Jewelers in Carmel Plaza and in Del Monte Shopping Center, Monterey.

They can make you beautiful from head to toe

TOTAL BEAUTY CARE guarantees a lovelier you. The Staff of Totally You at The Crossroads (formerly Carmel Center) invites every woman to greet fall with a great new look based on their professional services.

Hair styles are so important to the way you look and feel! At Totally You there are six professional stylists to design, cut, perm, shape and color the perfect individualized style for you.

A facial does great things for your skin, especially when it's based on specially formulated European skin care products. At Totally You, enjoy the benefits and relaxation of facials and massages in a private facial room or their special soundproofed massage room. Other beauty bonuses include manicures and pedicures to make you beautiful from top to toe.

Versatile 'Prophecy' at Peck & Peck

VERSATILITY PLUS: fall's most versatile coordinates, designed by Prophecy with an active you in mind! They are from Peck & Peck's new fall collection at Carmel Plaza.

Begin with a 100 percent wool crepe suit in mocca or black. Select from a collarless button down jacket and matching side-button skirt (both shown above). Expand your outfit with trousers that also button down the side and a short jacket with traditional collar.

Everything is fully lined, of course.

Planned to coordinate with these pieces are a polyester crepe blouse with Peter Pan collar, also pictured above, or a sailor collar blouse with a matching wool crepe dirndl skirt. For soft contrast, these are available in ivory or peach.

Even more possibilities: add a complementary printed skirt and ruffled blouse for a wardrobe that does it all in beautiful harmony.

Country casual clothing always at Farm Center

COUNTRY CASUAL CLOTHING has been the byword at Farm Center Country Store for more than 25 years. That translates into clothing that's good-looking, easy to wear and comfortable doing many different things.

Classic Levi denim is always in style! Oley (right) wears a skirt and coordinating denim blazer over a plaid brushed twill shirt.

Susan's good-looking cowl neck sweater teams with a dark brown Levi cord skirt and a tan Wrangler jacket. Get the picture?

In addition to these great-wearing clothes (for men as well!), there's something new at Farm Center. It's called Polly's Folly (Polly for Pauline, of course), and it's a new little shop featuring refinished old furniture — like the charming little table — all lovingly restored by Pauline herself.

Farm Center is the red-and-white painted landmark at the intersection of Carmel Valley and Robinson Canyon roads, just beyond the Mid-Valley Center in Carmel Valley.

Bib 'N Tucker tops for children's fashions

SUGAR AND SPICE and everything nice — including a wonderful staff of helpful grandmothers! — makes shopping for small fry at the Bib 'n Tucker a delightful experience! The shop, incidentally, is Carmel's oldest children's clothing store. Find it tucked away on Ocean near Dolores.

For 35 years, the Bib 'n Tucker has specialized in the finest clothing, toys and accessories for little ones.

Among the famous brands you'll find are Izod, for the smallest tot up through size 14, and Oshkosh overalls in every color. For a very special personalized gift, the owner of this shop is also a professional artist who lovingly handpaints these famous overalls and can add the children's names as well!

Beautiful, positively beautiful dresses for girls bear the Dorissa, Nicole, Fischel and Sylvia Whyte famous labels. There are also wonderful handmade quilts and blankets, plus a whole collection of baby items and clothes for little boys up to size 8.

Latest fashions for little girls? A beautiful pair of knickers in camel, plaid and grey in sizes 4-14. Add a preppy jacket and turtleneck for the perfect look!

Drop by and visit with grandmothers Kay Spindler, Joyce Stafford, Lori Bernstein, Barbara Frizzell and Irma Wolosky. They'd love to help!

A soft, full look at Mayfair in Plaza

MAYFAIR in the Carmel Plaza offers clothes with a soft, full look this season. The dress pictured above is a perfect example of a feminine look with the shorter hem.

Knickers are the biggest news this season. They can be both dressy and casual. For dressy occasions, crepe is the perfect material, available in many colors.

Soft cotton blouses will complement the knickers. The blouses have a soft look, with ruffles and soft layers of material, a perfect feminine look.

Other items that will go well with the knickers are silk and organza blouses and sweaters made of 100 percent angora.

Other popular items this season are the split skirts, short baseball jackets with pleated sleeves, and white dresses (in all lengths) for weddings and other special occasions.

Fun meets luxury at Mark Fenwick

"KICKY" IS THE KEYWORD to fall fashions at Mark Fenwick in Carmel Plaza, where fun meets luxury for a totally new look.

Split skirts, culottes, knickers and other novelty pant styles are where the action is. Wear your choice casually by day with sweaters and shirts, or dress up with rich fabrics and accessories for evening.

An especially lovely look is a split skirt in rich fabric worn with a classic bow blouse: we show ours in rich brown velvet teamed with a satin jacquard blouse and bolero jacket.

Other looks? Metallic accents for impact, plus metallic colors like bronze, copper and pewter, in everything from belts and handbags to jackets.

Magnificent sweaters with heavy textures and natural hues will ward off chill winds, while fabulous angoras and silk blends with metallic accents have a special place in your fall wardrobe.

Black camel hair coat by Lanvin an investment in good looks

CLASSICS CONTINUE to convince the gentleman of their timeless elegance: to wit, our black camel hair sport coat by Lanvin, an investment in good looks and taste for years to come. This beautifully cut coat is also available in basic solids and herringbone, from an extensive collection at Dick Bruhn, Carmel.

Men will find wardrobe basics here, as well as high-fashion additions. Fine wool slacks coordinate with the many sport jackets and blazers, while the suit collection offers a look to please every man.

Add fine shirts and neckwear, sweaters, casual jackets and haberdashery, and you have a truly complete menswear store.

New luxury this fall means a velvet jacket in richest burgundy, brown or navy. Try one for a totally new approach to fashion. Or opt, perhaps, for the comfort, durability and convenience of Ultra Suede in handsomely cut jackets.

Little people love new clothes from Allison's

LITTLE PEOPLE love new fall clothes as much as grown-ups! At Allison's in Carmel Plaza, doting mothers, grandmothers and aunts will find not only the basics in infants' and children's clothes, but the extra special as well.

An example is provided by the adorable outfit modeled in our photograph. Entirely handmade of purest cotton by Katy Did, the red polka dot dress sports a spanking white pinafore of cotton and polyester blend eyelet and imported glass mirror buttons. Party time for sure!

For school, play or special occasions, Allison's has little girls' dresses by Youngland, Gunne Sax and Dorissa International, as well as a selection of outerwear including coats, jackets, vests, warm-up suits and luscious velour separates.

Wonderful gifts for newborn infants include warmers with hoods and covered hands and feet that keep baby warm enough to join mom and dad for a walk on the beach. These cuddlies are available in sensible poly/cotton in a wide range of colors.

Knit suit makes comeback

WE'RE WELCOMING BACK the knit suit at Nell's Plum Tree this fall!

That adds up to comfort and high-fashion styling, plus a fabulous new polyester that has the look and feel of lightweight flannel. Choose yours in one of several new fall shades, each with coordinating blouse!

Perennial favorites from Nell's are those impeccably tailored, classically beautiful Pendleton separates in authentic tartans, Pendleton plaids and coordinating solids. You can build your wardrobe, year after year, on these!

Eye-catching coordinates bear the well-known Wilroy label, while Nell is equally famous for her selection of wearable, packable Talbott Travelers. You'll also find lovely blouses, dresses and skirts to give your closet a fall boost.

Certainly one of the best fashion investments this fall is a very special handbag, completely hand-made in Southern California, by Toby Weston. Each is different; each is completely lined; each is a delight to own and use!

Find Nell's in Pantilles Court, Dolores near Fifth, Carmel.

A classic flair at Carmel Dress Shop

DISTINCTION with classic flair is the hallmark of clothes women find at the Carmel Dress Shop on Ocean Avenue at Dolores Street.

That translates into beautifully tailored suits and dresses in luxurious yet practical fabrics. Shown above is a classically-cut suit in Ultra Suede, guaranteed to travel like a pro (it washes and dries beautifully), yet elegant enough to meet heads of state.

Also shown is a lovely two-piece dress by Castleberry Knits. Wear it from day through evening; the non-wrinkling polyester keeps you fresh as a daisy.

The Carmel Dress Shop offers a comprehensive collection of dresses as well as sweaters for all occasions, including a large selection of famous Leroy novelty styles and the Cynles sweater, plus all-weather coats and jackets in Ultra Suede, leather, camel hair and knits.

Light, gentle Trager movements release deep-seated patterns

LIGHT, LOOSE AND HAPPY are the way Trager Psychophysical Integration has been described. The Trager approach, named after Milton Trager, M.D., uses light, gentle, non-intrusive movements to facilitate the release of deep-seated physical and mental patterns.

A session of Trager Psychophysical Integration takes between one and one-and-a-half hours. No oils or lotions are used. Trager practitioner Norma Ross, whose office is at 26555 Carmel Rancho Blvd., Suite 8, gently and rhythmically moves her clients, using no undue force or pressure, so that he or she actually experiences the possibility of being able to move freely, effortlessly and gracefully on their own.

Releasing tensions and untying "knots" and relieving muscular spasms are only a few of the benefits of the Trager Approach.

Many happy beneficiaries have given testimony to this approach. Norma will be glad to share — or the experience — with you.

Stunning Halston gown at Haruko's

THE INIMITABLE HALSTON creates another stunning lounge, in shimmery metallic and acetate with flowing sleeves for a light, dramatic covering. One size fits all and you can find this dazzler at Haruko's in the Carmel Center Mall.

Other fall fashion finds include a whole wardrobe of pants, blouses and sweaters by such well-knowns as Lady Arrow, Adelaar, Givenchy, Wilroy, Leroy and Gould.

Speaking of sweaters, Haruko's has a new collection of lush velours by Gould and Como Sport; women love them for their luxurious look and practical warmth!

For something different, try on a chuchi jacket from the Philippines. Delicately embroidered, these are actually machine washable! They are beautiful light cover-ups.

Completing the Haruko collection are fine dresses by Schrader and Parnes Feinstein, as well as lovely evening or cocktail fashions by Miss Elliette.

The right scent at Surf 'n Sand

PERFUME IS THE finishing touch to one's toilette, the special essence that whispers your arrival, the signature that sets you apart.

At Surf 'n Sand Drug Store, on Sixth Avenue near Torres, Carmel, fine perfumes share space with equally famed cosmetics.

Fall is L'Air du Temp by Nina Ricci, or the incomparable My Sin by Lanvin. Lovely fragrances by Christian Dior, Guy Laroche, Revlon and Elizabeth Arden are others you'll be tempted to try.

Famed Lancombe of Paris presents scents for day and evening as well as a complete line of the finest cosmetics, including superb creams and moisturizers and a truly exceptional collection of eye makeup.

The right scent is as important to a man's self-image as to a woman's. Now Geoffrey Beene creates a cologne especially for men. Old favorites include English Leather, Old Spice, Christian Dior, Eau Savage and Monsieur Rochas.

Discover the one-stop shopping experience at Surf 'n Sand, where you'll also find wines, candies and sundries, plus convenient free parking.

Mrs. Reagan wears gift from Henri Corbat

IN 1970, when Henri Corbat, Carmel's Swiss Jeweler, presented Nancy Reagan, then California's First Lady, with a Monterey Bicentennial Medallion, a friendship began of which Corbat was justifiably proud. Now, the famous jeweler has presented Mrs. Reagan with a gift appropriate to her new position as First Lady of the United States.

Corbat presented Mrs. Reagan with a pendant he created in the shape of the U.S. It is studded with diamonds representing states won by Ronald Reagan in the presidential election and set with five rubies to represent the mainland states which were not in the Reagan column. Suspended on a gold chain, the pendant measures 1½ inches wide.

Henri Corbat was chosen to design and manufacture the Monterey Bicentennial Commemorative Medallion. Of the 200 he made in gold, the first was presented to Mrs. Reagan.

In addition to his special projects, Henri Corbat designs and creates fine jewelry of every conceivable type, frequently providing a dramatic setting for brilliant gemstones.

His Carmel atelier is at San Carlos and Fifth.

Pamper yourself with pedicure, facial, hair style at Marielle

BE AS BEAUTIFUL as your new wardrobe with a "pamper session" at Marielle in The Barnyard.

Marielle offers a half-day of beauty for women on the go. Included is a thorough cleansing facial, a French pedicure and manicure, hair shampoo and styling and a personalized makeup consultation and application.

The results? You'll look and feel lovely and refreshed in a mere three hours.

Another Marielle specialty is hair-care. If your hair lacks sheen, richness and glowing color, a Marielle hair coloring expert can help! New techniques include subtle highlighting, caramelizing, luminizing, color enrichment and cellophane — all designed to illuminate your skin tone and eyes.

Woolen Mill has tempting clothes for men, women

TAKE YOUR MAN shopping at The Woolen Mill, San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, in Carmel. He'll be so pleased with the great men's clothes that you can slip away and buy yourself a great Saint Tropez silk ensemble!

For men, The Woolen Mill means a good-looking collection of sport coats by Stanley Blacker, Austin Reed and Izod in tweeds, herringbones and wool flannels, plus an extensive selection of slacks to wear with them.

It means fine dress shirts by Damon, beautiful silk neckwear and evening attire by Halston. For those relaxed hours, select sweaters by St. Croix (golfers' favorites) and pure Shetlands from Lord Jeff.

While your man is seeing to his impeccable alterations, slip into a divine pure silk by Carol Little for Saint Tropez. The new fall colors and floral patterns are nothing short of sensational!

Stanley Blacker also designs for gals: his newest is the bomber jacket teamed with the split skirt or knicker in pure wool. Other knickers are shown in corduroy, and there's a great collection of fully lined pants.

Shirts, of course, and sweaters, and smashing little silk dresses for after five ...

Aren't you glad you brought him to The Woolen Mill?

Beautiful clothes rate a beautiful new body

BEAUTIFUL CLOTHES deserve a beautiful body to wear them. That's where The Weight Place comes in.

A weight reduction and nutritional center, The Weight place has proven men, women and children of any age can lose one-half to one pound a day without shots, starvation diets or drugs.

The secret comes from their personalized nutrition program that trains you to change your eating habits and substitute healthy, nutritious meals that get you slim and keep you slim.

Their program is based on a balance of fats, carbohydrates, protein, vitamins, minerals and water, plus an awareness of the dangers of salt and sugar.

The Weight Place has been at 913 Cass St., Monterey for two years. Isn't it time you did your body a favor and visited them?

German cheeses, wines, beers, at Cheese Shop 'Octoberfest'

CHEESES ARE FASHIONABLE, TOO! At The Cheese Shop in Carmel Plaza, it's Octoberfest time, when thanks are given for the fruits of the field and vineyard.

In celebration, a wide variety of imported German cheeses and specialty foods, plus German beer and wines will be featured this month.

Explore the taste sensations of Bruder Basil, a slow-ripening, mild cheese smoked with care on the slopes of the Alps.

Other exciting cheeses include creamy Blue Cambozola, slightly tangy Bianco, butter cheese, strong Tilsit and Brie with herbs and spices.

The Cheese Shop will offer special recipes that use these delicious German cheeses.

Plan an elegant wine-and-cheese tasting party; the friendly specialists at The Cheese Shop will be most happy to assist.

Vintage, contemporary fashion at Reincarnation

THE ROMANCE of the past is beautifully recaptured at Reincarnation, 214 17th Street, Pacific Grove, where woman can indulge their fantasies with vintage and contemporary clothing.

Dresses from the Victorian era can inspire any woman to achieve a special loveliness, especially when she also selects pure silk lingerie and the appropriate hat and other accessories.

Many of the clothes you'll find at Reincarnation are handmade and most are one-of-a-kind. Ladies will love the beautiful blouses in many styles and fabrics from eras past, as well as jackets from the 20s and 40s with their special flair.

Continuing the antique feeling, there are also blouses of Victorian lace, some handmade, all one-of-a-kind that are contemporary despite their design.

Women will appreciate the delicious feeling of kimonos in silk, satin, cotton or rayon, while there are also lounging robes and a variety of shirts and sweaters for men.

A hint: Reincarnation has a special selection of Halloween costumes for sale or rent.

Barbara Siedhoff and Phyllis Decker invite you to join them for a cup of tea and browse through their treasures in unhurried enjoyment.

Always fashion with flair

TRADITIONAL or contemporary, classic or forward-looking, fashion is done with flair at M'Lady Bruhn, Ocean and San Carlos, Carmel.

Welcome fall in perfect fashions by Irka, all in pure silk. Her group of pants, jackets, blouses, skirts and sweaters blend raw silk, raw silk knits and crepe de chine in the softest collection of colors you've seen in years.

Every wardrobe has basics. A Stanley Blacker blazer is an absolute necessity! M'Lady Bruhn has these beautifully tailored classics in pure wool solids and tweeds as well as sensational (and indestructible) hand-loomed Irish Tweed.

Very new from Stanley Blacker this fall are bomber jackets teamed with split skirts and knickers in muted plaids. Sensational!

Separates by Pierre Cardin, activewear by Geoffrey Beene, evening separates by Albert Nipon — these are just a few of the fine designers whose clothes make M'Lady Bruhn a discriminating shopper's paradise!

Casual coordinates abound at Sample Safari in Carmel

CASUAL COORDINATES for work or play abound at Sample Safari, San Carlos and Seventh, Carmel.

White Stag presents a new fall collection in colors and styles to flatter every woman. There are sweaters, blouses, velours, jackets, skirts and slacks, each a perfect wardrobe basic or pick-me-up for the clothes you have.

Condor creates slacks famous for their fit. New fabrics include corduroys in rich autumn tones or woolens.

Smart gals have learned they can find great blouses at Sample Safari. You'll love the feminine, lace look blouses by The Shirt Off My Back. Team them with slacks and skirts to create a great look.

One of the nicest things about Sample Safari is that great new clothes arrive regularly. You'll be happy to discover this shopping adventure.

More than 35 years of experience at Patti's Hair Fashions in CV

AT PATTI'S HAIR FASHIONS, owner Patti and her staff, Pam and Mary, have more than 35 years of experience between them. With their expertise they can help men, women and children of all ages achieve total beauty this fall.

Renate West opens in Carmel Rancho

RENATE WEST, a new beauty salon in the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, offers a well-trained staff of nine and owner, Renate, who received the finest beauty training in Europe and who previously owned a successful salon in Burlingame for six years.

The salon has a pleasing atmosphere. It is spacious, with high ceilings, painted in tan and peach and has a view of the surrounding hills.

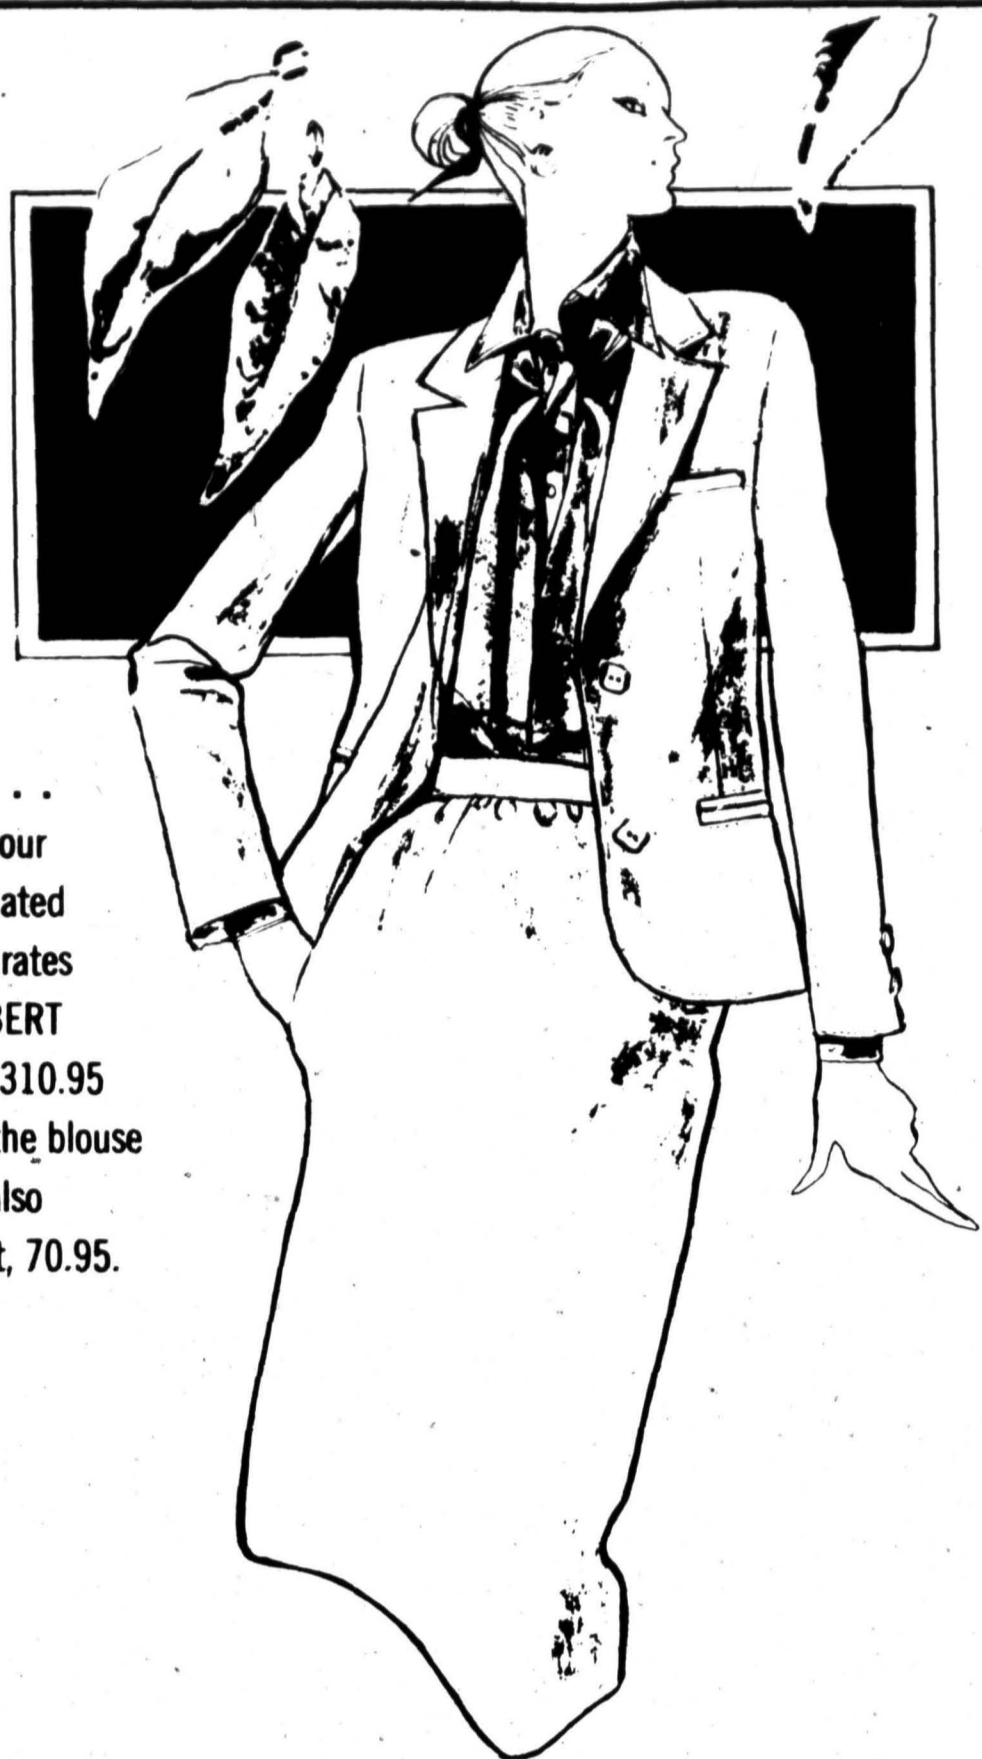

Renate West offers complete hair care and specializes in coloring and foil frosting (an alternative to cap frosting) which offers a professional, precise process to highlight the hair.

In addition to hair care, the shop also offers pedicures, manicures, waxing, lash tinting, arching of the eyebrows, and a cosmetic bar that features a complete line of Espree beauty products.

To complement the soft fall fashion look, Renate and her staff offers a full style with soft curls for women, and for men, a clean look, short hair with no sideburns.

For those interested in learning to maintain their beauty year round, Renate West offers skin care classes, where one can learn to apply make-up, a lift and other beauty tips.

LOVELY LINGERIE completes the total look for fall. Pictured are a coordinating camisole and tap pants set by Vanity Fair, available in wisteria or basic white, beige or black. The separates are from the extensive lingerie department at Holman's, Pacific Grove, the landmark store that celebrated its 90th anniversary this year.

'Most beautiful shopping center in world,' Del Monte Center, to get greenhouse umbrella

A GREENHOUSE UMBRELLA over the mall at Del Monte Shopping Center will create the first multi-department store regional mall in Monterey. Construction is expected to begin early in 1982 with the majority of work completed before the Christmas season.

Del Monte Center is now celebrating its 14th anniversary. Its tile-roofed buildings, gracious oak trees and beautiful open mall have earned it the title of "the most beautiful shopping center in the country." The expansion will maintain the California/Carmel look.

The unique, energy-saving mall enclosure will look like a greenhouse and be structured like a giant umbrella. Automatic temperature and humidity control will take advantage of the balmy days and cool, often foggy nights of the Monterey Peninsula. Lush new landscaping is planned, as well as groups of seating areas to encourage patrons to relax while shopping.

New parking facilities are also planned and new stores are expected to provide a total balance of merchandise selection for customers.

In the meanwhile, Del Monte Center will continue to offer the wide variety of high-quality shops and services that has attracted shoppers from all over the country.

Pure silk, imported fabrics for finest neckties, shirts

"BEST OF CLASS" neckwear and shirts for men and women are the pride of Robert Talbott, whose pure silk and imported fabric neckties are proudly displayed at the finest menswear shops.

Talbott ties and shirts are available in Carmel in shops at Ocean Avenue at Dolores and Monte Verde at Ocean, and at The Lodge in Pebble Beach.

The selection of ties is truly outstanding. Newest are the pastel shades that complement Talbott's fine shirts in solids and stripes, offered with French cuffs and buttondown collars, all in the finest Swiss cotton.

Special motifs are available — golf, tennis, horses and hounds — as well as classic stripes, paisleys and patterns.

When nothing serves but the best, Robert Talbott ties and shirts provide the answer. Men collect his neckwear and treasure gifts bearing his famous label. And discriminating women, too, have come to love and depend on the unswerving quality and workmanship of the lovely collection of Talbott ladies' shirts.

Natural beauty with Bare Escentuals

BE BEAUTIFUL NATURALLY with an exciting line of all-in-one cosmetics called Bare Escentuals. This divine experience in skin care is available at Cornucopia in The Barnyard.

Bare Escentuals is "the everything cosmetic." One formula contours, bronzes, blushes, highlights, shades and lines! Silken powders in shades that are complexion-carded can be used to blend, brush, layer or line.

The opportunity to be demure or dramatic lies in the use of these sheer powders and the result is a beautiful new, natural-looking you!

OUR COVER PHOTO

THE THOROUGHbred LOOK, classically styled for town and country, from Derek Rayne, Ltd., Carmel. His Skye tweed jacket with suede elbow patches and leather buttons is by Southwick, the all-wool slacks are by Majer. A pure cotton turtleneck from Cross Creek completes the ensemble. Majer also created her 100 percent camel hair blazer. The pure wool slacks by David Brook are fully lined. (Photographed at Rancho Laureles Equestrian Center, Carmel Valley.)

Fine jewelry accents your new fall clothing

IS THERE ANYTHING that accents new fall clothes better than fine jewelry?

Michael Sherman's highly individual designs help complete your personal fashion statement. At his Jewelry Designs studio in The Barnyard, Michael offers his creations in precious metals and gems, or will happily work with you to create a custom design.

Long known for his craftsmanship and expertise, Michael offers diamonds, sapphires, rubies, jade, opals, star sapphires and other gemstones to incorporate into rings, pendants, earrings or other pieces.

Pictured is a 4.5 carat genuine tourmaline set in 18 karat gold — unquestionably a perfect stone for fall's natural colors.
